Mrs. Leathe's husband left her five million dollars 18 years ago. In a bankruptcy court she testifies that her total assets are reduced to $600 including a wrist watch worth $300.

Mrs. Leathe kept her money longer than is customary with widows of rich men. Gentlemen who consider it almost a business virtue to rob a woman usually get their money in much less than 18 years.

If you expect to leave a widow or daughters, leave a certain income so tied up that it cannot be stolen from them. A good trust company or the right insurance policy will help to do that.

Of the women made widows by the Shenandoah, all but two must work for a living. Ignorant and incompetent men in the navy department, ignoring the warnings of Commander Lansdowne, made them widows. The government ought to support those women as long as they live. Some congressman should prepare a bill with that idea in mind. Such a bill might make it possible in congress to wipe the coat of whitewash from the Shenandoah investigation and find what really happened.

Poland would like Henry Ford for president or king. Henry Ford, however, is like the British farmer whose clergyman told him he was soon going to heaven. The farmer did not want to go to heaven, he promised to stay here and keep the wolves and mare that went "tip top" over the fences.

Henry Ford would rather stay at Dearborn and be king of the greatest industrial enterprise ever created.

Ford's work in the aircraft is to this nation a blessing of which the importance cannot be exaggerated. It may mean the difference between defeat and victory in the next war, or more probably it may mean that for America there will not be any next war.

Ford offers to build for the government at a cost of $200,000 an all-metal dirigible, 150 feet long. It is the type of aircraft that the world needs, can fly 2,000 miles without coming down. It represents common sense and economy.

There is no doubt that President Coolidge will accept Mr. Ford's offer. He was among the very first to praise and encourage Henry Ford's aircraft plans.

The Protestant Episcopal church house of bishops definitely removes "obey" from the marriage ceremony. Many married ladies had already removed it from the routine of daily life, common sense telling them that if marriage is not an equal partnership, it isn't much.

The old idea about women is dying out not too soon. British husbands no longer are allowed by law to beat their wives with a stick "no thicker than the thumb." The Fernch unwritten law gave fathers authority over their children, according to Westermarck, on the theory that the child was the property of the mother, and the mother was the property of the father.

The Moors, according to the same Westermarck (see "Origin and Development of Moral Ideas") believed that old men became saints and old women witches.

Breach of promise cases prove that old men become foolish and old women have to be very patient.

Attorney Cochran Named State Aide In Anderson Trial

Attorney Blaine H. Cochran today was appointed by Judge James G. Moore of common pleas court, Lisbon, to assist in the prosecution of George Anderson, automobile salesman and former college football star, who is under a second degree murder indictment for the death of Frank R. McLain, taxicab fleet manager, last October 3.

Members of McLain's family engaged Cochran to represent them in the case.

No date has been set for the trial of Anderson, who is in the county jail. He entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned last week.

Three Men Shot to Death In Rooming House Basement

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Three men were shot to death in a mysterious gun battle in the basement of a rooming house at 357 West Fifty-seventh street early today.

None of them were identified. All were about 30 years old.

Police reserves were summoned. They surrounded the place and began a roundup of possible witnesses to the tragedy.

Police were investigating reports that the basement where the shooting took place was used as a "speakeasy."

One of the dead men was partly identified as a partner of Jack Miglioertti, proprietor of the place. The identification was made by Baron Michael Ternow, formerly a captain in the Russian guard.

Miglioretti said he knew none of the victims of the shooting. Police searched the premisese and found several gallons of alleged alcoholic drinks, stored on the first floor. The basement was used as a restaurant.

Miglioretti was arrested.

On the floor near the bodies was found a .38 caliber revolver.

According to Miglioretti, two parties of men were in the place early this morning. Suddenly a fight started, he said. Furniture was thrown about, windows broken and then shots were fired. When he heard the shots, he said, he ran out to summon police.

Eagles' Lodge Plans Old Members' Night Program Tuesday

"Old Members' Night" will be observed by the Fraternal Order of Eagles at the lodge temple in Broadway Tuesday evening.

Every member who has been affiliated with the order for 20 years or more will be awarded an honor button. Two prizes, one six months' dues and another three months' dues, will be given.

A class of candidates will be initiated. M. A. Hyde, of Marietta, will speak. Lunch will be served.

SCHOOL LEVY AND TWO STATE PROPOSALS GET O. K. OF C. OF C.

Urge Support of Three-mill Tax by Electors.

DIRECTORS ACT

Recommend Rejection of Elective Office Term Extender.

The proposed three-mill tax levy for the East Liverpool district schools and the state debt limitation and tax amendments were endorsed, while the four-year office term extender was condemned by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce last night. Superintendent of Schools C. S. McVay, president D. F. White and members F. T. Weaver and C. A. Ferguson, of the school board, appeared before the directors to explain the school tax proposal which, with the state issues, will be submitted to the voters at the Nov. 3 election. They explained additional revenue is necessary if the schools are to be kept open for the nine-month term.

The directors urged support of the school levy, pointing out that taxes will not be increased by its adoption, inasmuch as it means only a renewal of the millage which expires this year. More than an hour was spent in discussing the issue before the endorsement was voted.

Favor World Court.

In approving the debt limitation proposal, it was argued that the purpose of the amendment was "to secure fundamental principles of sound public finance from periodical attacks of the legislature.' The two principles involved in the amendment, the directors were advised, was that "no borrowing for current expenses" would be permitted and "no bonds running longer than the life of the assets acquired" could be issued.

The proposed tax amendment, if approved, it was declared, would put billions of dollars worth of intangible

Preparatory to the establishment of a municipal court here on January 1, 1926, the city council last night approved on first reading an ordinance reducing the mayor's salary from $1,800 to $1,200 per year. The vote on the measure was 4 to 3.

Other highlights of the meeting were:

Instructed Solicitor Harry Brokaw to employ whatever assistance may be needed to call state tax commission's attention to proposed tax rate for 1926 which, it is claimed, will mean a cut of $32,000 to $34,000 in the municipality's revenue.

Friends may view the body Sunday afternoon and evening at the Sturgis funeral home.

WILBUR SCORES NAVAL CRITICS

Secretary Defends Policies, Absolves Navy of Disaster Blame.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A strong defense of present naval policies, and absolution of the navy from blame for the Shenandoah, the S-51 and other recent disasters came today from secretary of the navy Wilbur.

A speech to the national congregational conference inspired Wilbur's plea to the country to "Go along" with the navy and not criticise it at every turn.

In the disasters, Wilbur saw, not "criminal negligence and bungling amateurism", as Col. William Mitchell did, but heroism of the highest order, worthy of the finest traditions of the naval service, proof, he said, that the navy is functioning properly.

A navy without an occosional mishap, horrible sometimes as the consequences may be, is no navy at all, he said, for "there are risks to be assumed in peace as well as in time of war."

Wilbur glanced back to the early days of his administration and recounted the catastrophes that have befallen the navy since the time, and for each he had this underlying defense, found this comfort:

"If there were no accidents in the navy, no mishaps to submarines, no mishaps to surface vessels, no mishaps to aircraft, we would know that the navy was not alive, that it was not being operated according to correct principles, and that it was avoiding the hazards incident to the full utilization of the means of defense placed in its hands".

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—"What the youth of the country need is not more public control through governmental action, but more home control through parental action."

This sage piece of advice was handed out to American parents today by Calvin Coolidge, president and father, in the course of an address to the international convention of the Y. M. C. A.'s of the United States and Canada.

While not mentioning by name either jazz or the myriad other "evils" that are supposed to be afflicting the youth of today, the president made it emphatic that he clings to the old-fashioned belief that the home, and not the state, is responsible for the upbringing of the child. Parents, he said, cannot shift their responsibility to the state.

"There are too many indications that the functions of parenthood are breaking down," observed the president.

Praises Y. M. C. A.

"Too many people are neglicting the real wellbeing of their children, shifting the responsibility for their actions and turning over supervision of their discipline and conduct to the juvenile courts.

"It is stated on high authority that a very large proportion of the outcasts and criminals come from the ranks of those who lost the advantage of normal parental control in their youth.

"The home is the corner-stone of the nation, and any effective better-home movement must begin with the training of the youth for those responsibilities, or we shall see the disposition to attempt in some way to turn over to the government the responsibilities for the rearing of children constantly increased.

"What the youth of the country need is not more public control, through governmental action, but more home control through parental action."

The president praised the Y. M. C. A. as one of the agencies that seek to keep present-day youth with its feet on the ground.

"This movement," he said, "has brought into existence and organized one of the greatest lay forces the world has ever seen. One of the chief characteristics of Christianity is that it is a militant and crusading faith.

"Those who have become partakers of its inspirations and its consolidations, since it first began its early march over the hostile territory of the Roman empire, have been constantly spreading its truths among all their associates. If that faith is to maintain its vitality that work must go on.

"It is not enough that there should be action in the pulpits—there must be reaction in the pews. It will not be sufficient to have exalted preaching by the clergy unless there is exalted living by the laity. Your Christian associations represent a practical effort to organize and augment in every field the lay forces and to translate the truths of religion into the life of the people."

The international aspect of the association movement came in for particular commendation from the president.

"Perhaps one of the most significant results that is flowing from all these movements," he said, "is the unifying influence they are producing. We do not all need to be alike, but it is usually more helpful and certainly more comfortable to put the most emphasis on those characteristics which we have in common, rather than dwell too much on divergences and dissimilarities.

"One leads to friendship and cooperation, while the other is likely to develop contention and animosity.

"Amid all the divergent influences that have been manifesting themselves among the different peoples of the earth in recent times, it is exceedingly reassuring to realize there is a quiet and constructive effort on the part of a worldwide brotherhood of Christian youth for coordination and harmony.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Sturgis funeral home, West Fifth street. Rev. Dr. D. W. MacLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will be in charge. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends may view the body Sunday afternoon and evening at the Sturgis funeral home.

WILBUR SCORES NAVAL CRITICS

Secretary Defends Policies, Absolves Navy of Disaster Blame.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A strong defense of present naval policies, and absolution of the navy from blame for the Shenandoah, the S-51 and other recent disasters came today from secretary of the navy Wilbur.

A speech to the national congregational conference inspired Wilbur's plea to the country to "Go along" with the navy and not criticise it at every turn.

In the disasters, Wilbur saw, not "criminal negligence and bungling amateurism", as Col. William Mitchell did, but heroism of the highest order, worthy of the finest traditions of the naval service, proof, he said, that the navy is functioning properly.

A navy without an occosional mishap, horrible sometimes as the consequences may be, is no navy at all, he said, for "there are risks to be assumed in peace as well as in time of war."

Wilbur glanced back to the early days of his administration and recounted the catastrophes that have befallen the navy since the time, and for each he had this underlying defense, found this comfort:

"If there were no accidents in the navy, no mishaps to submarines, no mishaps to surface vessels, no mishaps to aircraft, we would know that the navy was not alive, that it was not being operated according to correct principles, and that it was avoiding the hazards incident to the full utilization of the means of defense placed in its hands".

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—"What the youth of the country need is not more public control through governmental action, but more home control through parental action."

This sage piece of advice was handed out to American parents today by Calvin Coolidge, president and father, in the course of an address to the international convention of the Y. M. C. A.'s of the United States and Canada.

While not mentioning by name either jazz or the myriad other "evils" that are supposed to be afflicting the youth of today, the president made it emphatic that he clings to the old-fashioned belief that the home, and not the state, is responsible for the upbringing of the child. Parents, he said, cannot shift their responsibility to the state.

"There are too many indications that the functions of parenthood are breaking down," observed the president.

Praises Y. M. C. A.

"Too many people are neglicting the real wellbeing of their children, shifting the responsibility for their actions and turning over supervision of their discipline and conduct to the juvenile courts.

"It is stated on high authority that a very large proportion of the outcasts and criminals come from the ranks of those who lost the advantage of normal parental control in their youth.

"The home is the corner-stone of the nation, and any effective better-home movement must begin with the training of the youth for those responsibilities, or we shall see the disposition to attempt in some way to turn over to the government the responsibilities for the rearing of children constantly increased.

"What the youth of the country need is not more public control, through governmental action, but more home control through parental action."

The president praised the Y. M. C. A. as one of the agencies that seek to keep present-day youth with its feet on the ground.

"This movement," he said, "has brought into existence and organized one of the greatest lay forces the world has ever seen. One of the chief characteristics of Christianity is that it is a militant and crusading faith.

"Those who have become partakers of its inspirations and its consolidations, since it first began its early march over the hostile territory of the Roman empire, have been constantly spreading its truths among all their associates. If that faith is to maintain its vitality that work must go on.

"It is not enough that there should be action in the pulpits—there must be reaction in the pews. It will not be sufficient to have exalted preaching by the clergy unless there is exalted living by the laity. Your Christian associations represent a practical effort to organize and augment in every field the lay forces and to translate the truths of religion into the life of the people."

The international aspect of the association movement came in for particular commendation from the president.

"Perhaps one of the most significant results that is flowing from all these movements," he said, "is the unifying influence they are producing. We do not all need to be alike, but it is usually more helpful and certainly more comfortable to put the most emphasis on those characteristics which we have in common, rather than dwell too much on divergences and dissimilarities.

"One leads to friendship and cooperation, while the other is likely to develop contention and animosity.

"Amid all the divergent influences that have been manifesting themselves among the different peoples of the earth in recent times, it is exceedingly reassuring to realize there is a quiet and constructive effort on the part of a worldwide brotherhood of Christian youth for coordination and harmony.

Radio Will Announce Price of Vegetables To Market Purchaser

MARSEILLES.—"String beans four francs per kilo! Tomatoes two franc per pound!" So will announce the loud speakers in the Marseilles markets if the plans of the Municipal authorities materialize.

That the housewife doing her marketing may know the official prices, a central station at City hall will announce hourly, on market days, the current prices which will be carried by wire to loud speakers installed in advantageous places in all the markets. The housewife in this way may stand in front of the onions, carrots or peaches and check up the price card with the official announcement.

PENNSY CUTS DAMAGE CLAIMS

During the first six months of last year the treasurer of the Pennsylvania railroad handed out $1,430,453.77 to patrons as payments for claims for loss and damage, or at the rate of nearly $3,000,000,000 a year.

To offset this stupendous drain upon earnings, the C. & P. division has begun a concentrated drive to reduce claims. The first step has been a campaign to see that sewer pipe, fireproofing, flue lining, segment blocks, hollow building tile and the like is properly packed.

Investigation by H. K. Rogers, extra agent, who has been placed in charge of this drive, developed that much of this material was improperly packed and braced, and that straw was seldom used in packing, although provided for in the rules.

Before the campaign started on his division the claims on 1,000 cars of sewer pipe, etc., amounted to nearly $16,000 for breakage alone, but so well did Rogers do his work that only $890 is now wpaid for claims on 1,000 cars of this material. And many plants on the C. & P. division load a thousand cars of vitreous products in a month.

And the shippers are pleased, also. W. M. Council, traffic manager, National Fireproofing company of Pittsburgh, stated recently that during February and March he had occasion to file claims which averaged $19 a car for breakage, while of all the cars they loaded in a period subsequent to April 1 he had but a single claim, and it for but $13.77, an average of practically nothing per car since the better methods of loading have prevailed.

The net result of this campaign on the C. & P. division discloses that the average admage claim on vitreous products has been reduced from approximately $15 to $89 a car.

CITIZENSHIP DAY PROGRAM PLANNED

Two special services, in recognition of "Better Citizenship Day" will be held Sunday in the First United Presbyterian church here.

A day given to the consideration of our political principles is becoming increasingly popular in the churches of America, according to Rev. Robert Ustick, pastor, and the services Sunday are planned with this end in view.

At the morning service at 11 o'clock Rev. Ustick will deliver a special sermon on "Waiting Under the Rainbow—a Biblical Review of the First Great Reformer." Music by the choir will feature the service.

In the evening Rev. Ustick will have as his sermon subject, "The Man We Want for Mayor." A comparative study of the first great statesman will be a part of this discussion.

Several special features will add to this service, including a short dialogue on "The Greatest Moral Issue Now Before the American People," selections by a brass quartet and music by the choir.

Rev. Ustick has extended an invitation to the public to attend the services.

EASTERN STARS TO HOLD SERVICE

Officers and members of Wellsville chapter No. 417, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold special services for Edward Silicox, Fifteenth street, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Silicox residence.

Members of the organization will assemble immediately before the services at the home of Charles Snediker, in Fifteenth street, and from the Snediker residence will go in a body to the Silicox home.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock in charge of Rev. Ernest Games, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, and Wellsville lodge No. 180, F. & A. M. The body will be taken to Steubenville, following the services, and burial will be made in Union cemetery there.

Kochert-Williamson Wedding.

Miss Gladys M. Kochert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Kochert, Henry avenue, and Clarence M. Williamson, Tenth street, were married today in the parsonage of the Second Presbyterian church, Eighteenth street, Rev. Thomas G. Berger, performed the ceremony.

They left on a honeymoon trip to the east and upon their return will reside at the home of the bride's parents.

Notice!

Members of Wellsville lodge No. 180, F. & A. M., will meet at the temple on Monday, October 26, at 12 o'clock to attend the funeral of the late Brother Edward Silicox.

F. A. SALTSMAN, Secretary.

Mrs. Rose Wilfing Home.

Mrs. Rose Wilfing, of Tenth street, who has been a patient in the West Penn hospital, Pittsburgh, has been removed to her home here. She is said to be recovering rapidly from the effects of a recent operation.

MRS. A. S. CAMPBELL HOSTESS TO CLUB

Plans were arranged for a food sale, to be held on Saturday, Oct. 31, in Cope's Hardware store, Main street, for the benefit of the community rest room in the city hall building, established by the club.

The following program was given by club members:

"John Galsworthy"—Mrs. A. B. Murdock.

"Christopher Morley"—Miss Nan Stevenson.

Mrs. Leonard Aughinbaugh sang two songs, "The Home Road," by John Alden Carpenter, and "O, Robin, Little Robin," by Francis McCallin. She was accompanied by Mrs. Stephen Orne.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Friday, November 6, at the home of Miss Elsie Berg, Tenth street.

COLUMBINE CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Members of the Columbinq club met last evening at the home of Mrs. William Strock, Fourteenth street, where they were entertained by Mrs. John Storck and Mrs. John Dash.

The affair took the form of a masquerade party. Following the regular business session games and guessing contests were diversions. Prizes were won by Mrs. Mary Dalby and Mrs. Zetta Schmidt.

Twelve guests enjoyed the hospitality of the club. At the close of the affair, luncheon was served by the hostesses.

The next meeting of the organization will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Leonard Kinzel, in Nevada street.

Miss Cooper Hostess.

Miss Harriet Cooper was hostess to Sunday school class No. 7, of the First Presbyterian church recently at her home here.

The affair took the form of a Hallowe'en party. Games and contests were diversions. Luncheon was served by the hostess. The club guests included Beulah Downard, Melia Lucas, Margaret Wyper, Gladys Holliday and Lulu Powell.

To Show Religious Picture.

A two-reel religious moving picture will be shown on Sunday evening in church in connection with the regular evening services, Rev. Ernest Games, pastor, announced today.

The picture is titled, "Is There a Place Under the Sun?" The services will begin at 7:30. Rev. Games has extended an invitation to the public and, especially, to young people.

Fortnightly Club Meeting.

Members of the Fortnightly Fancywork club were entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. A. Moore, Tenth street.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Sarah, and Miss Kerr. Mrs. Bowles was a guest.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. D. N. MacLean, in Riverside avenue.

'Man and Maid' Real Love Tale

Latest Elinor Glyn Picture Thrilling Romance of War Hero.

The sets as well as the people are real in Elinor Glyn's Metro-Goldyn-Mayer production of "Man and Maid", which is coming to the American Theatre on Monday.

Madame Gyln in writing her novels puts in real life characters and actual incidents. Then in bringing her stories to the screen she transcribes them accurately and casts exactly as to type.

The heroine in "Man and Maid" was a tall slender, tragic eyed blonde, a close friend of Madame Glyn's. Harriet Hammond looked identically like the original, so she was given the role, though she had been away from the screen for two years and previous to that time had only been connected with pictures as a player of small parts.

Lew Cody was so exactly like the hero of Madame Glyn's tale that she couldn't resist taking him for the part, though everyone warned her that he was essentially the "heavy". She won her point conclusively when he was shown on the screen as Sir Nicholas Thormonde, for every semblance of his villaining had been lost and in its place stood the real lover.

You Won't Know It's The Same Suit

WORN and bedraggled wrinkled and sort of discouraged a suit wends it weary way into our cleaning and pressing department and comes back smiling and stylishly serviceable.

Our regular sponging and pressing plan makes an appeal to the good dressers who like to systematize their affairs and appearance.

During the first six months of last year the treasurer of the Pennsylvania railroad handed out $1,430,453.77 to patrons as payments for claims for loss and damage, or at the rate of nearly $3,000,000,000 a year.

To offset this stupendous drain upon earnings, the C. & P. division has begun a concentrated drive to reduce claims. The first step has been a campaign to see that sewer pipe, fireproofing, flue lining, segment blocks, hollow building tile and the like is properly packed.

Investigation by H. K. Rogers, extra agent, who has been placed in charge of this drive, developed that much of this material was improperly packed and braced, and that straw was seldom used in packing, although provided for in the rules.

Before the campaign started on his division the claims on 1,000 cars of sewer pipe, etc., amounted to nearly $16,000 for breakage alone, but so well did Rogers do his work that only $890 is now wpaid for claims on 1,000 cars of this material. And many plants on the C. & P. division load a thousand cars of vitreous products in a month.

And the shippers are pleased, also. W. M. Council, traffic manager, National Fireproofing company of Pittsburgh, stated recently that during February and March he had occasion to file claims which averaged $19 a car for breakage, while of all the cars they loaded in a period subsequent to April 1 he had but a single claim, and it for but $13.77, an average of practically nothing per car since the better methods of loading have prevailed.

The net result of this campaign on the C. & P. division discloses that the average admage claim on vitreous products has been reduced from approximately $15 to $89 a car.

CITIZENSHIP DAY PROGRAM PLANNED

Two special services, in recognition of "Better Citizenship Day" will be held Sunday in the First United Presbyterian church here.

A day given to the consideration of our political principles is becoming increasingly popular in the churches of America, according to Rev. Robert Ustick, pastor, and the services Sunday are planned with this end in view.

At the morning service at 11 o'clock Rev. Ustick will deliver a special sermon on "Waiting Under the Rainbow—a Biblical Review of the First Great Reformer." Music by the choir will feature the service.

In the evening Rev. Ustick will have as his sermon subject, "The Man We Want for Mayor." A comparative study of the first great statesman will be a part of this discussion.

Several special features will add to this service, including a short dialogue on "The Greatest Moral Issue Now Before the American People," selections by a brass quartet and music by the choir.

Rev. Ustick has extended an invitation to the public to attend the services.

EASTERN STARS TO HOLD SERVICE

Officers and members of Wellsville chapter No. 417, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold special services for Edward Silicox, Fifteenth street, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Silicox residence.

Members of the organization will assemble immediately before the services at the home of Charles Snediker, in Fifteenth street, and from the Snediker residence will go in a body to the Silicox home.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock in charge of Rev. Ernest Games, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, and Wellsville lodge No. 180, F. & A. M. The body will be taken to Steubenville, following the services, and burial will be made in Union cemetery there.

Kochert-Williamson Wedding.

Miss Gladys M. Kochert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Kochert, Henry avenue, and Clarence M. Williamson, Tenth street, were married today in the parsonage of the Second Presbyterian church, Eighteenth street, Rev. Thomas G. Berger, performed the ceremony.

They left on a honeymoon trip to the east and upon their return will reside at the home of the bride's parents.

Notice!

Members of Wellsville ledge No. 180, F. & A. M., will meet at the temple on Monday, October 26, at 12 o'clock to attend the funeral of the late Brother Edward Silicox.

Mrs. Rose Wilfing Home.

Mrs. Rose Wilfing, of Tenth street, who has been a patient in the West Penn hospital, Pittsburgh, has been removed to her home here. She is said to be recovering rapidly from the effects of a recent operation.

MRS. A. S. CAMPBELL HOSTESS TO CLUB

Plans were arranged for a food sale, to be held on Saturday, Oct. 31, in Cope's Hardware store, Main street, for the benefit of the community rest room in the city hall building, established by the club.

The following program was given by club members:

"John Galsworthy"—Mrs. A. B. Murdock.

"Christopher Morley"—Miss Nan Stevenson.

Mrs. Leonard Aughinbaugh sang two songs, "The Home Road," by John Alden Carpenter, and "O, Robin, Little Robin," by Francis McCallin. She was accompanied by Mrs. Stephen Orne.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Friday, November 6, at the home of Miss Elsie Berg, Tenth street.

COLUMBINE CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Members of the Columbinq club met last evening at the home of Mrs. William Strock, Fourteenth street, where they were entertained by Mrs. John Storck and Mrs. John Dash.

The affair took the form of a masquerade party. Following the regular business session games and guessing contests were diversions. Prizes were won by Mrs. Mary Dalby and Mrs. Zetta Schmidt.

Twelve guests enjoyed the hospitality of the club. At the close of the affair, luncheon was served by the hostesses.

The next meeting of the organization will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Leonard Kinzel, in Nevada street.

Miss Cooper Hostess.

Miss Harriet Cooper was hostess to Sunday school class No. 7, of the First Presbyterian church recently at her home here.

The affair took the form of a Hallowe'en party. Games and contests were diversions. Luncheon was served by the hostess. The club guests included Beulah Downard, Mella Lucas, Margaret Wyper, Gladys Holliday and Lulu Powell.

To Show Religious Picture.

A two-reel religious moving picture will be shown on Sunday evening in church in connection with the regular evening services, Rev. Ernest Games, pastor, announced today.

The picture is titled, "Is There a Place Under the Sun?" The services will begin at 7:30. Rev. Games has extended an invitation to the public and, especially, to young people.

Fortnightly Club Meeting.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Sarah, and Miss Kerr. Mrs. Bowles was a guest.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. D. N. MacLean, in Riverside avenue.

'Man and Maid' Real Love Tale

Latest Elinor Glyn Picture Thrilling Romance of War Hero.

The sets as well as the people are real in Elinor Glyn's Metro-Goldyn-Mayer production of "Man and Maid", which is coming to the American Theatre on Monday.

Madame Gyln in writing her novels puts in real life characters and actual incidents. Then in bringing her stories to the screen she transcribes them accurately and casts exactly as to type.

The heroine in "Man and Maid" was a tall slender, tragic eyed blonde, a close friend of Madame Glyn's. Harriet Hammond looked identically like the original, so she was given the role, though she had been away from the screen for two years and previous to that time had only been connected with pictures as a player of small parts.

Lew Cody was so exactly like the hero of Madame Glyn's tale that she couldn't resist taking him for the part, though everyone warned her that he was essentially the "heavy". She won her point conclusively when he was shown on the screen as Sir Nicholas Thormonde, for every semblance of his villaining had been lost and in its place stood the real lover.

Common Sense Road Program

Columbiana county electors will vote Tuesday, November 3, upon the question of putting dollars in their pockets.

This, in short, is the plan of the commissioners in submitting to the voters a proposed $950,000 bond issue for the purpose of giving the Ohio river county one of the most extensive road building programs ever mapped out—a plan that means a good highway for every city, village and rural district within their jurisdiction.

The proposal, if approved, assures the improvement of all gaps that now nullify the availability of many important arteries of transportation. Its defeat means road building will practically stop in the county in 1926 because of the enactment of new laws governing the work.

The county's investment in the program will prompt equal contributions from the state and federal highways departments, but this is contingent, of course, upon the voters' approval of the proposed bond issue.

And, too, taxpayers shall not increase their road taxes by supporting the plan, for, with the discontinuance of the two-mill levy in three years, a greater amount will be taken off the rates for road purposes than will be added by the $950.000 investment.

This common sense program should be supported.

End Of Armed Occupation

On the very day that the treaty of Locarno was signed, the last French troops marched out of the Ruhr. Germany's great industrial region is now completely in the hands of its owners again for the first time in nearly three years.

So ends the great adventure entered upon so gaily by the sword-rattling Poincare. When Germany failed in some obligations assumed under the Versailles treaty, he conceived no remedy but armed force. Deferred payments, in kind and cash, were to be collected by armies. But all that his armies succeeded in doing was to enrage the Germans, retard industrial production in Germany and interfere with the normal process of collection. France got less with her armies than she had got without them.

Sword-rattling gave way to reason and conciliation. Germans, being human, responded. The present outlook is that Germany will meet her obligations willingly and fully, as agreed upon under the Dawes plan. And France now plans to withdraw her troops from the Rhine. It looks like a new era. That way lies hope. The other way could only lead to further war.

Coal

The big surplus stock of hard coal that was regarded so reassuringly when the strike began doesn't seem to work as expected. Speculators are said to have gobbled it up. And dealers would be more than human if they failed to take advantage of a glorious opportunity. So coal in eastern cities is $20 to $25 a ton, and New York is going to let down the smoke restrictions so that people can burn soft coal.

The sections accustomed to anthracite can burn bituminous, of course—with a by-product of unaccustomed smoke and dirt, and with the payment of exorbitant prices for that commodity. Whereupon all the rest of the country will pay higher prices for its fuel. Even fuel oil will feel the pressure and rise in harmony.

There are some troubles, too, in the soft coal fields.

There are prophecies of a long, cold winter, and the weather so far is not reassuring. At any rate, winter is coming on fast. And nobody is doing anything about it. The universal policy seems to be, "Let nature take its course." Which would be all right if nature—especially human nature—didn't sometimes wreck things when let alone too long.

Kicking At Home

"I want to kick to local authority," says Herbert Hoover, referring especially to public regulation of electrical utilities, "when the power rates are unjust. I want to kick where the searchlight of public opinion and local knowledge can be brought to bear. Far more than this, I want to live in a community which governs itself. I do not believe the people of our communities have yet become so supine or careless of the fundamental advantages of self-government that they are ready to surrender control of their most intimate concerns to a paternal government at Washington, however wise or however powerful."

Public authority in this country has failed to a large extent because the people have tried to center it in Washington and then forget about it. We are now beginning to realize that no community should delegate to a more distant authority a task that it can attend to itself.

With cities and states attending to their public business themselves, there is a chance always for the local kick, which has infinitely more vitality than long-range representation at a national capital. And a community that governs itself by kicking like a steer every time things go wrong is a live community, worth living in.

Florida histories say that Ponce de Leon was disappointed in his hope of finding the Fountain of Youth. And yet it may be that sulphur water was just what his system needed.

No, the Florida land boom isn't like the California gold rush. Florida fortune-hunters bring their gold with them.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Wives of famous men do not lead such idyllic lives as might be supposed. Most of them are overshadowed by personalities of their husbands and must sit in the background when more than likely they are responsible for their husbands' success. And know it.

They strike me as good sports. They go the weary rounds listening to stories they have heard endless times and contributing wooden property smiles. I doubt if any man can really be a hero to his wife any more than he can be to his valet.

Feminine intuition is keen and soon senses the stuff of which heroes are made. They discover the clay feet long before the public. A celebrity I admire very much has offended many. He ignores all invitations that do not include his wife.

There is one wife who cracked under the strain one evening. She had been included with her husband in a rather brilliant gathering. She sat in a secluded corner while one after another contributed a bright bit of the evening.

Finally the hostess spied her and said tactlessly: "And what can you do for us?" All eyes were turned upon her and she replied: "Nothing but listen and be bored." She happens to be an accomplished harpist and a sparkling conversationalist but is content for her husband to take all honors.

Wives of these men are quick to detect insincerity long before their husbands. They know the law of the pack—a kowtow and back pat on the mountain top and an snub in the valley. Yet genuine admiration for their husbands is graciously welcomed.

I have watched men rocking on their pedestal. The subsequent crash is one of the most poignant of all human tragedies. They learn that only the Salvation Army takes seriously the dictum: "A man may be down but never out."

New Yorkers take old age gracefully. A pleasant sight. Their hair was silver and you somehow thought of the glitter of moonbeams on cobwebs. He was in evening clothes and she in black evening gown. They started the meal with something suspiciously like cocktails. He was deaf and her voice rose above the din—altogether unconscious of being heard. Others did not interest them. They were engrossed in each other and their talk was of other days—of Ward McAllister balls, horse cars and Booth and Barrett.

At another table sat a young couple of the Scottfitzgerald age. He did the talking, but she was one of those types — perhaps you've met them—who gazes over the shoulder and seems vitally interested in something far away at critical points in the story but he carried on bravely. When she talked, if you are interested, she told of a girl friend who was having a gown made to match the color of her dog.

A rain around the dinner hour in Gotham costs restaurants $125,000 and adds about half that much to receipts of delicatessen dealers.

There is a cult of rain walkers. They don galoshes and mackintoshes and usually strike out for the graveled path in Central Park. There is, they declare, a mental stimulus in walking in a slashing rain and that it is restful to frayed nerves.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Government Reservations

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—From time to time since the earliest days of the Government, Congress has passed acts withdrawing certain sections of the public land for Government use. Subsequently some of these reservations have been found to be no longer necessary and have been annulled, opening the land to the public.

Taken singly these many reservations of timber, oil, and coal lands have but little significance, but pieced together into a consecutive history they help to tell the story of the development of our modern national defense.

For as the wooden vessel gave way to the steel man-of-war, and the coal-burning ship was superseded by the oil burner, which finally was forced to divide honors with the airplane, the Government has systematically set aside the cream of the national resources for the construction of armaments.

Buried in the archieves of the General Land Office of the Interior Department is a record of the first timber reservations, made over a hundred years ago, for the use of the Navy in the construction of warships.

Back in 1817, long before steel was used for shipbuilding, an act of Congress provided that the Secretary of the Navy should have lands growing suitable live oak and red cedar trees explored and selections of them made, to be withdrawn for supplying the Navy with timber.

Under this act, in November 1818, two Government agents set out to explore the wilds of Louisiana and Alabama in search of valuable timber land. After several months of hardship and struggle with Indians and escaped criminals they returned and recommended the withdrawal of large tracts along the Mississippi river.

In 1819 other large tracts of timber land were reserved in Florida. These withdrawals were known as the "Live Oak Reservations," and were made officially by President Andrew Jackson. The selections were made by seven agents of the Navy Department sent to the timber district to reserve from sale such public lands as had trees valuable for shipbuilding purposes. Each agent was given a definite district to examine, and was allowed compensation of $1800 a year with $1.25 per day for the expense of himself and his horse.

There is also a record of a certain J. W. Dabney, of Alachua county, Florida, who wrote to the Secretary of the Navy that he had bought at a sale in the city of Tallahasse, 730 acres of the finest live oak land to be found in any part of the United States, and "that it never would have been brought into market until the timber had been secured to the Government if the deputy surveyor had done his duty." Mr. Dabney stated that he had started to clear the tract for planting, and offered to sell the timber to the Government as would also the other gentlemen owning land in that section.

Poaching On Public Preserves

Apparently the Government had no small difficulty in maintaining the integrity of these timber reservations, because an act of February 23, 1822, provided that the President might use the land and naval forces of the United States to prevent trespasses on Government timber land in Florida.

During the next decade there were frequent reports of depredations of the national timber, and in 1831 an agent informed the General Land Office that "there are within fifty miles of this place 5 steam mills, several of them located upon public lands, and all of them draw their supply of timber from public lands, and a New Orleans newspaper, in recapitulating the injury done by one of the recent storms, estimated the loss of rafts driven from the leves at over $20,000, and all of these were cut from the public lands."

To cut down the extent of these trespasses the naval agents stationed in the timber country to select further tracts for withdrawal were commissioned also to prevent depredations, and to make constant reports to the Secretary of the Navy.

In spite of this pillaging of Government timber, the task of building a Navy went ahead speedily in those days when billowing canvas dominated the high seas, and many a fine frigate sailed out of the Navy yard, built of sound timber from the Government's wide tracts.

Then toward the end of the first half of the nineteenth century came the beginnings of the era of iron—and later steel—constructed ships, which were in time, practically to drive wooden vessels off the seas.

Before long the American Navy was slowly being transformed from a wooden to a metal fleet. This change is accurately recorded through the gradual abandonment of the Navy's timber reserves.

By act of Congress on March 3, 1843, the first of the annulments of timber withdrawals was made. In 1846, 1853, 1879, and 1895 still more of the timber reservations came to an end through acts annulling the withdrawals and returning the land to the public domain. Finally in February, 1923, the last law passed by Congress on the subject annulled the last of these early timber reservations of the Navy.

Coal Need For Fuel

When steam power took the place of wind and sail, the Government next was faced with the problem of keeping its ships well supplied with fuel. During the nineteenth and early part of the twentieth century coal exclusively was used for steamships.

For a long time little attention was given to the fact that the more desirable of the coal resources of the United States were not inexhaustible. But in the early part of this century it began to be apparent that valuable coal fields were being taken out of the public domain through the taking up of agricultural lands by homesteaders.

To prevent further looting of the nation's coal resources, President Taft directed the Secretary of the Interior to withdraw from entry all valuable coal lands. This was the beginning of the large coal reservations now held by the Government.

The establishment of the coal reserves necessitated the withdrawal of all tracts on which there was a reasonable probability of the presence of coal. These lands were then examined as rapidly as possible, and the non-coal land restored to entry.

The work of appraising coal lands and withdrawing certain sections for Government use has been carried on steadily, until, according to the latest figures available at the Interior Department, there are now more than thirty-one million acres of coal reservations.

The next step in the development of the modern naval vessel was the oil-burning ship. By 1910 the Navy's new ships were being designed to burn oil instead of coal, and in 1912 the first two naval oil reserves were created. These reserves comprised 68,249 acres in California.

Since that time the Government withdrawal of oil lands has continued until there are now about six and a half million acres of oil and oil shale lands under reservation.

When the airplane came into prominence during the war it again became necessary for the Government to make timber reservations as a part of the nation's armament program. It was found that the best airplane propellers could be made from spruce wood. Accordingly, by executive orders of May 2 and August 16, 1918, an area of approximately 215,680 acres around Lituya Bay on the southeastern coast of Alaska, containing a good stand of Sitka spruce, was withdrawn.

The timber has not yet been used for the proposed purpose but is still being reserved for the time when it may be needed, although the reserved area has been included in the Tongass National Forest.

Since the development of the dirigible, the Government also has reserved some tracts containing valuable helium deposits to be used in the manufacture of helium gas.

A man is some one who spends almost as much time packing for a month's vacation as a woman does getting herself into six ounces of organdie.—Defiance Crescent-News.

Mrs. Saunders Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Troubles of Change of Life

Knoxville, Tenn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while going through the Change of Life. I was very nervous, could not sleep and had melancholy spells. In fact, I was nearly insane at times and my memory was almost a blank. I was so weak I could not do my housework half of the time and suffered dreadfully with my back. My doctor said I would have to worry it out and I went through this for three years before I began taking the Vegetable Compound which I saw advertised. I think it was eight bottles that I took. It has been two years since I took any and I haven't had a doctor since for that trouble, I do all my washing and ironing and I have gained from 116 to 138 pounds. I feel so well I think I do not need any medicine now, but I advise all women who suffer physically and mentally as I did to give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. I hope it will do as much for them as it did for me."—Mrs. T. A. SAUNDERS, 711 E. Depot Street, Knoxville, Tenn.

Common Sense Road Program

Columbiana county electors will vote Tuesday, November 3, upon the question of putting dollars in their pockets.

This, in short, is the plan of the commissioners in submitting to the voters a proposed $950,000 bond issue for the purpose of giving the Ohio river county one of the most extensive road building programs ever mapped out—a plan that means a good highway for every city, village and rural district within their jurisdiction.

The proposal, if approved, assures the improvement of all gaps that now nullify the availability of many important arteries of transportation. Its defeat means road building will practically stop in the county in 1926 because of the enactment of new laws governing the work.

The county's investment in the program will prompt equal contributions from the state and federal highways departments, but this is contingent, of course, upon the voters' approval of the proposed bond issue.

And, too, taxpayers shall not increase their road taxes by supporting the plan, for, with the discontinuance of the two-mill levy in three years, a greater amount will be taken off the rates for road purposes than will be added by the $950.000 investment.

This common sense program should be supported.

End Of Armed Occupation

On the very day that the treaty of Locarno was signed, the last French troops marched out of the Ruhr. Germany's great industrial region is now completely in the hands of its owners again for the first time in nearly three years.

So ends the great adventure entered upon so gaily by the sword-rattling Poincare. When Germany failed in some obligations assumed under the Versailles treaty, he conceived no remedy but armed force. Deferred payments, in kind and cash, were to be collected by armies. But all that his armies succeeded in doing was to enrage the Germans, retard industrial production in Germany and interfere with the normal process of collection. France got less with her armies than she had got without them.

Sword-rattling gave way to reason and conciliation. Germans, being human, responded. The present outlook is that Germany will meet her obligations willingly and fully, as agreed upon under the Dawes plan. And France now plans to withdraw her troops from the Rhine. It looks like a new era. That way lies hope. The other way could only lead to further war.

Coal

The big surplus stock of hard coal that was regarded so reassuringly when the strike began doesn't seem to work as expected. Speculators are said to have gobbled it up. And dealers would be more than human if they failed to take advantage of a glorious opportunity. So coal in eastern cities is $20 to $25 a ton, and New York is going to let down the smoke restrictions so that people can burn soft coal.

The sections accustomed to anthracite can burn bituminous, of course—with a by-product of unaccustomed smoke and dirt, and with the payment of exorbitant prices for that commodity. Whereupon all the rest of the country will pay higher prices for its fuel. Even fuel oil will feel the pressure and rise in harmony.

There are some troubles, too, in the soft coal fields.

There are prophecies of a long, cold winter, and the weather so far is not reassuring. At any rate, winter is coming on fast. And nobody is doing anything about it. The universal policy seems to be, "Let nature take its course." Which would be all right if nature—especially human nature—didn't sometimes wreck things when let alone too long.

Kicking At Home

"I want to kick to local authority," says Herbert Hoover, referring especially to public regulation of electrical utilities, "when the power rates are unjust. I want to kick where the searchlight of public opinion and local knowledge can be brought to bear. Far more than this, I want to live in a community which governs itself. I do not believe the people of our communities have yet become so supine or careless of the fundamental advantages of self-government that they are ready to surrender control of their most intimate concerns to a paternal government at Washington, however wise or however powerful."

Public authority in this country has failed to a large extent because the people have tried to center it in Washington and then forget about it. We are now beginning to realize that no community should delegate to a more distant authority a task that it can attend to itself.

With cities and states attending to their public business themselves, there is a chance always for the local kick, which has infinitely more vitality than long-range representation at a national capital. And a community that governs itself by kicking like a steer every time things go wrong is a live community, worth living in.

Florida histories say that Ponce de Leon was disappointed in his hope of finding the Fountain of Youth. And yet it may be that sulphur water was just what his system needed.

No, the Florida land boom isn't like the California gold rush. The Florida fortune-hunters bring their gold with them.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Wives of famous men do not lead such idyllic lives as might be supposed. Most of them are overshadowed by personalities of their husbands and must sit in the background when more than likely they are responsible for their husbands' success. And know it.

They strike me as good sports. They go the weary rounds listening to stories they have heard endless times and contributing wooden property smiles. I doubt if any man can really be a hero to his wife any more than he can be to his valet.

Feminine intuition is keen and soon senses the stuff of which heroes are made. They discover the clay feet long before the public. A celebrity I admire very much has offended many. He ignores all invitations that do not include his wife.

There is one wife who cracked under the strain one evening. She had been included with her husband in a rather brilliant gathering. She sat in a secluded corner while one after another contributed a bright bit of the evening.

Finally the hostess spied her and said tactlessly: "And what can you do for us?" All eyes were turned upon her and she replied: "Nothing but listen and be bored." She happens to be an accomplished harpist and a sparkling conversationalist but is content for her husband to take all honors.

Wives of these men are quick to detect insincerity long before their husbands. They know the law of the pack—a kowtow and back pat on the mountain top and an snub in the valley. Yet genuine admiration for their husbands is graciously welcomed.

I have watched men rocking on their pedestal. The subsequent crash is one of the most poignant of all human tragedies. They learn that only the Salvation Army takes seriously the dictum: "A man may be down but never out."

New Yorkers take old age gracefully. A pleasant sight. Their hair was silver and you somehow thought of the glitter of moonbeams on cobwebs. He was in evening clothes and she in black evening gown. They started the meal with something suspiciously like cocktails. He was deaf and her voice rose above the din—altogether unconscious of being heard. Others did not interest them. They were engrossed in each other and their talk was of other days—of Ward McAllister balls, horse cars and Booth and Barrett.

At another table sat a young couple of the Scottfitzgerald age. He did the talking, but she was one of those types — perhaps you've met them—who gazes over the shoulder and seems vitally interested in something far away at critical points in the story but he carried on bravely. When she talked, if you are interested, she told of a girl friend who was having a gown made to match the color of her dog.

A rain around the dinner hour in Gotham costs restaurants $125,000 and adds about half that much to receipts of delicatessen dealers.

There is a cult of rain walkers. They don galoshes and mackintoshes and usually strike out for the graveled path in Central Park. There is, they declare, a mental stimulus in walking in a slashing rain and that it is restful to frayed nerves.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Government Reservations

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—From time to time since the earliest days of the Government, Congress has passed acts withdrawing certain sections of the public land for Government use. Subsequently some of these reservations have been found to be no longer necessary and have been annulled, opening the land to the public.

Taken singly these many reservations of timber, oil, and coal lands have but little significance, but pieced together into a consecutive history they help to tell the story of the development of our modern national defense.

For as the wooden vessel gave way to the steel man-of-war, and the coal-burning ship was superseded by the oil burner, which finally was forced to divide honors with the airplane, the Government has systematically set aside the cream of the national resources for the construction of armaments.

Buried in the archieves of the General Land Office of the Interior Department is a record of the first timber reservations, made over a hundred years ago, for the use of the Navy in the construction of warships.

Back in 1817, long before steel was used for shipbuilding, an act of Congress provided that the Secretary of the Navy should have lands growing suitable live oak and red cedar trees explored and selections of them made, to be withdrawn for supplying the Navy with timber.

Under this act, in November 1818, two Government agents set out to explore the wilds of Louisana and Alabama in search of valuable timber land. After several months of hardship and struggle with Indians and escaped criminals they returned and recommended the withdrawal of large tracts along the Mississippi river.

In 1813 other large tracts of timber land were reserved in Florida. These withdrawals were known as the "Live Oak Reservations," and were made officially by President Andrew Jackson. The selections were made by seven agents of the Navy Department sent to the timber district to reserve from sale such public lands as had trees valuable for shipbuilding purposes. Each agent was given a definite district to examine, and was allowed compensation of $1800 a year with $1.25 per day for the expense of himself and his horse.

There is also a record of a certain J. W. Dabney, of Alachua county, Florida, who wrote to the Secretary of the Navy that he had bought at a sale in the city of Tallahasse, 730 acres of the finest live oak land to be found in any part of the United States, and "that it never would have been brought into market until the timber had been secured to the Government if the deputy surveyor had done his duty." Mr. Dabney stated that he had started to clear the tract for planting, and offered to sell the timber to the Government as would also the other gentlemen owning land in that section.

Poaching On Public Preserves

Apparently the Government had no small difficulty in maintaining the integrity of these timber reservations, because an act of February 23, 1822, provided that the President might use the land and naval forces of the United States to prevent trespasses on Government timber land in Florida.

During the next decade there were frequent reports of depredations of the national timber, and in 1831 an agent informed the General Land Office that "there are within fifty miles of this place 5 steam mills, several of them located upon public lands, and all of them draw their supply of timber from public lands, and a New Orleans newspaper, in recapitulating the injury done by one of the recent storms, estimated the loss of rafts driven from the leves at over $20,000, and all of these were cut from the public lands."

To cut down the extent of these trespasses the naval agents stationed in the timber country to select further tracts for withdrawal were commissioned also to prevent depredations, and to make constant reports to the Secretary of the Navy.

In spite of this pillaging of Government timber, the task of building a Navy went ahead speedily in those days when billowing canvas dominated the high seas, and many a fine frigate sailed out of the Navy yard, built of sound timber from the Government's wide tracts.

Then toward the end of the first half of the nineteenth century came the beginnings of the era of iron—and later steel—constructed ships, which were in time, practically to drive wooden vessels off the seas.

Before long the American Navy was slowly being transformed from a wooden to a metal fleet. This change is accurately recorded through the gradual abandonment of the Navy's timber reserves.

By act of Congress on March 3, 1843, the first of the annulments of timber withdrawals was made. In 1846, 1853, 1879, and 1895 still more of the timber reservations came to an end through acts annulling the withdralaws and returning the land to the public domain. Finally in February, 1923, the last law passed by Congress on the subject annulled the last of these early timber reservations of the Navy.

Coal Need For Fuel

When steam power took the place of wind and sail, the Government next was faced with the problem of keeping its ships well supplied with fuel. During the nineteenth and early part of the twentieth century coal exclusively was used for steamships.

For a long time little attention was given to the fact that the more desirable of the coal resources of the United States were not inexhaustible. But in the early part of this century it began to be apparent that valuable coal fields were being taken out of the public domain through the taking up of agricultural lands by homesteaders.

To prevent further looting of the nation's coal resources, President Taft directed the Secretary of the Interior to withdraw from entry all valuable coal lands. This was the beginning of the large coal reservations now held by the Government.

The establishment of the coal reserves necessitated the withdrawal of all tracts on which there was a reasonable probability of the presence of coal. These lands were then examined as rapidly as possible, and the non-coal land restored to entry.

The work of appraising coal lands and withdrawing certain sections for Government use has been carried on steadily, until, according to the latest figures available at the Interior Department, there are now more than thirty-one million acres of coal reservations.

The next step in the development of the modern naval vessel was the oil-burning ship. By 1910 the Navy's new ships were being designed to burn oil instead of coal, and in 1912 the first two naval oil reserves were created. These reserves comprised 68,249 acres in California.

Since that time the Government withdrawal of oil lands has continued until there are now about six and a half million acres of oil and oil shale lands under reservation.

When the airplane came into prominence during the war it again became necessary for the Government to make timber reservations as a part of the nation's armament program. It was found that the best airplane propellers could be made from spruce wood. Accordingly, by executive orders of May 2 and August 16, 1918, an area of approximately 215,680 acres around Lituya Bay on the southeastern coast of Alaska, containing a good stand of Sitka spruce, was withdrawn.

The timber has not yet been used for the proposed purpose but is still being reserved for the time when it may be needed, although the reserved area has been included in the Tongass National Forest.

Since the development of the dirigible, the Government also has reserved some tracts containing valuable helium deposits to be used in the manufacture of helium gas.

A man is some one who spends almost as much time packing for a month's vacation as a woman does getting herself into six ounces of organdie.—Defiance Crescent-News.

Mrs. Saunders Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Troubles of Change of Life

Knoxville, Tenn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while going through the Change of Life. I was very nervous, could not sleep and had melancholy spells. In fact, I was nearly insane at times and my memory was almost a blank. I was so weak I could not do my housework half of the time and suffered dreadfully with my back. My doctor said I would have to worry it out and I went through this for three years before I began taking the Vegetable Compound which I saw advertised. I think it was eight bottles that I took. It has been two years since I took any and I haven't had a doctor since for that trouble, I do all my washing and ironing and I have gained from 116 to 138 pounds. I feel so well I think I do not need any medicine now, but I advise all women who suffer physically and mentally as I did to give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. I hope it will do as much for them as it did for me."—Mrs. T. A. SAUNDERS, 711 E. Depot Street, Knoxville, Tenn.

FISHER PARK

Is Not An Experiment

East Liverpool Needs Fisher Park for its proffered Freedom from Noise and Dirt; its Clear Air and Safe, Roomy Play Space For Healthy, Growing Kiddies.

Fisher Park is not offered to the people of East Liverpool by promoters who step in, unload, and step out again.

Hoopes and Watson, owners, purchased outright, the Sanford E. Fisher farm from which Fisher Park is being created.

Fisher Park is not offered in one Plat with a view to quick sales and an end to owner responsibility. This means that the personal, vital interest of Hoopes and Watson, as owners, will continue until approximately seven years after the last Location in the last Plat, shall have been sold.

Plat No. 1 contains exactly 98 lots, or Home-site Locations. Plat No. 1 will be completely sold out before other property is offered. In the meantime, the completion of the improvement program of Plat 1, including macadam streets, storm sewers, water and gas connections and the landscaping and planting of trees and shrubbery, will have been become a reality. And the building of homes contemplated next spring by Dr. Turner, Dr. Metz, and at least four others, will begin increasing values automatically.

Our terms, 10% Down Payment, and 1% a month, mean that 90 months will elapse before purchasers, adhering to the monthly payment plan, will have completed their payments. This means that the personal vital interest of Hoopes and Watson in Fisher Park will continue until 1933 in the case of Plat 1 alone.

All this, also, means that in the matter of improvements, in planting and in personal supervision, Fisher Park property will have the interest and co-operation of Hoopes and Watson for many years to come.

East Liverpool needs Fisher Park. Restrictions guarantee to home builders of moderate means a pleasant, well-kept atmosphere for home and family. Improvements in and guaranteed will save purchasers time and money in completing a home worth while. The opportunity is here for the home-builder of means; the terms present equal opportunity for the one who must pay as he earns; Civic Pride and Helpful Spirit stir those of means to buy, build and help those who are deserving yet handicapped by lack of ready funds.

At present introductory prices Fisher Park offers home builders an opportunity to obtain a home-site with improvements the average purchaser could not individually afford to install. Fisher Park offers investors an opportunity to take advantage of sure, certain profits attendant upon definite, visible improvements. The purchaser who gets in on the ground floor will avoid paying a profit to someone else later on.

The Home-Site Seeker—The Prudent Investor May Purchase a Location in Fisher Park For 10% Down and 1% Each Month—And Pay as He Or She Earns.

Banks and Insurance Companies invest surplus in Improved Real Estate. Fisher Park IS Improved Real Estate.

The Fisher Park selling organization is composed of your own neighbors, including C. W. Hendershot, Potters Savings and Loan Bldg.; J. S. Hilbert, George H. Owens and Co.; W. V. Blake Agency, and numerous individuals. All are selling Fisher Park Locations and learning more about East Liverpool, their home town, its advantages, its needs, its present, its future, than they ordinarily would have learned in years.

East Liverpool is growing. It is expanding Lisbon-ward. Watch Pleasant Heights and Glenmore at Stop 55, on the Y. & O. All on the Lincoln Highway (Lisbon road). Not increasing the city-limit population of East Liverpool, perhaps, but increasing the metropolitan area definitely and rapidly.

Fisher Park is in the very heart of all this definite, substantial expansion and development. Fisher Park is less than two miles from the Diamond, closer, more readily available than some of the exclusive locations being offered. Fisher Park comprises one of the most beautiful spots in eastern Ohio. Fisher Park is high, dry, clean and clear. Fisher Park commands an intriguing view of surrounding hills and dales.

Fisher Park is where your home should be. Business hours demand enough of your time amid the smoke, dirt and clatter of the city proper. Build where the Kiddies will have a chance to romp and play and grow big and strong and healthy, away from the street dangers.

There are no under-sized Locations in Fisher Park. Most of them are 50 by 150 feet. Have you seen the changes out there in the past few weeks? Do you know of the improvements yet to come. If not, there is a treat in store for you.

Make arrangements by phone for a visit to Fisher Park any day. A representative will be glad to take your family out for an hour of inspection without obligation in any way.

There will be representatives on the ground all day Sunday.

FISHER PARK

Is Not An Experiment

East Liverpool Needs Fisher Park for its proffered Freedom from Noise and Dirt; its Clear Air and Safe, Roomy Play Space For Healthy, Growing Kiddies.

Fisher Park is not offered to the people of East Liverpool by promoters who step in, unload, and step out again.

Hoopes and Watson, owners, purchased outright, the Sanford E. Fisher farm from which Fisher Park is being created.

Fisher Park is not offered in one Plat with a view to quick sales and an end to owner responsibility. This means that the personal, vital interest of Hoopes and Watson, as owners, will continue until approximately seven years after the last Location in the last Plat, shall have been sold.

Plat No. 1 contains exactly 98 lots, or Home-site Locations. Plat No. 1 will be completely sold out before other property is offered. In the meantime, the completion of the improvement program of Plat 1, including macadam streets, storm sewers, water and gas connections and the landscaping and planting of trees and shrubbery, will have been become a reality. And the building of homes contemplated next spring by Dr. Turner, Dr. Metz, and at least four others, will begin increasing values automatically.

Our terms, 10% Down Payment, and 1% a month, mean that 90 months will elapse before purchasers, adhering to the monthly payment plan, will have completed their payments. This means that the personal vital interest of Hoopes and Watson in Fisher Park will continue until 1933 in the case of Plat 1 alone.

All this, also, means that in the matter of improvements, in planting and in personal supervision, Fisher Park property will have the interest and co-operation of Hoopes and Watson for many years to come.

East Liverpool needs Fisher Park. Restrictions guarantee to home builders of moderate means a pleasant, well-kept atmosphere for home and family. Improvements in and guaranteed will save purchasers time and money in completing a home worth while. The opportunity is here for the home-builder of means; the terms present equal opportunity for the one who must pay as he earns; Civic Pride and Helpful Spirit stir those of means to buy, build and help those who are deserving yet handicapped by lack of ready funds.

At present introductory prices Fisher Park offers home builders an opportunity to obtain a home-site with improvements the average purchaser could not individually afford to install. Fisher Park offers investors an opportunity to take advantage of sure, certain profits attendant upon definite, visible improvements. The purchaser who gets in on the ground floor will avoid paying a profit to someone else later on.

The Home-Site Seeker—The Prudent Investor May Purchase a Location in Fisher Park For 10% Down and 1% Each Month—And Pay as He Or She Earns.

The Fisher Park selling organization is composed of your own neighbors, including C. W. Hendershot, Potters Savings and Loan Bldg.; J. S. Hilbert, George H. Owens and Co.; W. V. Blake Agency, and numerous individuals. All are selling Fisher Park Locations and learning more about East Liverpool, their home town, its advantages, its needs, its present, its future, than they ordinarily would have learned in years.

East Liverpool is growing. It is expanding Lisbon-ward. Watch Pleasant Heights and Glenmore at Stop 55, on the Y. & O. All on the Lincoln Highway (Lisbon road). Not increasing the city-limit population of East Liverpool, perhaps, but increasing the metropolitan area definitely and rapidly.

Fisher Park is in the very heart of all this definite, substantial expansion and development. Fisher Park is less than two miles from the Diamond, closer, more readily available than some of the exclusive locations being offered. Fisher Park comprises one of the most beautiful spots in eastern Ohio. Fisher Park is high, dry, clean and clear. Fisher Park commands an intriguing view of surrounding hills and dales.

Fisher Park is where your home should be. Business hours demand enough of your time amid the smoke, dirt and clatter of the city proper. Build where the Kiddies will have a chance to romp and play and grow big and strong and healthy, away from the street dangers.

There are no under-sized Locations in Fisher Park. Most of them are 50 by 150 feet. Have you seen the changes out there in the past few weeks? Do you know of the improvements yet to come. If not, there is a treat in store for you.

Make arrangements by phone for a visit to Fisher Park any day. A representative will be glad to take your family out for an hour of inspection without obligation in any way.

There will be representatives on the ground all day Sunday.

CHURCH PLANS REVIVAL MEETS

Evangelist Miller of Kentucky to Assist Rev. A. E. Sims.

Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the First Christian church, announced today that a series of revival meetings would begin in the church on Wednesday evening, November 4. The pastor will be assisted by Evangelist William Mart Miller of Newport, Ky.

The evangelist's record is unique in that, after having spent half a lifetime in the law, he was persuaded by other evangelists to leave his chosen field and enter upon his present work. One of these men, Evangelist Amos K. Clarke, says: "Miller stands for the bible, the whole bible, and nothing but the bible, and his loyalty, ability and Christian character led me and other evangelists to urge him to leave the law and enter upon this work." Evangelist Fred A. Galiger of Chicago and Evangelist J. H. McWhirter, formerly state evangelist of Texas and now state evangelist of Kentucky, also express great satisfaction at having had a part in turning Mr. Miller from the law to the ministry.

Mr. Miller's methods are unique in that he always carefully avoids indulging in expressions of private opinion in doctrinal matters. He says that out of 16 years' experience in the law he has brought one great lesson, namely, that "It isn't what you think, but what you can actually prove, that wins or loses your case."

A good working organization has been perfected to take part in the campaign under the direction of Rev. Sims.

GROSS SALES TAX LAW IS ATTACKED

Disapproval of the so-called "gross sales tax," one of the state's great sources of revenue, crystallized yesterday in the starting of court proceedings at Charleston to test its validity. Three large companies engaged in the natural gas industry began the onslaught by filing injunction suits, through which they hope to have enforcement of the act restrained in the common pleas court of Kanawha county, and next Wednesday was set for hearing their pleas for temporary injunctions against the state tax commissioner and attorney general.

PLAN TO ERECT NEW TUBE MILL

The new tube mill is designated to occupy the location used for years past as a stock yard for scrap iron. Thousands of tons of scrap iron are to be moved nearly a half mile southward. Grading for the new scrap yard was started this week and as soon as this work is completed giant electric cranes will be placed in operation to transfer the mountainous scrap pile southward.

Some excavating is being done to level the new scrap site. The large electric cranes will be magnetic appliances for use in picking up the scrap iron and steel and to convey it to the new yards.

Plans for the new tube mill were announced some weeks ago, along with plans for other expansion and improvements in Weirton to cost approximately $10,000,000.

AUTO PER CAPITA EXPENSE IS $33

Fifty million dollars, or more than $33 for each man, women and child in the state, is a conservative estimate of the amount expended in automobiles in 1924 in West Virginia, basing the estimate on compilations by State Labor Commissioner George F. Daugherty.

From the statistical reports received by his department. Mr. Daugherty learned that the 440 automobile sales and repair concerns reporting to him placed a value of $37,947,622,55 on the repair work and sales during the year. Addition to this figure of the motor vehicle tax of $2,874,587 collected by the state and $1,277,101.82 from the two-cent gasoline tax which was in force in 1924, gave a total or $42,099,311.37 for the known elements of cost of automobiles in the state. The cost of gasoline itself and cost of insurance accessories and other small items are not included in the records, making it certain that the state's automobile for the year exceeded the $50,000,000 estimate.

Reports from the sales and repair companies showed the 440 plants employed 3,190 people, paid wages during the year amounting to $4,144,988 and represented a capital investment of $13,120,567.

Parent Teachers To Meet

Plans have been completed for the Parent-Teachers meeting to be held Monday evening in the Central school building. Plans will be made at this session to install the school savings system.

PARTY IS HELD BY AID SOCIETY

Members of the Ladies Aid society of the First Methodist Episcopal church and a number of friends were entertained last evening at a masquerade party in the home of Mrs. L. W. Ten Eyck, in Third street. The home was decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en season. The grand march was played by Katherine Bloor after which the guests unmasked. Music and games were the diversions. Lunch was served by the committee composed of Mesdames Pipes, Ten Eyck, Allen, Welsch, Miller, Spangler, Meeks and Haney.

CHESTER SQUAD MEETS TORONTO

Chester high football team, accompanied by a large delegation of rooters, left at noon today for Toronto, where the crack scholastic eleven of that place will be met this afternoon in what is expected to prove one of the hardest games of the season for the locals.

Coach Wild will use the same lineup that faced the Wellsville squad last Saturday.

Hope Takes Initiative

The Hope Natural gas company, which represented to the court that the major part of its gas business was for sale in Ohio and Pennsylvania, took the lead in the contest against the law, and petitions filed by the Reserve Gas company, also doing mainly an interstate business, and the United Fuel Gas company, which sells some of its gas outside the state as well as serving a large territory in West Virginia, followed closely that of the Hope company. Counsel indicated that a number of other suits along similar lines would be filed within a few days.

District Rally Here.

Rev. W. S. Hamilton, of New Cumberland, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, spoke last evening at the Grant dis- First Christian church. Delegates were present from every church in the district.

Chicken Supper Held.

112th Engineers Plan Reunion in Cleveland, Nov. 7

Former members of Company F, 112th Engineers, in which several East Liverpool men served during the World war, will hold a reunion at Cleveland on Saturday, Nov. 7.

The 112th Engineers was a unit of the 37th ("Buckeye") division, having seen active service on the battle fronts in France and Belgium. Former members of the company interested in the reunion are requested to communicate with W. R. Mills, Central Armory, Cleveland.

Agricultural implement manufacturers interested in Czechoslovakia are negotiating with Italian bankers for the organization of a company to make such implements in Italy, thus bringing the productions nearer home than at present.

COHAN SCREEN HIT IS BOOKED

Douglas MacLean in Broadway Success at Ceramic.

After a search for story material that extended over a period of several months, Douglas MacLean selected "Seven Keys to Baldpate" as his first starring comedy for Paramount.

The story, which holds the screen at the Ceramic Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is one that is known to everyone and needs no retelling. For the past decade "Seven Keys to Baldpate" has been a stage favorite of audiences the world over and has in addition to its New York triumph a record for performances by stock companies in every city in the United States, aside from being presented by road companies in every town large enough to support a theatre.

In bringing the Cohan story to the screen, MacLean has struck to the original faithfully adding to it only what additional material screen comedy technique demanded. Love-interest, substituted for the "Wager" angle and a surprise climax are features of the screen play by Frank Griffin and Wade Boteler.

Fred Newmeyer, who made all the recent Harold Lloyd comedies, directed "Seven Keys." Edith Roberts, leading woman, heads the cast playing in support of the star. Other big names include Betty Francisco, Maym Kelso, Andres Randolf, Crauford Kent, Ned Sparks, William Orlamonde and Edwin Sturgis.

The Loring Mystery

Hardly a soul in England knew that Sir Nevil Loring was not the lawful heir to the Loring estates—he had held them and the title for many years. From Virginia came young David Loring son of Sir Nevil's older brother, Humphrey, and the rightful heir; but before David reached Loring Chase, a body was washed up by the Thames and recognized by Sir Nevil, the family solicitor, Mr. Gillespie, and Jasper Shrig, shrewd private detective, as that of the young American. Meanwhile, a mysterious young man who called himself David Loring reached Loring Chase, obtained audience with Sir Nevil, and was rudely received, then swore to dispossess his uncle of the property. Soon after, Sir Nevil, wicked, relentless Sir Nevil, was found dead in his home, the silver hilt of a dagger gleaming among the blood-stained frills at his throat. It was plainly murder and there was work for Jasper Shrig to do.

So starts this romance of London and the English country in the early nineteenth century. Mr. Farnol has added to an unflagging, wholesome incident and delightful character-drawing narrative, a murder mystery that defies solution till the final pages are reached. And what a heroine is Anticlea—flame of fire and strength of steel, headstrong, high-spirited and beautiful with the dazzling glory of the autumn woodlands—Anticlea who rode her white horse down the green aisles of the beechwood straight into David Loring's stricken heart!

The Loring Mystery

Hardly a soul in England knew that Sir Nevil Loring was not the lawful heir to the Loring estates—he had held them and the title for many years. From Virginia came young David Loring son of Sir Nevil's older brother, Humphrey, and the rightful heir; but before David reached Loring Chase, a body was washed up by the Thames and recognized by Sir Nevil, the family solicitor, Mr. Gillespie, and Jasper Shrig, shrewd private detective, as that of the young American. Meanwhile, a mysterious young man who called himself David Loring reached Loring Chase, obtained audience with Sir Nevil, and was rudely received, then swore to dispossess his uncle of the property. Soon after, Sir Nevil, wicked, relentless Sir Nevil, was found dead in his home, the silver hilt of a dagger gleaming among the blood-stained frills at his throat. It was plainly murder and there was work for Jasper Shrig to do.

So starts this romance of London and the English country in the early nineteenth century. Mr. Farnol has added to an unflagging, wholesome incident and delightful character-drawing narrative, a murder mystery that defies solution till the final pages are reached. And what a heroine is Anticlea—flame of fire and strength of steel, headstrong, high-spirited and beautiful with the dazzling glory of the autumn woodlands—Anticlea who rode her white horse down the green aisles of the beechwood straight into David Loring's stricken heart!

FASTER STREET CAR SCHEDULE

Thirty-minute Service to Midland Effective Tomorrow.

Supplementing a fast interurban service inaugurated on Sunday, October 11, the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company will establish better transportation on the Wellsville-Midland and East Liverpool-Wellsville divisions tomorrow.

G. F. Wills, general superintendent, announced that a 30-minute service will be the rule on the Midland run, while 15-minute cars will be operated on the main line.

Under the fast interurban service, a 30-minute saving in running time is made on the Beaver-Steubenville trip.

ROBBERS LOOT VILLAGE STORE

The general store of W. C. Springer, New Waterford, was entered by thieves early this morning, cash and merchandise, valued at approximately $500, being taken.

The robbery occurred after midnight. Entrance was gained by jimmying the lock in the front door. A cash register, containing $160, several rain coats, underwear, trousers, hosiery and other merchandise were included in the loot.

Sheriff George Wright was called to make an investigation.

DEATH ROLL

Miss Ada Surgeon.

Miss Ada Surgeon, formerly of East Liverpool, died yesterday at the home of her brother, Fred Surgeon, Murray, O., following a long illness.

Deceased, who was formerly a teacher in the Wellsville schools, is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Byron, East Liverpool; James, Orbiston, O.; Fred, Murray, O.; Mrs. Beulah Cope, Pughtown, W. Va.; Mrs. Frank Miller, Wheeling, and Mrs. Homer Roush, East Liverpool.

The body will be brought here this evening and taken to the home of her brother, Byron Surgeon, in Pennsylvania avenue.

Doughboy Comedian Stars in Show at Strand Next Week

A new stage comedian will delight the patrons of the Strand theatre, starting Monday, Oct. 26. He is Billy Maine, the only doughboy in the entire A. E. F., who could make General Pershing laugh. He combines a lithesome spirit of fun with captivating wit. His comedy is not of the common, vulgar type, but is clean and free from defilement. Billy's wit is a golden thread tossed over the footlights to tickle the ribs of his auditors into convulsions. He is on the stage almost constantly from rise to drop of curtain.

Billy has a good show—an amazingly clean show. The veteran theatregoers will not have laughed so much in their amusement career as they will be at the ad lib antics of the boob doubghoy. His fantastic sense of humor finds happy expression in the cheerful lunacies of his musical comedy.

It is not a moving picture. It is not a ward play. It just turns the monotony of strict army regulations into new fangled merriment at which you will laugh till tears flow.

Youth of Country

This peaceful penetrating influence, the president characterized as one of the many things America is doing in the furtherance of international peace and helpfulness to all nations.

"America," he said, "has many reasons for pride and satisfaction in the character of its citizenship. It is gratifying to know that it has the resources with which to make these outlays and perform these services.

"We ought to be thankful in remembering that our own people do not need to receive this kind of assistance from any other people. We are able to look after our own.

"But that which rises above all other considerations is the fact that our people are imbued with a religious charity which makes them disposed to extend these benefits to those who are less fortunately circumstanced at home and abroad.

"There are those who constantly reprove our people and our government for an alleged failure to assist other peoples.

"I do not know that anyone could ever say we were doing enough, but it is my strong suspicion that those who are making the loudest complaints have never taken the trouble to ascertain what we have done and what we are doing.

"It is gratifying to realize how the steady, courageous, generous hand of America continues to reach out to those in need. It stands as conclusive answer to all censorious criticism. These works stamp America with a continuing effort, working for moral regeneration."

Another thing we are utterly unable to understand is where there was be any call for mite society meetings in this day and age when we have 14,000,000 telephones in the country.—Marion Star.

Mayor's Pay Slash

nation. "I was against it then and am opposed to it now," he said.

Upon roll call, Farrall, Kerr, Hayes and Larcombe voted "yea", while Chambers, Rowe, and Eardley voted against it. When previous attempts were made to cut the salary Councilman Larcombe expressed a willingness to support a $1,200 salary measure but opposed to making it less.

Lacking the necessary three-fourths vote to suspend the rules the ordinance was held up on second reading. Should the line-up stand, two more meetings will be necessary to enact the measure.

Kerr Explains Tax Situation.

Kerr asserted that the city would face a serious financial situation during next year as a result of an agreement which has been made between county officials and the East Liverpool district board of education. He produced figures which he declared had been obtained from the county auditor's office, showing that the school levy for 1926 would be 9.38 mills, provided the proposed three-mill levy is approved November 3, as compared with 8.71 mills, the rate this year. The school's gain, the solon asserted, is the municipality's loss.

"If this plan goes through it will mean that the city's revenue for next year will be reduced $32,000 or $34,000, according to conservative estimates," Kerr said. "It will mean that we will have to cut our police force in two, lay off half the firemen and retrench in other ways. It is a serious matter.

"I wish to be thoroughly understood that I am not opposed to the three-mill school levy which goes before the voters at the general election. I realize that the schools must be supported, but nevertheless the city must be cared for just as well as the schools."

Auditor McGraw and Solicitor Brokaw also explained the proposed system of taxation.

Kerr then offered a motion that the solicitor be instructed to take the matter up with the state tax commission at once, employing whatever assistance is necessary to halt the purported plan. Hayes offered a second and the action was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Too Much Shrinkage, Says Report.

Kerr submitted a report from a committee, made up of himself, Farrall and Larcombe, regarding the alleged gasoline "leak" at the city building.

Councilman Farrall declared that he had never charged any one with stealing gasoline belonging to the city but that he was merely stating what he had been told by "other citizens."

"I was branded as a liar in the newspapers," said Farrall. "The citizens whom I talk to are not liars. This committee has made a thorough investigation and submits its report, which is not for publication unless council says so."

The report showed that up to October 1, of this year, 282 gallons of gasoline had been used in the patrol, 61 gallons used by the motorcycle and 138½ gallons by the machine owned by Jail Turnkey William Cline, which, it is claimed, is used in police department work. This totals 482½ gallons as compared with 769 gallons which has been purchased since the first of the year.

"This committee thinks this is too much shrinkage, and would recommend that the underground tank be raised to see if there isn't a leak," says the report. "We do not mean to say that any one is deliberately stealing gasoline, but we do think this is entirely too much gasoline being used for the work done by the department."

The report says that the desk sergeant on duty at police headquarters refused to allow the committee permission to see the gasoline record, asserting he was acting under orders. The mayor also at first refused to permit an examination of the records, declaring the committee should file mandamus proceedings, the report added. Later, however, he permitted the committee to see the books and to question the desk sergeant.

"We would recommend that the coupon system be used in the purchase of gasoline in the future," the report says. "By this system the drivers could purchase their gas direct from the filling station, turning duplicate coupons into the auditor's office to correspond with coupons held by the filling station owners.

"There was a vast discrepancy in either the manner of issuing gasoline or the manner in which the books have been kept," the report concludes. "This committee has presented the facts as it found them and in conclusion wish to state that we feel that some one is using entirely too much gas for the work that has been done by the safety department."

Without a dissenting vote the solons voted to "receive and file" the report without comment. This action means the collapse of the probe inas-much as the police department has already adopted the socalled coupon system for purchasing gasoline, for department-operated motor vehicles.

Ordinace Passed

The solons voted to permit the owner of a gasoline station being erected in Pennsylvania avenue, East End, to remove 25 feet of curb at either side of his place of business for a driveway.

No attempt was made to re-enact the ordinance providing for street repair work, vetoed by Mayor Brown early this week. The mayor's veto message was read and accepted.

An ordinance giving the police motor patrol the right of way on all city streets was passed on second and third readings.

Other ordinances approved on three readings, under suspension of the rules, were:

To borrow money and issue notes for improvement of Mulberry street; to borrow money and issue notes for improvement of Second street; to levy special assessments for improvement of Cadmus street; to improve Rural Lane from Monroe street to West alley.

Service Director Ellis was instructed to notify the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Company that they must remove an obstruction from Washington street, near the Potters Savings & Loan company building; also to advise the Youngstown Auto Body company, East End, to cease blockading the sidewalk in front of their place of business in Pennsylvania avenue.

Oppose Traffic Light Purchase.

The report of the bar association on proposed improvement at the city hall, read by Solicitor Brokaw, were estimated to cost not less than $2,500. Council ordered the acceptance of this report, but there is little likelihood that any extensive improvements will be made until after the court has been in operation for a year at least. Slight changes will be made to the second floor before the first of the year.

Council turned down a motion, offered by Chambers, that the city purchase two automatic lights which have been shipped here. The lights, according to council, were ordered with the understanding that the bill would be paid by the Columbiana County Motor club. Kerr, Larcomb, Farrall and Hayes voted against the proposal, while Chambers, Rowe and Eardley supported it.

The service director was instructed to have the city street force lay a new top on the culvert crossing Mulberry street. Contractors want approximately $1,000 fo rthis work, while the street department can do it for $500, members of council declared.

Council also instructed the service director to accept from C. V. Beatty a deed for a strip of land near the Croxall estate which will provide an outlet for residents of Claybourne avenue. Beatty recently expressed his willingness to deed this land to the city.

The request of George Hadgett, Monroe street, for permission to build a flight of steps from his home into the street was referred to the street committee for investigation.

During yesterday, although Athens reports said the Greek army had been ordered to halt, the invading forces advanced slightly to the north of the village of Raina, west of the river Struma.

The village of Levunovo has suffered heavily from Greek shells, being subjected to an almost constant fire from artillery and aeroplane bombs.

The Greek forces now occupy eight Bulgarian villages.

Reports reach Sofia that the Greeks are plundering and destroying property and crops are being ruined.

The Bulgarian population is said to have completely evacuated the occupied area.

ATHENS, Oct. 24. — Greek troops continue to bombard Petrich, according to reports from Bulgaria today.

The Bulgarians yesterday evacuated Demirkapou but continued their fire in order to prevent its occupation by the Greeks, who shells the Bulgarians who were detraining for Petrich.

Spanish In Desperate Straits.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Spain's much-heralded victory at Alhucemas bay and the capture of the Riffian stronghold of Ajdir have faded, the occupation of Ajdir was over almost as soon as it was started. The Spanish troops in that sector are in desperate straits.

This was the information reaching Paris today from a reliable source in Melilla, Morocco.

Quite a program, but the judge wouldn't let it go through.

In Russia, on the other hand, a deletion of orthodox priests and bishops begged the government "for an equal civil status with citizens of the Soviet state."

The priests asked the right to publish religious literature and have for their children (priests of the Greek church marry) the same education as is given to the children of peasants. The Russian government says no.

Again Thursday Wall street celebrated a 2,000,000 share day. A seat on the stock exchange has sold for $135,000. It is a record price, but cheap when you consider that it makes the purchaser one of the happy eleven hundred that make "one-eighth of 1 per cent" on the nation's stock speculations. It's a valuable seat for a man with sound nerves, a cool head, able to leave gambling to his clinets. But it is not easy to find 1,100 men of that kind.

property on the duplicate just as real estate and other property are now taxed. The director recommended its support.

The term extending would only add to the confusion in the legislature, the directors decided, in advising the voters to vote "no" upon this amendment. At the present all state officers, except the auditor, are elected for terms of two years. The amendment proposes to make the terms of all state and county officials, except members of the legislature, four years. The board points out that election of a governor and other state officials every four years and members of the state legislature every two years would be unsatisfactory.

The chamber, at the request of the United States Chamber of Commerce, went on record as favoring the World court. Members of the senate from this state will be urged to vote in favor of the American participation in the tribunal when the issue comes up for action in congress in December.

HARRY KNOWLES SEEKS DAMAGES

Harry Knowles, a minor, through his mother, Mrs. Mae Knowles, of Highland Colony, has filed suit in common pleas court, Lisbon, seeking $3,000 damages from C. C. Pusey, as the result of injuries sustained when the boy was struck by an automobile last June 14.

Young Knowles, it is claimed, was riding a bicycle along St. Clair avenue near Gardendale avenue, when he was run down. He sustained a concussion of the brain and was confined in the City hospital for several days, paying $255 for medical treatment.

The plaintiff is represented by Billingsley and Moore, of Lisbon.

Licensed To Wed.

A marriage license was issued at Lisbon this morning to Leland Hollinger of Massillon, formerly of East Liverpool, and Miss Deborah French, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. Morris French of Salem. The ceremony was to take place after their return to Salem.

SAMUEL POLOVINA TO FILL PULPIT

Samuel Polovina, converted Austrian, will speak Sunday morning in the First Methodist Episcopal church, of which Rev. J. W. Schrader is pastor. He will have as his subject, "From Heathenism to Christ." Large crowd is expected to attend the service.

Services in the other churches will be held at the usual hours with pastors occupying their respective pulpits.

PLANS ARRANGED FOR TESTIMONIAL

Plans have been arranged for the testimonial to be given A. M. Fisher, Newell fire chief, in the Odd Fellows' hall next Tuesday evening. There will be a dinner, after which a program will be given. Number of addresses will be made by prominent local citizens. Mr. Fisher has served here for 20 years as head of the fire department, which is an unsalaried position.

To Attend Convention.

Newell churches will be largely represented at the Hancock county Sunday school convention, which is scheduled to be held in the Chester Presbyterian church on November 5-6.

WORKERS DANCE DRAWS LARGELY

Second annual masquerade dance held last evening under the auspices of the employes of the various shops of the Homer Laughlin China company in the Eagles' hall, East Liverpool, was largely attended. Number of Newell plant employes were present.

Prizes were awarded to wearers of the handsomest, most unique and comic costumes. Music was furnished by Dorsey Mann's orchestra. Proceeds will be devoted to financing the Homer Laughlin soccer team.

Playing at New Brighton.

Homer Laughlin China soccer team, accompanied by a delegation of rooters, left at noon today for New Brighton, Pa., where they will engage the fast team of that place. Next Saturday the first of the elimination games will be played on the Newell field.

License Receipts Climb.

Hunting license receipts this fall show an increase over that of last year, according to reports from Charleston. To date but few accidents have been reported in striking contrast to other seasons.

Republican Meeting In City Hall at 7:30 p. m. Monday

Willis Davidson, chairman of the Republican central committee, today issued a call for a meeting of the members and party candidates, to be held at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening in city hall.

Plans for getting out a large vote as well as other questions pertaining to the campaign will be discussed.

A new stage comedian will delight the patrons of the Strand theatre, starting Monday, Oct. 26. He is Billy Maine, the only doughboy in the entire A. E. F., who could make General Pershing laugh. He combines a lithesome spirit of fun with captivating wit. His comedy is not of the common, vulgar type, but is clean and free from defilement. Billy's wit is a golden thread tossed over the footlights to tickle the ribs of his auditors into convulsions. He is on the stage almost constantly from rise to drop of curtain.

Billy has a good show—an amazingly clean show. The veteran theatregoers will not have laughed so much in their amusement career as they will be at the ad lib antics of the boob doubghoy. His fantastic sense of humor finds happy expression in the cheerful lunacies of his musical comedy.

It is not a moving picture. It is not a ward play. It just turns the monotony of strict army regulations into new fangled merriment at which you will laugh till tears flow.

Youth of Country

This peaceful penetrating influence, the president characterized as one of the many things America is doing in the furtherance of international peace and helpfulness to all nations.

"America," he said, "has many reasons for pride and satisfaction in the character of its citizenship. It is gratifying to know that it has the resources with which to make these outlays and perform these services.

"We ought to be thankful in remembering that our own people do not need to receive this kind of assistance from any other people. We are able to look after our own.

"But that which rises above all other considerations is the fact that our people are imbued with a religious charity which makes them disposed to extend these benefits to those who are less fortunately circumstanced at home and abroad.

"There are those who constantly reprove our people and our government for an alleged failure to assist other peoples.

"I do not know that anyone could ever say we were doing enough, but it is my strong suspicion that those who are making the loudest complaints have never taken the trouble to ascertain what we have done and what we are doing.

"It is gratifying to realize how the steady, courageous, generous hand of America continues to reach out to those in need. It stands as conclusive answer to all censorious criticism. These works stamp America with a continuing effort, working for moral regeneration."

Another thing we are utterly unable to understand is where there can be any call for mite society money in this day and age when we have 14,000,000 telephones in the country.—Marion Star.

Mayor's Pay Slash

nation. "I was against it then and am opposed to it now," he said.

Upon roll call, Farrall, Kerr, Hayes and Larcombe voted "yea", while Chambers, Rowe, and Eardley voted against it. When previous attempts were made to cut the salary Councilman Larcombe expressed a willingness to support a $1,200 salary measure but opposed to making it less.

Lacking the necessary three-fourths vote to suspend the rules the ordinance was held up on second reading. Should the line-up stand, two more meetings will be necessary to enact the measure.

Kerr Explains Tax Situation.

Kerr asserted that the city would face a serious financial situation during next year as a result of an agreement which has been made between county officials and the East Liverpool district board of education. He produced figures which he declared had been obtained from the county auditor's office, showing that the school levy for 1926 would be 9.28 mills, provided the proposed three-mill levy is approved November 3, as compared with 8.71 mills, the rate this year. The school's gain, the solon asserted, is the municipality's loss.

"If this plan goes through it will mean that the city's revenue for next year will be reduced $32,000 or $34,000, according to conservative estimates," Kerr said. "It will mean that we will have to cut our police force in two, lay off half the firemen and retrench in other ways. It is a serious matter.

"I wish to be thoroughly understood that I am not opposed to the three-mill school levy which goes before the voters at the general election. I realize that the schools must be supported, but nevertheless the city must be cared for just as well as the schools."

Auditor McGraw and Solicitor Brokaw also explained the proposed system of taxation.

Kerr then offered a motion that the solicitor be instructed to take the matter up with the state tax commission at once, employing whatever assistance is necessary to halt the purported plan. Hayes offered a second and the action was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Too Much Shrinkage, Says Report.

Kerr submitted a report from a committee, made up of himself, Farrall and Larcombe, regarding the alleged gasoline "leak" at the city building.

Councilman Farrall declared that he had never charged any one with stealing gasoline belonging to the city but that he was merely stating what he had been told by "other citizens."

"I was branded as a liar in the newspapers," said Farrall. "The citizens whom I talk to are not liars. This committee has made a thorough investigation and submits its report, which is not for publication unless council says so."

The report showed that up to October 1, of this year, 282 gallons of gasoline had been used in the patrol, 61 gallons used by the motorcycle and 138½ gallons by the machine owned by Jail Turnkey William Cline, which, it is claimed, is used in police department work. This totals 482½ gallons as compared with 769 gallons which has been purchased since the first of the year.

"This committee thinks this is too much shrinkage and would recommend that the underground tank be raised to see if there isn't a leak," says the report. "We do not mean to say that any one is deliberately stealing gasoline, but we do think this is entirely too much gasoline being used for the work done by the department."

The report says that the desk sergeant on duty at police headquarters refused to allow the committee permission to see the gasoline record, asserting he was acting under orders. The mayor also at first refused to permit an examination of the records, declaring the committee should file mandamus proceedings, the report added. Later, however, he permitted the committee to see the books and to question the desk sergeant.

"We would recommend that the coupon system be used in the purchase of gasoline in the future," the report says. "By this system the drivers could purchase their gas direct from the filling station, turning duplicate coupons into the auditor's office to correspond with coupons held by the filling station owners.

"There was a vast discrepancy in either the manner of issuing gasoline or the manner in which the books have been kept," the report concludes. "This committee has presented the facts as it found them and in conclusion wish to state that we feel that some one is using entirely too much gas for the work that has been done by the safety department."

Without a dissenting vote the solons voted to "receive and file" the report without comment. This action means the collapse of the probe inasmuch as the police department has already adopted the socalled coupon system for purchasing gasoline, for department-operated motor vehicles.

Ordinace Passed

The solons voted to permit the owner of a gasoline station being erected in Pennsylvania avenue, East End, to remove 25 feet of curb at either side of his place of business for a driveway.

No attempt was made to re-enact the ordinance providing for street repair work, vetoed by Mayor Brown early this week. The mayor's veto message was read and accepted.

An ordinance giving the police motor patrol the right of way on all city streets was passed on second and third readings.

Other ordinances approved on three readings, under suspension of the rules, were:

To borrow money and issue notes for improvement of Mulberry street; to borrow money and issue notes for improvement of Second street; to levy special assessments for improvement of Cadmus street; to improve Rural Lane from Monroe street to West alley.

Service Director Ellis was instructed to notify the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Company that they must remove an obstruction from Washington street, near the Potters Savings & Loan company building; also to advise the Youngstown Auto Body company, East End, to cease blockading the sidewalk in front of their place of business in Pennsylvania avenue.

Oppose Traffic Light Purchase.

The report of the bar association on proposed improvement at the city hall, read by Solicitor Brokaw, were estimated to cost not less than $2,500. Council ordered the acceptance of this report, but there is little likelihood that any extensive improvements will be made until after the court has been in operation for a year at least. Slight changes will be made to the second floor before the first of the year.

Council turned down a motion, offered by Chambers, that the city purchase two automatic lights which have been shipped here. The lights, according to council, were ordered with the understanding that the bill would be paid by the Columbiana County Motor club. Kerr, Larcomb, Farrall and Hayes voted against the proposal, while Chambers, Rowe and Eardley supported it.

The service director was instructed to have the city street force lay a new top on the culvert crossing Mulberry street. Contractors want approximately $1,000 fo rthis work, while the street department can do it for $500, members of council declared.

Council also instructed the service director to accept from C. V. Beatty a deed for a strip of land near the Croxall estate which will provide an outlet for residents of Claybourne avenue. Beatty recently expressed his willingness to deed this land to the city.

The request of George Hadgett, Monroe street, for permission to build a flight of steps from his home into the street was referred to the street committee for investigation.

The term extending would only add to the confusion in the legislature, the directors decided, in advising the voters to vote "no" upon this amendment. At the present all state officers, except the auditor, are elected for terms of two years. The amendment proposes to make the terms of all state and county officials, except members of the legislature, four years. The board points out that election of a governor and other state officials every four years and members of the state legislature every two years would be unsatisfactory.

HARRY KNOWLES SEEKS DAMAGES

Harry Knowles, a minor, through his mother, Mrs. Mae Knowles, of Highland Colony, has filed suit in common pleas court, Lisbon, seeking $3,000 damages from C. C. Pusey, as the result of injuries sustained when the boy was struck by an automobile last June 14.

Young Knowles, it is claimed, was riding a bicycle along St. Clair avenue near Gardendale avenue, when he was run down. He sustained a concussion of the brain and was confined in the City hospital for several days, paying $255 for medical treatment.

The plaintiff is represented by Billingsley and Moore, of Lisbon.

Services in the other churches will be held at the usual hours with pastors occupying their respective pulpits.

PLANS ARRANGED FOR TESTIMONIAL

Plans have been arranged for the testimonial to be given A. M. Fisher, Newell fire chief, in the Odd Fellows' hall next Tuesday evening. There will be a dinner, after which a program will be given. Number of addresses will be made by prominent local citizens. Mr. Fisher has served here for 20 years as head of the fire department, which is an unsalaried position.

To Attend Convention.

Newell churches will be largely represented at the Hancock county Sunday school convention, which is scheduled to be held in the Chester Presbyterian church on November 5-6.

WORKERS DANCE DRAWS LARGELY

Second annual masquerade dance held last evening under the auspices of the employes of the various shops of the Homer Laughlin China company in the Eagles' hall, East Liverpool, was largely attended. Number of Newell plant employes were present.

Prizes were awarded to wearers of the handsomest, most unique and comic costumes. Music was furnished by Dorsey Mann's orchestra. Proceeds will be devoted to financing the Homer Laughlin soccer team.

Playing at New Brighton.

Homer Laughlin China soccer team, accompanied by a delegation of rooters, left at noon today for New Brighton, Pa., where they will engage the fast team of that place. Next Saturday the first of the elmination games will be played on the Newell field.

Imports of $88,000,000 Last Year Give Idea of Business.

Alaskan Skin Sales in American Market are Heavy.

WASHINGTON.—In addition to millions of dollars worth of Alaskan sealskins sold on the American market by the government, this country last year imported furs valued at nearly $88,000,000.

This is a small portion of the bill paid each year to keep America's feminine population properly clothed and muffled in accordance with the dictates of fashion.

Officials say that the demand for furs, especially of the better grades, is increasing and that probably 1925 will show a material advance in the importation as well as domestic manufacture.

Big Growth Shown.

The 192-4 figure showed an advance of $20,000,000 from 1922 although it did not far surpass the import in 1925.

Undressed furs made up the bulk of the imports during the year, again disclosing the dependency of American manufacturers on foreign sources of supply. The value of manufactured fur products did not exceed $8,000,000.

Officials estimate that the finished product brought a retail market price of over twenty times the value of imports.

On islands off Alaska, the United States government owns the largest seal herd in the world, and is believed to control eight per cent of the sealskins sold. A majority of the skins sold are sold on the domestic market, although there is a considerable export in this business.

American furs are popular among the wealthy abroad, although the high prices prohibit their general use with the masses. The quality of American seal is said to be superior to that produced in any other part ofq the world.

Amongq the various classifications of undressed furs, according to the department of Commerce, hare, coney and rabbit figured heaviest, both as to quantity and value, with receipts of more than 95,500,000 pieces valued at $16,875,000.

Squirrel Far Second.

Squirrel came second, imports heveing been 18,340,000 pieces of $14,983,000 value. Purchases of fox skins, other than silver and black, amounted to $10,382,000. Other foreign buying of furs follows.

Marten, $4,948,000; beaver, $3,550,000; muskrat, $2,549000 and mink, $2,137,000.

American export of raw and finished furs amounted to $26,130,000 in 1924. The figure was a material advance over 1923, when shipments totalled but $22,618,000.

Erases Wrinkles in Less Than 15 Minutes

Scientists have at last taken up seriously the problem of removing wrinkles and age lines. Many experiments have been made. The result indicates that the "tarkroot method" is the best because it produces immediate results with perfect safety and comfort. It consists merely in spreading over the face a mixture of powdered tarkroot, one spoonful, and lemon juice, one spoonful. In your mirror, before your very eyes, you can watch the wrinkles and sagginess literally melt away—in less than 15 minutes!

The sensation from this brief treatment is most refreshing. The effect is far better than that produced by the most expert massage. Tarkroot is so harmless you could eat it. And the cost per treatment is trifling—less than three cents when purchased in the original package at any drug store.

Have You Too Much "Acid?"

A TIRED, achy, listless feeling is a common sign of sluggish kidneys and excess uric acid. This subtle body-poison causes many mysterious aches and ills. One feels tired, is lame and stiff, obliged to get up at night and has other annoying kidney irregularities. The back aches; there are headaches and dizzy spells; one feels nervous and depressed.

Don't risk serious sickness! Assist the kidneys to more active elimination by drinking plenty of water, eating less heavy foods and using Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands in similar cases. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

Mrs. Ruth Collins, 108 East Third St., says: "A dull aching through my back made it hard for me to get about my housework. Sometimes I could hardly get up when I got down. I was bothered by the way my kidneys acted and I felt miserable all over. I got a box of Doan's Pills and after taking some I was relieved."

English Rum Drinking Drops as Export Trade Shows Heavy Increase

LONDON.—England is drinking less whiskey. Statistics show that the consumption of whiskey in the United Kingdom has decreased by one third during the past twenty-one years, and that only eleven million proof gallons are now bei... annually consummed.

It must not be thought that the British whisky distillers are on the way to the poorhouse, however, for American prohibition has resulted in a heavily increased export trade. For instance, the exportation of whisky to Canada, for long known to be the half way liquor house to America, increased by nearly seventy thousand proof gallons during one month. The decrease in the English consumption is said to be due to the inferior whisky which is now being turned out, and the high price that is being demanded for it.

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

LISBON

M. K. Zimerman, West Park Ave. Phone 319-R. Lisbon, O.

ROAD BUILDING BEING SPEEDED

Work Progressing on Road in Yellow Creek Township.

Less than three-quarters of a mile of concrete remains to be poured on the last section of the Wellsville-Salienville road in Yellow Creek township, it was announced today by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. Pouring at the rate of 396 feet per day, this concrete job should be completed within 10 working days, it has been pointed out.

More or less delay has been encountered on this contract on account of non-delivery of materials at the Salineville railroad yards. If it is possible to pour all of the remaining section of this road by Nov. 7, the last section will have to remain closed for three weeks to allow the concrete to set before the highway will be allowed to be opened for traffic by the State Highway Department. Should this schedule be adhered to, the road may be opened on or about Nov. 28th.

During the week of Nov. 2nd the county commissioners will send trucks to Salineville to ash that section of this road within the corporate limits, and which section is to be surfaced next year. At all events, the road between East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville will be opened to through traffic over the Chattle Lake route before Dec. 1st according to Surveyor Kirk.

Passage of the proposed $950,000 bond issue will insure the construction of the Salineville-Lisbon road through Wayne township within a short time, it was disclosed at the office of the county commissioners Saturday morning. This four-mile strip will give the south-central part of the county a direct road north and south and also openinfg the Salem territory to Salineville by an improved highway.

This road is improved in Centre township, and south to the Centre-Wayne township line, but in Wayne township there is no improved highway, the township at this time being behind Franklin township in this respect.

During the week the county commissioners have been informed that considerable interest is being shown in the plan to build an improved highway between Homeworth in Knox township northeast through Butler township to Salem. It is known that the commissioners are anxious to build this road, and connect up with an improved link in the North Georgetown territory, so that trade from the western part of the county which now flits into Alliance can be diverted into the Salem district.

This road will also give Salem a new outlet to Valley, and connecting at Valley with an improved road from that place north to Damascus.

A meeting of residents of the Highlandtown section in Washington township will be held there next Monday night at which time the proposed bond issue will be discussed.

Tuesday evening a similar meeting will be held at Salineville, and Thursday night a like gathering will be held at Summitville where Franklin township is anxious to have Salineville hooked up through Summitville with the Lincoln Highway at Kensington.

The last road meeting before election day will be held Friday night of next week at Willow Grove Grange hall.

PREDICT CLOSE ELECTION FIGHT

The election in Franklin township November 3rd gives early indication of being an interesting one. In the field for trustee there are four candidates. F. H. Johnson of the Summitville Brick compan, and J. A. Williard are candidates for re-election, while S. M. Brown and J. S. Thompson are seeking a first term.

In the contest for clerk there will be two candidates. Jackson Peebles and Edwin King. For member of the township board of education the names of three candidates will appear on the ballot, Elvy Thompson, Alansan Finnicum and James Kelley. The petition of Fred Nisson for this office was not properly signed and was rejected by the county board of elections. Mr. Nisson has been an active member of the board of education for the last four years, and although his name will not appear on the ballot, it is said in Franklin township that his name will be written in on the ballot.

HUNTERS SLOW IN SEEKING PERMITS

The demand for hunters licenses this year is declared to be "dull," and the number issued by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to date indicates that not much interest is being shown in the sport. However, all township clerks have been provided with such licenses, and applicants are being supplied from that source as well as at the office of the clerk of courts.

Township clerks look for a rush for these licenses about November 1, which will be in line with the heaviest demand in previous years. There has been no change made by the legislature in the fee charged for these license tags.

Granted Divorce.

In the divorce case of Hazel Patterson against her husband William Patterson, the court has granted the plaintiff a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty, and has also awarded the custody of a minor child to Mrs. Patterson.

DOG LICENSES STILL IN DEMAND

A total of 5,152 dog licenses have been issued so far this year by Deputy Tax Collector Randall Hamilton, there being an increased demand for the license tags noted since so many have had to pay fines and penalties for failure to take out licenses as required by law.

"We're ahead of last year, but a number of dog owners are still delinquent, according to the tax returns the dog owners have filed," Mr. Hamilton declared. "We're checking up on all of these records, and sooner or later we'll have had all the dog owners of the county in."

The money collected from this source goes to the dog and kennel fund and also to the county board of education.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment for $750 and interest from Nov. 5, 1924, amounting to $39.36 has been rendered in common pleas court by default in the case of Thomas Richardson against J. R. Call, formerly of East Palestine. The action was based upon a note given by the defendant to the plaintiff.

Action Dismissed.

At the costs of the plaintiff and on her own motion, the action filed in common pleas court Dec. 21, 1923, by Elizabeth C. Runyon against Charles Boyd as administrator has been dismissed from the record.

Pastor Returns Home.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry M. Peebles of Millport, have concluded a two weeks' visit vacation spent with relatives in Licking county and at Coshocton. As a result of the return to Millport of the minister, the usual services will be held in Bethesda church Sunday morning.

Woman Given Divorce.

On the grounds of extreme cruelty a decree of divorce has been granted by Judge James G. Moore in common pleas court No. 1 to Dollie Sunderman against her husband, Raymond Sunderman. After the court awarded the custody of a minor child to the plaintiff, the defendant was ordered by the court to pay to Mrs. Sunderman alimony for the support of his child, as agreed upon.

Divorce Action Dismissed.

For failure to prosecute the case, the divorce action filed in common pleas court April 8, last, by Maude Randolph against her husband, Charles Randolph, has been dismissed from the record at the costs of the plaintiff.

Leetonia

Midway grange will hold its annual fair on Saturday evening. From 5 to 8 supper will be served and from 9 to 12 there will be dancing. An apron sale will also be one of the features. A number of cash premiums will be given for farm products, including corn, wheat, oats, potatoes, apples, pears, quinces, canned goods, fancywork, and the juveniles will be awarded prizes for baked articles and fancywork.

Leetonia lodge No. 401, F. & A. M., will hold special communications on Monday evening, October 26, and on Friday evening, October 30. On Friday evening a lunch will be one of the features. The meetings will be held in the lodge rooms, Main street.

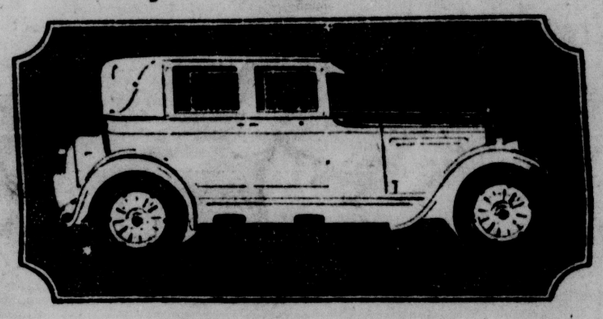
"everlastingly fine performance"!

"If other cars required as little attention, as few adjustments, as the Willys-Knight—the repair shops of this country would have to close their doors tomorrow!" . . .



—direct from the owner of the busiest repair shop in one of our largest cities comes that statement . . .

"Fully 50% of our time is spent in grinding valves and cleaning out carbon", says another service station manager . . .

In those two significant remarks, from experience-headquarters, you have the answer to the expensive and annoying cost-of-upkeep problem that perpetually perplexes so many car owners. And, in the same breath, you have the reason for the universal satisfaction of Willys-Knight owners, today in their hundreds of thousands! . . .

"An Engine You'll Never Wear Out"

the patented Knight sleeve-valve engine . . . in this lies the secret of Willys-Knight emancipation from engine-repairs, its freedom from the need for constant adjustment. This unique engine-principle means uninterrupted service, year in, year out. It means longer life for your car—immeasurably, infinitely longer. It means a sweeter, quieter, more efficient motor-mechanism up to and beyond 100,000 miles than you enjoyed on the day you bought it! . . .

No Carbon Troubles No Valves to Grind

. . . your Willys-Knight is absolutely immune from engine-complications and engine-disorders caused by carbon accumulation. "It's all the better for a bit of carbon"—any expert mechanic will tell you that. Carbon cannot harm your Willys-Knight, or cause knocks or noise, or put your car out of commission for hours and days. It is an engineering fact that carbon serves actually to facilitate this engine's functioning!

No valves to grind—no tappets, no springs, no rocker arm bushings to get out of order or replace. The Knight sleeve-valve idea gets rid of all of them. No eternal pounding of metal upon metal—all parts of this sleeve-valve engine slide and rotate—hence no chattering of parts, no wear and tear . . .

. . . where all other engines lose in power, lose in endurance, and cost more to run as their mileage grows—the engine of your Willys-Knight actually improves with use. It develops more horsepower, becomes sweeter and quieter, and costs less to run the more mileage you pile up on it!

A Car of Rare Beauty—Rare Distinction

And your Willys-Knight is as beautiful an autmobile as you have ever cast your eyes upon. "In line and form the most graceful I have ever seen," a famous artist says. Its appointments as rich, its equipment as complete as you will find in any car, regardless of its price . . . See the smart Coupe-Sedan here shown. A car you will delight to drive. A car in which you will take vast pride in owning. Come, see this superb automobile. ROAD BUILDING BEING SPEEDED

Less than three-quarters of a mile of concrete remains to be poured on the last section of the Wellsville-Salienville road in Yellow Creek township, it was announced today by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. Pouring at the rate of 396 feet per day, this concrete job should be completed within 10 working days, it has been pointed out.

More or less delay has been encountered on this contract on account of non-delivery of materials at the Salineville railroad yards. If it is possible to pour all of the remaining section of this road by Nov. 7, the last section will have to remain closed for three weeks to allow the concrete to set before the highway will be allowed to be opened for traffic by the State Highway Department. Should this schedule be adhered to, the road may be opened on or about Nov. 28th.

During the week of Nov. 2nd the county commissioners will send trucks to Salineville to ash that section of this road within the corporate limits, and which section is to be surfaced next year. At all events, the road between East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville will be opened to through traffic over the Chattle Lake route before Dec. 1st according to Surveyor Kirk.

Passage of the proposed $950,000 bond issue will insure the construction of the Salineville-Lisbon road through Wayne township within a short time, it was disclosed at the office of the county commissioners Saturday morning. This four-mile strip will give the south-central part of the county a direct road north and south and also openinfg the Salem territory to Salineville by an improved highway.

This road is improved in Centre township, and south to the Centre-Wayne township line, but in Wayne township there is no improved highway, the township at this time being behind Franklin township in this respect.

During the week the county commissioners have been informed that considerable interest is being shown in the plan to build an improved highway between Homeworth in Knox township northeast through Butler township to Salem. It is known that the commissioners are anxious to build this road, and connect up with an improved link in the North Georgetown territory, so that trade from the western part of the county which now flits into Alliance can be diverted into the Salem district.

This road will also give Salem a new outlet to Valley, and connecting at Valley with an improved road from that place north to Damascus.

A meeting of residents of the Highlandtown section in Washington township will be held there next Monday night at which time the proposed bond issue will be discussed.

Tuesday evening a similar meeting will be held at Salineville, and Thursday night a like gathering will be held at Summitville where Franklin township is anxious to have Salineville hooked up through Summitville with the Lincoln Highway at Kensington.

The last road meeting before election day will be held Friday night of next week at Willow Grove Grange hall.

PREDICT CLOSE ELECTION FIGHT

The election in Franklin township November 3rd gives early indication of being an interesting one. In the field for trustee there are four candidates. F. H. Johnson of the Summitville Brick compan, and J. A. Williard are candidates for re-election, while C. M. Brown and J. S. Thompson are seeking a first term.

In the contest for clerk there will be two candidates. Jackson Peebles and Edwin King. For member of the township board of education the names of three candidates will appear on the ballot, Elvy Thompson, Alansan Finnicum and James Kelley. The petition of Fred Nisson for this office was not properly signed and was rejected by the county board of elections. Mr. Nisson has been an active member of the board of education for the last four years, and although his name will not appear on the ballot, it is said in Franklin township that his name will be written in on the ballot.

HUNTERS SLOW IN SEEKING PERMITS

The demand for hunters licenses this year is declared to be "dull," and the number issued by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to date indicates that not much interest is being shown in the sport. However, all township clerks have been provided with such licenses, and applicants are being supplied from that source as well as at the office of the clerk of courts.

Township clerks look for a rush for these licenses about November 1, which will be in line with the heaviest demand in previous years. There has been no change made by the legislature in the fee charged for these license tags.

Granted Divorce.

In the divorce case of Hazel Patterson against her husband William Patterson, the court has granted the plaintiff a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty, and has also awarded the custody of a minor child to Mrs. Patterson.

DOG LICENSES STILL IN DEMAND

A total of 3,152 dog licenses have been issued so far this year by Deputy Tax Collector Randall Hamilton, there being an increased demand for the license tags noted since so many have had to pay fines and penalties for failure to take out licenses as required by law.

"We're ahead of last year, but a number of dog owners are still delinquent, according to the tax returns the dog owners have filed,' Mr. Hamilton declared. "We're checking up on all of these records, and sooner or later we'll have had all the dog owners of the county in."

The money collected from this source goes to the dog and kennel fund and also to the county board of education.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment for $750 and interest from Nov. 5, 1924, amounting to $39.36 has been rendered in common pleas court by default in the case of Thomas Richardson against J. R. Call, formerly of East Palestine. The action was based upon a note given by the defendant to the plaintiff.

Action Dismissed.

At the costs of the plaintiff and on her own motion, the action filed in common pleas court Dec. 21, 1923, by Elizabeth C. Runyon against Charles Boyd as administrator has been dismissed from the record.

Pastor Returns Home.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry M. Peebles of Millport, have concluded a two weeks' visit vacation spent with relatives in Licking county and at Coshocton. As a result of the return to Millport of the minister, the usual services will be held in Bethesda church Sunday morning.

Woman Given Divorce.

On the grounds of extreme cruelty a decree of divorce has been granted by Judge James G. Moore in common pleas court No. 1 to Dollie Sunderman against her husband, Raymond Sunderman. After the court awarded the custody of a minor child to the plaintiff, the defendant was ordered by the court to pay to Mrs. Sunderman alimony for the support of his child, as agreed upon.

Divorce Action Dismissed.

For failure to prosecute the case, the divorce action filed in common pleas court April 8, last, by Maude Randolph against her husband, Charles Randolph, has been dismissed from the record at the costs of the plaintiff.

Leetonia

Midway grange will hold its annual fair on Saturday evening. From 5 to 8 supper will be served and from 9 to 12 there will be dancing. An apron sale will also be one of the features. Football Titans of Big Ten Conference Clash At Columbus

RESULT MAY PAVE WAY TO TITLE FOR VICTOR

State Attack Will be Led by Scintillating Halfback, Elmer Marek, and Fellow Iowan, Nick Kutsch, Will be Big Punch for Invaders; Open Field Playing and Aerial Performances are Expected by Fans.

BY JACK CE JNAR

COLUMBUS, Oct. 24.—Two of the football titans of the big ten conference—Ohio State and Iowa—will collide with the momentum of last week's striking victories behind them, when their 1925 title trails cross at the stadium this afternoon.

The spirit of fight prevaded both camps.

The Buckeyes, conquerors by a 9 to 0 scors of Columbia, were grimly determined to outdo themselves in today's crucial tilt that many fans believe will pave the way to championship honors for the victor.

The Hawkeyes, who triumphed over "Red" Grange and his Illinois team mates, 12 to 10, were resolved to say it with touchdowns.

Rain or shine it will be an epic struggle that will unfold before some 45,000 spectators. Both sides will be led by laurel crowned supermen of the gridiron, who by a strange coincidence both sprang from Iowa soil.

Elmer Marek, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the scintillating Ohio States half back, and incidentally one of the five Cedar Rapids boys who will figure in the contest, and his brilliant running mates, Karow, Grim, and Clark and perhaps Boyer, will lead the Buckeye attack. The Hawkeye offense will be headed by Nick Kutsch of Sioux City, Iowa, leading scorer of the conference and his efficient cohorts, Fry, Schirmer and Graham.

With the lines presenting almost equal bulwarks, followers of the pigskin sport expected spectacular open field playing and aerial performances by the fast backfields was dry.

"Can Ohio State stop Kutsch?", "can Marek circle Iowa ends?", "Can he outboot and outpass Kutsch?", "Will Ohio check Kutsch?"

Thousands of football mad rooters asked these questions today.

As is fitting in the best football circles, both coaches were as usual loaded with gloom.

"Look what Iowa did to Illinois" said Dr. John W. Wilce. "The visitors have a powerful team. We are handicapped by injuries to Bill Jenkins, Keith Devoe and Bill Hunt."

"We have a slim chance," quoth Bert Ingwersen. "Didn't Ohio State beat Columbia? Doesn't Ohio State claim to have the best team in years? Don't they outweigh us?"

News of a more pleasing nature drifted in, however, from the final practice yesterday afternoon. It was rumored that Harold Wendler, Fremont, Ohio, star quarterback, out of two games with injuries, might be able also to get into action before the final whistle.

Today was "Dad's Day" in campus and university authorities set aside a bench on the sidelines, right back of the 'Varsity squad, for the fathers of as many Ohio girdders as could attend the game.

The probable lineup this afternoon will be:

Probable lineup:

Ohio		Iowa
Cunningham (C)	L.E.	Rice
Nichols	L.T.	Hines
Meyers	L.G.	Krasuski
Hess	R.G.	Riodawig
Uridil	R.T.	Nelson
Rowan	R.E.	Romey
Grim	Q.B.	Schirmer
Clark	L.H.	Kutsch
Marek	R.H.	Graham
Karow	F.B.	Fry

Time of quarters—15 minutes.

Starting time—2:30, Eastern Standard time.

Northwestern Loses Its Star

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 24.—The injury to Ralph Baker, "the Red Grange of Northwestern," on the eve of the intersectional game with Tulane, formidable team of the south, was a sad blow to Northwestern football adherents. And the later news that Baker's services might be lost to the team the rest of the season was a sadder blow.

RALPH BAKER

For Northwestern, up to now, has held high hopes for the 1925 campaign. Didn't the Purple team give the great Notre Dame team of 1924 one of its hard battles? Any team that held the Four Horsemen to two touchdowns might well crow. Rockne's men emerged victors in the 1924 contest by the close score of 13 to 6.

And when the early results of this season indicated that the South Bend team was sadly lacking in material of the kind that wore its uniforms last year Northwestern's hopes rose high.

Led by Baker, Northwestern licked South Dakota, always a formidable foe, 14 to 7.

They battled the Big Ten championship team from Chicago U. every inch of the field and held that team to a 6 to 0 score.

The Tulane game then loomed—as the word that Baker was injured, spread about.

The game with Notre Dame is to be staged at South Bend Nov. 21. There is a chance, of course, that Baker will be back in the game by that time, unless he goes in before, only to fall a victim again of the fate that seems to pursue outstanding stars.

In the meantime Northwestern is praying, and depending on Tim Lowery and its other stars to carry the burden.

Wooster Will Oppose Mount's Title March

WOOSTER, Oct. 24.—Wooster college football squad faces a hard task today, that of stopping Mount Union's march to football championship. Mount has not lost a battle this year, and is coming to Wooster with a team determined to even up past defeats.

Wooster came through the 7 to 6 victory over Reserve with few injuries. Bluogh, drop kicker and flashy halfback, injured his knee again and may not be able to play this week.

Wooster's line showed improvement Saturday, but is still far from being in the form it should.

Sangor-Stoy Battle In Youngstown Ring

Local fight fans who expect to take in the Rosey Stoy-Joey Sangor battle at Rayen Wood auditorium, Youngstown, next Wednesday night, are anticipating something of a scrap.

This pair met at Idora park this summer. The bout ended in the ninth round when Sangor hurt his leg when he stepped on a bad board in the ring. Up until then it was a slam bang affair.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 24.—Athletic Director C. V. Elder of Bethany college, has arranged to have all of the bleachers on the Wellsburg high school field tested today by the building inspector of Wellsburg in order to guard against any accident during the Bethany-Geneva game such as occurred at the W. & J. field last Saturday.

MICHIGAN SET FOR "ICE MAN"

Face Grange in Tilt With Illini at Urbana.

BY GEORGE A. STRICKLER

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 24.—Flushed with victories over two conference contenders and confident in the pdowess of Friedman, fleet Wolverine pilot, Michigan faces Illinois in the memorial stadium here today in what pretends to be the headline entry on the west's grid program.

Illinois looks to Grange, the fiery topped ice-man from Wheaton for anteams are in perfect playing health, other victory over Michigan. Both barring the inability of Daugherty of Illinois, and Edwards, giant Wolverine tackle, who carried much of the maize hopes of stopping Grange.

While Illinois and Michigan tre debating before some 75,000 cash customers, Iowa and Ohio State will be entertaining almost as many fans at Columbus. This game also attracts interest from the individual standpoint, it being first of all a meeting between Kutsch, the Iowa Cowboy, and Marek, Ohio ace, two boys who Summer in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Kutsch has already hammered his way into the hall of fame with his single handed victory over Illinois last week, and Marek is an athlete of much ability, who carried a leading role in Ohio's three point deadlock with Chicago.

Chicago, another conference pace setter, gathers its following for the afternoon jointly with Pennsylvania at Philadelphia in the first game the two teams in a quarter of a century.

Wisconsin meets Purdue in a conference game at Madison, but the other members of the Western circuit will be hosts to outsiders, at Minneapolis, Minnesota tackles Notre Dame.

Canton Bulldogs to Play in Cleveland

CANTON, Oct. 24.—The Canton Bulldogs take on a hated rival Sunday when they meet the Cleveland Collegians, at Cleveland. Ever since pro football was organized in Cleveland, the clubs from Canton and the Fifth City have met annually on the gridiron, and Sunday's game is the first of a home and home series.

Adding to the feeling of rivalry is the fact that Cleveland held the franchise of the Bulldogs last season and won the national title with a number of the local players.

On comparative scores, the Clevelanders appear to have the advantage. Akron beat the Collegians, 7-0, and registered a 20 to 3 victory over the Cantonians.

Beichley Returns to Wittenberg Lineup

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 24.—Wittenberg will clash with Heidelberg this afternoon in the Lutherans' third home game of the season. The Wittenbergers emerged from the St. Xavier contest last week in good shape. Captain Beichley returned to his post at quarter following a week's rest with an injured ankle.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Oct. 24. — Anthony "Shorty" Kostos, brilliant tackle and captain of the Bucknell team, is the second of the Kostos clan to captain an Orange and Blue eleven. His brother, Joe Kostos, was one of the mightiest backfield men ever turned out by the Lewisburg, Pa., institution of learning.

CAPT. KOSTOS-BUCKNELL

It is the only time in the history of football at Bucknell University that two brothers have had the proud distinction of captaining the college eleven.

Anthony, like his brother Joe, was graduated by Mount Carmel high school, where he gained undying fame as a grid performer.

When "Shorty" went to Bucknell he was a backfield man, but the Bison coaching staff converted him into the great lineman that he is today.

As a leader, his sterling generalship was uncovered in the Rutgers-Bucknell game of 1924, when the Bisons upset the football world by licking Rutgers, 10 to 0.

Anthony is also a star on the baseball field, on the track and on the basketball floor.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 24. — Smack Thompson, captain and end of the football eleven of the University of Georgia, is all smiles over prospects for a successful Dixie gridiron conference season this fall.

SMACK THOMPSON

Georgia proved a real surprise in defeating Mercer University 33-0 in the opening game of the season at Macon, Ga., after Mercer had been doped to win. The team's failure to halt Yale has not checked Georgia's hopes in the southern games. Thompson is one of the gamest gridiron warriors in southern football. He is a sure tackler.

TRYON-SLAGLE POINT BATTLE

"Triple Threaters" Feature Tiger-Colgate Game.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24.—It will be Jakie Slagle, the Prince of Orange, against Eddie Tryon, Marquis of the Maroon, in the final analysis of the Princeton-Colgate game in Palmer stadium this afternoon. Both are tripple threat men. Both can step. The field is dry. The footing fast. It should be quite a battle.

Slagle is the tow-headed speedster that the Canny Mr. Roper uncorked against Harvard last fall. He does everything there is to do with a football.

Tryon, the Colgate Cannon-ball, makes it a point to be the leading scorer in the East each fall, and is well on the way to that distinction again this year.

60,000 WILL SEE PENN BATTLE STAGG'S ELEVEN

By Davis J. Walsh.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Geographic rivals were to meet this afternoon for the fifth time in gridiron history and the football fans of two sections sat palpitant. Twenty-five years ago almost to the day, Alonzo Stagg, then a man in the full flush of youth, sent Chicago against Pennsylvania for the last time and the result was a 5 to 5 tie.

Since then, amicable but not liberal relations prevails and though the teams have stood as the football leaders of two great sections they never again met. As the issue stood before the game, Pennsylvania had the impressive record of never finishing second to Chicago, the series showing three local victories and the lone tie game.

Of all the games played between the pair, this one carried the biggest edge in national interest and a goodly crowd of not much less than 60,000 was to be there. Pennsylvania was fresh from a great victory over Yale last Saturday. Chicago came on as the co-leader with Michigan of the Western conference field. If the two teams were hand picked for the game, a greater natural rivalry could not have prevailed.

"We have a fighting chance," said Stagg this morning and if he sat up all night to think that one over, he couldn't have expressed the situation more aptly. The Chicago team never existed that didn't have a fighting chance.

That's the kind of teams they turn out at Chicago. As a rule, they are fighting teams with a fool proof defense and a running attack that grinds rivals into the dust. Stagg never had a team that wasn't defensively perfect and this year's outfit is no exception. The team has a line averaging nearly 200 pounds to the individual hoof, a great plunger in McCarty and a certain scorer from the field in Bob Curley, light in weight but very heavy in ability.

Once inside in the 50-yard line, Curley misses about as often as the sun rises in the West.

The betting, if any, slightly favored Pennsylvania because if its reputed ability to step out with a lot of early speed. It was expected to get the jump on Chicago and then dire home on its defense, which was supposed to be a thing of beauty and joy forever. At that, Yale scored 13 points in the final half last Saturday but today's game was supposed to uncover sounder and more orthodox football.

The probable line-up:

Chicago—		—Penna
Lampe	L E	Singer
Henderson	L T	Wilson
Hibben	L G	Pike
Baker	C	Robinson
Pokrass	R G	Snyder
Hobscheid	R T	Sieracki
Yersley	R E	Thayer
Curley	Q B	Leith
Kerwein	L H B	Rogers
Marks	R H B	Fields
McCarty	F B	Kreuz

Referee—Tom Throp, Columbia. Umpire, Charles Eckles, W. and J. head linesman, Milt Ghee, Dartmouth. Field judge, Col. H. B. Hackett, West Point.

BISONS-GENEVA IN 10TH CLASH

Beaver Falls Outfit Holds Edge on Bethany Rivals.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 24.—This afternoon the Bethany college football team wil stage the tenth gridiron battle of their athletic history with Geneva college. The record of the contests during the past 16 years of athletic relations gives the Beaver Falls college somewhat of an edge on the Bisons. The Geneva college eleven will meet an entirely different team this year than the one they battled last year and they will find that Coach Nuss turns out fighting teams, for such is the Bison eleven this year.

In 1923 the Bisons handed out their last defeat to the Covenanters. Carl Hamill, who was playing his first season of football for Bethany that year, was instrumental in scoring the lone touchdown of that game and it is this one man that will cause the Geneva gridders no little worry in their contest tomorrow. He has thrice crossed the goal line for the Green and White this season.

Dale Fiers, the husky Bison end who hails from West Palm Beach, Florida, will be at his regular position on the left end. Fiers has emerged from every game without a scratch. Just who will be at the other terminal is a question as Rhine, who has been at that position for the last three games, has been bothered for some time with a "charleyhorse" It may be that either Kuhn or Hamilton will repace Rhine.

Rice, however, has a very had wrist, but in case he is not able to play, Brandon, a good sized New Cumberland, W. Va., lad, will take his place at the right position. Griffith and Serafini will probably be at the guard positions with either Scott or Price at center.

The fullback position will be filled by either Hamill or Dimick with Carey at quarter and Stobbs and Captain Loppacker at the halves.

Goose Goslin Has Better Luck With Auto Than With His Goat

"Goose" Goslin, heavy slugger of the Washington ball club, apparently had better luck with his automobile than his goat. When his car was stolen from in front of his fair one's home he recovered it in three or four hours.

In the late lamented (for Washington) world's series, Earl Smith, Pirate catcher, stole Goslin's nanny and the Washington slugger never has recovered it.

Which may be either a sad commentary on the ability of ball park police or a tribute to Smith's genius in devising and carrying out a "perfect crime."

One feature of play of Chicago's football teams has come to be an integral part of Coach Stagg's system—a sort of traditional form.

This is the "Chicago" shift. In this shift the tackles are drawn back and there are three possible shifts by the backfield men, ranging from a one-step to a three-step shift. The varied number of plays which are started from this shift formation makes it a confusing one for the opposition. The defensive team cannot foretell whether the play is to be a kicking, passing or running one.

Navy football officials would feel much easier about the annual game with Princeton were the rules changed so that substitutes were eliminated.

For the last two years now a Princeton substitute has spilled tomato soup all over the bright colored vests of the Navy football diners. Last year one, Sam Ewing, sitting idly by during most of the game, stepped in at the psychological moment and kicked a field goal that placed the Annapolis team on the little end of the horn.

This year one, Dan Caulkins, sat unobtrusively on the second string bench until called upon to do his stuff. When called upon to do it he bidded his chance until he found a forward pass rolling loose about the gridiron. Recalling instructions of various coaches regarding just such an emergency he picked it up and lit out for home. Somebody tripped him as he neared the goal line, but he had lugged the ball from the shadow of the Princeton posts to within a few yards of the Navy line. Bridges carried the ball over for a touchdown a few moments later.

Years ago the early defeats sustained by the Harvard elevens meant little in the year's run. They were but practice events anyhow, leading up to the games with Yale and Princeton. Then came gloomy days when the season ended in a licking at the hands of one or both of the brother members of the Big Three. Got so, too, that earnest efforts to prevent the early season defeats met with little success.

Consequently, the recent beating handed Harvard by Holy Cross leaves a long face on John Harvard. Victories are needed to give Harvard confidence in its big games. Defeats are the galling habit now, not the fruit cocktail.

BOWLERS OPEN CARD MONDAY

Eight Team League Goes Into Action at Liberty.

Forbes "Scotty" Alcock's City Industrial bowlers will untangle the maples Monday night at the Liberty alleys in the first series of games of the 1925-26 season.

The circuit takes in eight teams from district manufacturing plants. They are: Laughlin 1, 4, 5 and 6, Taylor, Smith & Taylor, Trotters, Edwin M. Knowles and Hall China, the rosters including city, East End, Newell and Chester performers.

The league will bowl four nights a week—Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The schedule calls for two split seasons, of 14 weeks each, with a final series for the championship between the first and the second half winners.

Tuesday—T. S. T. vs. Laughlin 1.

Wednesday—Trotters vs. E. M. Knowles.

Ohio U. Sics Jinx On Wesleyan Outfit

ATHENS, Oct. 24.—The Ohio University jinx, which has trailed Ohio Wesleyan like a shadow for the last two years, was trimmed, combed and generally sleeked up today in preparation for its formal presentation to the Methodists here on Saturday. Settlement of the Ohio Conference championship appears to rest with the performance of the jinx when let loose for the first time this year against a team from the Delaware school.

The jinx, in the form of a squad of eager football men, was put through light practice this afternoon. The period was chiefly a warming up affair, with some attention being given to minute points in the execution of certain plays. The squad is living as one large family at a fraternity house, and no player will have any free moments until game time.

Q. How many planets smaller than the eight major planets are there rin the solar system? P. C.

A. There are over 800 small planets or planetooids circulating about the sun.

Q. How much larger than Africa is Asia? F. P. McK.

A. It is almost 50 per cent larger. Africa contains 11,605,000 square miles and Asia 17,652,000 square miles.

Q. Where are the Daingren Proving Grounds? G. T. C.

A. They are situated just above Colonial Beach, Virginia.

Q. When was admission first charged for a baseball game? H. T. B.

A. The first time admission was ever charged to see a baseball game was on July 20, 1859. The game was played between teams from Brooklyn and New York, taking place on the Fashion Race Course, Long Island. Over 1,500 people paid 50 cents to watch the contest.

Q. How many stalks of corn can be produced from one kernal of corn? T. G. N.

A. The Bureau of Plant Industry says that one single kernal of corn produces as many as four or five stalks. Each stalk is attached to a separate root system.

Q. Who was the first person to be electrocuted instead of hanged in New York? J. H. B.

A. The first man to suffer the death penalty by electrocution in New York was William Kemmler, who was executed in New York on August 6, 1890.

Q. Do scientists attribute the present drought to charges in ocean currents, and may we expect a permanent change in our climate? T. W. B.

A. The Weather Bureau says that they have no proof whatever that the drought to which you refer was caused by changes in ocean currents. Neither have they any reason to believe that a permanent change in our climate has begun.

Q. What is the origin of the word funeral? G. K. N.

A. A funeral is so termed from the fact that in ancient times the Romans were buried by torch light, twisted ropes (funalia) smeared with pitch being carried by the mourners for the purpose.

Q. How old is the obelisk in Central park supposed to be? C. S.

A. The obelisk in Central park, New York, is thirty-five centuries old. As the Standard Guide to New York City remarks: "It was old when Moses read its inscription in honor of the Egyptian and sun god.' It stood before the Temple of the Sun at Heliopolis near Cairo where it was erected in the 16th Century B. C., by Thothme III. In 12 B. C. Augustus Caesar carried the obelisk to Alexandria. Here it and two others were erected before the Temple of the Caesars. In 1877 it was presented by the Khedive of Egypt to the United States, and brought to America by Lt. Cmdr. Gorringe, U. S. N. It was erected in Central park in 1881. William H. Vanderbilt bore the expense of removal which was $102,576. The obelisk is a monolith of syenite from the granite quarries of Syene, Egypt. The shaft is 69½ feet high, 7 feet 9 inches by 7 feet 8½ inches at the base and weighs 448,000 pounds.

LONDON.—England is drinking less whiskey. Statistics show that the consumption of whiskey in the United Kingdom has decreased by one third during the past twenty-one years, and that only eleven million proof gallons are now bei... annually consummed.

It must not be thought that the British whisky distillers are on the way to the poorhouse, however, for American prohibition has resulted in a heavily increased export trade. For instance, the exportation of whisky to Canada, for long known to be the half way liquor house to America, increased by nearly seventy thousand proof gallons during one month. The decrease in the English consumption is said to be due to the inferior whisky which is now being turned out, and the high price that is being demanded for it.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO

ARTICLE VIII, SECTION 13

PROPOSING TO AMEND ARTICLE VIII OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO BY THE ADDITION OF A NEW SECTION, TO BE DESIGNATED AS ARTICLE VIII, SECTION 13, RELATIVE TO THE INCURRING OF INDEBTEDNESS BY POLITICAL SUBDIVISIONS.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, in the manner provided by law on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to add a new section to the constitution to be known as article VIII, section 13, to read as follows:

ARTICLE VIII.

Sec. 13. No bonds, notes, certificates of indebtedness or other evidence of indebtedness shall be issued by any county, school district, township, municipal corporation or other political subdivision or taxing district for current operating expense, or for the acquisition or construction of any property or improvement having an estimated usefulness of less than five years; but laws may be passed authorizing borrowing for a period not exceeding six months in anticipation of the collection of revenue in and for the current fiscal year in which such indebtedness is incurred, or authorizing indebtedness in anticipation of the levy or collection of special assessments or for defraying the expenses of an extraordinary epidemic of disease or emergency expenses made necessary by sudden casualty which could not reasonably have been foreseen, or to provide for the payment of final judgments for personal injuries or other non-contractual obligations. No bonds or notes issued for the acquisition or construction of property or improvements shall run for longer than the probable period of usefulness of such property or improvements, to be estimated as determined as provided by laws fixing maximum maturities herein authorized. Laws shall be passed to fix the fiscal years of political subdivisions and taxing districts and to designate the boards or officers by whom and the manner in which the estimates as to the period of usefulness of property or improvements shall be made and certified. Within the limitations of this section laws may be passed fixing the maximum maturity of bonds or notes issued for any purpose or class of purposes.

Be it further resolved That at such election, above referred to, this proposal shall be placed on the official ballot, in the manner provided by law in such form as the secretary of state may designate. If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, the amendment shall go into effect January 1, 1926, and original section 2 of article III, and section 2 of article X, and section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio shall be repealed and annulled. The General Assembly shall have power to so adjust or extend existing terms of office as to effect the purpose of the foregoing amendment.

Adopted April 17, 1925.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
STATE OF OHIO.
Office of the Secretary of State.

I, THAD H. BROWN, Secretary of State, of the State of Ohio, do hereby certify that the foregoing are exemplified copies, carefully compared by me with the originals now on file in my office and in my official custody as Secretary of State and found to be true and correct, of a Joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on March 27, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, on April 4, 1925, proposing to amend article VIII of the constitution of the state of Ohio by the addition of a new section, to be designated as article VIII, section 13, relative to the incurring of indebtedness by political subdivisions, and of a Joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on March 26, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, on April 4, 1925, proposing to amend article XII, section 2 of the Constitution so as to provide for taxation by uniform rule of all real estate and tangible property except motor vehicles, and to provide for the taxation of intangible property, and of a Joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on April 17, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, April 21, 1925, proposing to amend section 2 of article III, section 2 of article X and to repeal section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio, to provide for terms of office of not less than four years.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 1st day of September, A. D. 1925.
[Seal] Secretary of State.

ARTICLE XII, SECTION 2

PROPOSING TO AMEND ARTICLE XII, SECTION 2 OF THE CONSTITUTION SO AS TO PROVIDE FOR TAXATION BY UNIFORM RULE OF ALL REAL ESTATE AND TANGIBLE PROPERTY EXCEPT MOTOR VEHICLES, AND TO PROVIDE FOR THE TAXATION OF INTANGIBLE PROPERTY.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to amend article XII, section 2 of the constitution of the state of Ohio, to read as follows:

ARTICLE XII.

Sec. 2. Laws shall be passed, taxing by a uniform rule all real estate and improvements thereon and all tangible personal property, according to their true value in money, excepting motor vehicles which shall be taxed as may be provided by law. All moneys, credits, bonds, stocks and all other intangible property, shall be taxed as may be provided by law.

But all bonds outstanding on the first day of January 1915 of the state of Ohio or of any city, village, hamlet, county or township in this state or which have been issued in behalf of the public schools in Ohio and the means of instruction in connection therewith, and all bonds issued under article VIII, section 2a of this constitution for the world war compensation fund, shall be exempt from taxation, and burying grounds public school houses, houses used exclusively for public worship, institutions used exclusively for charitable purposes, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, and tangible personal property, to an amount not exceeding in value five hundred dollars for any individual, may by general laws, be exempted from taxation; and laws may be passed to provide against the double taxation that results from the taxation of both the real estate and the mortgage or the debt secured thereby, or other lien upon it, but all such laws shall be subject to alteration or repeal; and the value of all property, so exempted, shall, from time to time, be ascertained and published as may be directed by law.

Be it further resolved, That at such election, above referred to, this amendment shall be placed on the official ballot, in the manner provided by law, in such form as the secretary of state may designate.

If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, this amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1926, and original section 2 of article XII of the constitution shall be repealed and annulled.

Adopted March 26, 1925.

ARTICLE III, SECTION 2; ARTICLE X, SECTION 2

PROPOSING TO AMEND SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE III, SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE X AND TO REPEAL SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE XVII AND SECTION 3 OF ARTICLE X OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, TO PROVIDE FOR TERMS OF OFFICE OF NOT LESS THAN FOUR YEARS.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to amend section 2 of article III and section 2 of article X, and to repeal section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio to read as follows:

ARTICLE III.

Sec. 2. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor and attorney general shall hold their offices for four years. Their terms of office shall commence on the first Monday of January next after their election, and continue until their successors are elected and qualified.

ARTICLE X

Sec. 2. All elective county officers shall be elected on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, by the electors of each county for a period of four years.

Be it further resolved, That at the election, above referred to, such proposal shall be placed on the official ballot, in such manner as the secretary of state may designate. If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, the amendment shall go into effect January 1, 1926, and original section 2 of article III, and section 2 of article X, and section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio shall be repealed and annulled. The General Assembly shall have power to so adjust or extend existing terms of office as to effect the purpose of the foregoing amendment.

Adopted April 17, 1925.

ROAD BUILDING BEING SPEEDED

Work Progressing on Road in Yellow Creek Township.

Less than three-quarters of a mile of concrete remains to be poured on the last section of the Wellsville-Salienville road in Yellow Creek township, it was announced today by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. Pouring at the rate of 396 feet per day, this concrete job should be completed within 10 working days, it has been pointed out.

More or less delay has been encountered on this contract on account of non-delivery of materials at the Salineville railroad yards. If it is possible to pour all of the remaining section of this road by Nov. 7, the last section will have to remain closed for three weeks to allow the concrete to set before the highway will be allowed to be opened for traffic by the State Highway Department. Should this schedule be adhered to, the road may be opened on or about Nov. 28th.

During the week of Nov. 2nd the county commissioners will send trucks to Salineville to ash that section of this road within the corporate limits, and which section is to be surfaced next year. At all events, the road between East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville will be opened to through traffic over the Chattle Lake route before Dec. 1st according to Surveyor Kirk.

Passage of the proposed $950,000 bond issue will insure the construction of the Salineville-Lisbon road through Wayne township within a short time, it was disclosed at the office of the county commissioners Saturday morning. This four-mile strip will give the south-central part of the county a direct road north and south and also openinfg the Salem territory to Salineville by an improved highway.

This road is improved in Centre township, and south to the Centre-Wayne township line, but in Wayne township there is no improved highway, the township at this time being behind Franklin township in this respect.

During the week the county commissioners have been informed that considerable interest is being shown in the plan to build an improved highway between Homeworth in Knox township northeast through Butler township to Salem. It is known that the commissioners are anxious to build this road, and connect up with an improved link in the North Georgetown territory, so that trade from the western part of the county which now flits into Alliance can be diverted into the Salem district.

This road will also give Salem a new outlet to Valley, and connecting at Valley with an improved road from that place north to Damascus.

A meeting of residents of the Highlandtown section in Washington township will be held there next Monday night at which time the proposed bond issue will be discussed.

Tuesday evening a similar meeting will be held at Salineville, and Thursday night a like gathering will be held at Summitville where Franklin township is anxious to have Salineville hooked up through Summitville with the Lincoln Highway at Kensington.

The last road meeting before election day will be held Friday night of next week at Willow Grove Grange hall.

PREDICT CLOSE ELECTION FIGHT

The election in Franklin township November 3rd gives early indication of being an interesting one. In the field for trustee there are four candidates. F. H. Johnson of the Summitville Brick compan, and J. A. Williard are candidates for re-election, while S. M. Brown and J. S. Thompson are seeking a first term.

In the contest for clerk there will be two candidates. Jackson Peebles and Edwin King. For member of the township board of education the names of three candidates will appear on the ballot, Elvy Thompson, Alansan Finnicum and James Kelley. The petition of Fred Nisson for this office was not properly signed and was rejected by the county board of elections. Mr. Nisson has been an active member of the board of education for the last four years, and although his name will not appear on the ballot, it is said in Franklin township that his name will be written in on the ballot.

HUNTERS SLOW IN SEEKING PERMITS

The demand for hunters licenses this year is declared to be "dull," and the number issued by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to date indicates that not much interest is being shown in the sport. However, all township clerks have been provided with such licenses, and applicants are being supplied from that source as well as at the office of the clerk of courts.

Township clerks look for a rush for these licenses about November 1, which will be in line with the heaviest demand in previous years. There has been no change made by the legislature in the fee charged for these license tags.

Granted Divorce.

In the divorce case of Hazel Patterson against her husband William Patterson, the court has granted the plaintiff a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty, and has also awarded the custody of a minor child to Mrs. Patterson.

DOG LICENSES STILL IN DEMAND

A total of 5,152 dog licenses have been issued so far this year by Deputy Tax Collector Randall Hamilton, there being an increased demand for the license tags noted since so many have had to pay fines and penalties for failure to take out licenses as required by law.

"We're ahead of last year, but a number of dog owners are still delinquent, according to the tax returns the dog owners have filed,' Mr. Hamilton declared. "We're checking up on all of these records, and sooner or later we'll have had all the dog owners of the county in."

The money collected from this source goes to the dog and kennel fund and also to the county board of education.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment for $750 and interest from Nov. 5, 1924, amounting to $39.36 has been rendered in common pleas court by default in the case of Thomas Richardson against J. R. Call, formerly of East Palestine. The action was based upon a note given by the defendant to the plaintiff.

Action Dismissed.

At the costs of the plaintiff and on her own motion, the action filed in common pleas court Dec. 21, 1923, by Elizabeth C. Runyon against Charles Boyd as administrator has been dismissed from the record.

Pastor Returns Home.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry M. Peebles of Millport, have concluded a two weeks' visit vacation spent with relatives in Licking county and at Coshocton. As a result of the return to Millport of the minister, the usual services will be held in Bethesda church Sunday morning.

Woman Given Divorce.

On the grounds of extreme cruelty a decree of divorce has been granted by Judge James G. Moore in common pleas court No. 1 to Dollie Sunderman against her husband, Raymond Sunderman. After the court awarded the custody of a minor child to the plaintiff, the defendant was ordered by the court to pay to Mrs. Sunderman alimony for the support of his child, as agreed upon.

Divorce Action Dismissed.

For failure to prosecute the case, the divorce action filed in common pleas court April 8, last, by Maude Randolph against her husband, Charles Randolph, has been dismissed from the record at the costs of the plaintiff.

Leetonia

Midway grange will hold its annual fair on Saturday evening. From 5 to 8 supper will be served and from 9 to 12 there will be dancing. An apron sale will also be one of the features. A number of cash premiums will be given for farm products, including corn, wheat, oats, potatoes, apples, pears, quinces, canned goods, fancywork, and the juveniles will be awarded prizes for baked articles and fancywork.

Leetonia lodge No. 401, F. & A. M., will hold special communications on Monday evening, October 26, and on Friday evening, October 30. On Friday evening a lunch will be one of the features. The meetings will be held in the lodge rooms, Main street.

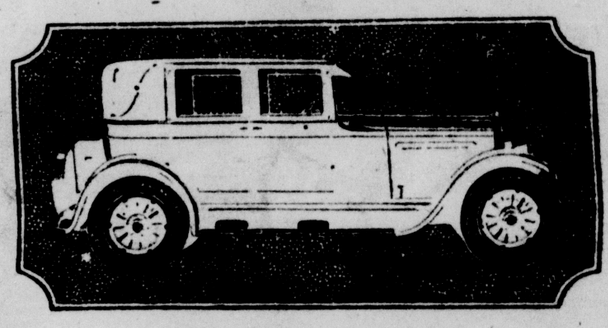
"everlastingly fine performance"!

"If other cars required as little attention, as few adjustments, as the Willys-Knight—the repair shops of this country would have to close their doors tomorrow!" . . .



—direct from the owner of the busiest repair shop in one of our largest cities comes that statement . . .

"Fully 50% of our time is spent in grinding valves and cleaning out carbon", says another service station manager . . .

In those two significant remarks, from experience-headquarters, you have the answer to the expensive and annoying cost-of-upkeep problem that perpetually perplexes so many car owners. And, in the same breath, you have the reason for the universal satisfaction of Willys-Knight owners, today in their hundreds of thousands! . . .

"An Engine You'll Never Wear Out"

the patented Knight sleeve-valve engine . . . in this lies the secret of Willys-Knight emancipation from engine-repairs, its freedom from the need for constant adjustment. This unique engine-principle means uninterrupted service, year in, year out. It means longer life for your car—immeasurably, infinitely longer. It means a sweeter, quieter, more efficient motor-mechanism up to and beyond 100,000 miles than you enjoyed on the day you bought it! . . .

No Carbon Troubles No Valves to Grind

. . . your Willys-Knight is absolutely immune from engine-complications and engine-disorders caused by carbon accumulation. "It's all the better for a bit of carbon"—any expert mechanic will tell you that. Carbon cannot harm your Willys-Knight, or cause knocks or noise, or put your car out of commission for hours and days. It is an engineering fact that carbon serves actually to facilitate this engine's functioning!

No valves to grind—no tappets, no springs, no rocker arm bushings to get out of order or replace. The Knight sleeve-valve idea gets rid of all of them. No eternal pounding of metal upon metal—all parts of this sleeve-valve engine slide and rotate—hence no chattering of parts, no wear and tear . . .

. . . where all other engines lose in power, lose in endurance, and cost more to run as their mileage grows—the engine of your Willys-Knight actually improves with use. It develops more horsepower, becomes sweeter and quieter, and costs less to run the more mileage you pile up on it!

A Car of Rare Beauty—Rare Distinction

And your Willys-Knight is as beautiful an automobile as you have ever cast your eyes upon. "In line and form the most graceful I have ever seen," a famous artist says. Its appointments as rich, its equipment as complete as you will find in any car, regardless of its price . . . See the smart Coupe-Sedan here shown. A car you will delight to drive. A car in which you will take vast pride in owning. Come, see this superb automobile. Familiarize yourself with the facts about its magnificent performance record. Consider the substantially reduced prices. Deferred payments. A small amount down. Your own convenience—52 weeks or more for balance. Your present car to apply as part payment.

Theodore Roosevelt's Birthday Will be Fittingly Observed

LANSING — Theodore Roosevelt's birthday, October 27, is to be marked throughout Michigan by special observance of the day in all schools. A letter sent out by T. E. Johnson, superintendent of public instructions, to all school heads, stated:

"I am suggesting that the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt be made the occasion of some special attention in the schools of Michigan. Mr. Roosevelt's life and work should be an inspiration to every child who finds himself handicapped early in life by a lack of physicial energy and ability. Certainly no person in history has made a greater place despite a serious handicap than Roosevelt."

SURRENDER
The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

CHAPTER 77.

Amoura set out early in the morning for Stone street, and its equally squalid neighbor, Green street, dressed simply and looking like the toiler in Bloom's candy factory, concerned only with wrapping endless chocolates and amassing enough precious coins to pay the rent, meet the weekly installment on the fur coat bought a year ago—when fur coats and silk stockings became the national peasant costume—and have enough left to see Ramon Navarro in his latest photoplay.

The evening before she had conceived a widely varying assortment of plans for teaching the poor of Westland to help themselves. She would, she decided, work independently of the local charities organization, and open a model house, organize classes in cookery, dressmaking, marketing, household management. Eventually there must be a community center, with a woman whose duty it would be to bring lonely young men and women together; swimming pools, billiard parlors, dances, programs of the better movies, play classes for children.

In her mind she could see the splendid building; she would make her father, as an anonymous donor, provide the necessary funds. As for the money for her initial efforts, she would extract that from the Ainsley principal, too.

She went on foot, enjoying the invigorating early morning air, and resolving to adhere to the "early to bed, early to rise" maxim. By the time she reached the foot of Indian Hill and traversed Main street six blocks, Stone street was, with Green street, pouring workers into the factories. Crowded streets became in a short time, almost deserted. Here and there dirty children played. Some wives haggled with hucksters. On a corner was a loafer or two.

Amoura was the subject of the curiosity of all who saw her in Stone street. She paused at Tillie's house and thought of going in, but went on, feeling uncomfortable. The ugliness of it! Would she be able to stand it down here, while she was endeavoring to help these people? Her determination met the challenge and flamed higher.

Near where Green street crosses, or collides with, for there are only a few shacks beyond, the railroad tracks, she saw a house that she thought would be excellent for her "homemakers' institute." A once grand residence, now like a discarded Rolls-Royce in a junkyard. Inhabited, it seemed, by swarms of swarthy children. She took the number with the idea of having the family lawyer find out how it could be purchased.

Down here, a half mile below Indian Hill geographically, but miles below Indian Hill in the scale of human existence, was, she felt in her youthful enthusiasm, a great field for useful work. She felt the call to service. Almost fondly she looked again at the squalid district as she reclimbed the winding streets that led to her home.

There, pencil and paper in hand, she made new plans and calculations. Luncheon was an interlude. In the afternoon she drew up a chart of courses she thought the institute ought to have, and decided how many co-workers she would need. How to go about getting them? Girls like Lucia Berryman? No. Here was a problem. She was still occupied with it when, at 4 o'clock, Tommy Loughley telephoned.

"I just got into town," he announced.

"I'm so glad you're able to stop here, Tommy. We expect you to dinner tonight."

"Really—."

"No excuses, Tommy. You're to be the only guest. At 7, please."

"Ah ha," said her father, insinuatingly, when he got a glimpse of her passing through the upper hall from her own suite to her mother's. "Almost as beautiful as your mother was when she was your age."

"What's that, Reginald?" Mrs. Ainsley called out.

Her husband, as if he was embarrassed by her hearing the compliment, went on downstairs, saying, "Nothing, my dear, nothing."

Mrs. Ainsley laughed when Amoura repeated his words. "Reginald has never forgotten to be gallant."

Tommy was resplendent in his evening clothes, and was at his best in them. He never was impressive in a "business suit" or sport clothes, but put him in a carefully tailored dress coat and he was the personification of manliness.

Amoura presented him to her parents in the library. J. Reginald beamed beneficently; Mrs. Ainsley smiled politely. Tommy, uncomfortable in their presence, perhaps, was reticent, advancing only conventional inquiries. At the dinner table he was brighter, however. It was easy to see he was relieved when dinner was over, and, having smoked a cigar and had liquors with his host, he was alone in the library with Amoura.

"I simply had to see you," he said.

Johnson's very words, she thought. Do all men say the same things?

"I wanted to tell you—."

She knew very well what he was going to say, and wondered, as he hesitated, what reply she would make.

DR. LANDRITH TO SPEAK HERE

County C. E. Union Engages Famed Lecturer.

One of the outstanding events of the early winter in East Liverpool is the coming of Dr. Ira Landrith of Chicago, nationally famed lecturer and reform leader. He is scheduled to speak at the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday evening, Nov. 15.

Dr. Landrith's engagement has been made by the Columbiana County Christian Endeavor Union, and his meeting is open to the public without charge. He is giving practically all of his time at present in the interest of the youth of America, actively functioning in connection with the United Society of Christian Endeavor.

Dr. Landrith has spent the months of September and October in Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma and other southwestern states, and is engaged in Ohio the first 15 days of November, going directly thence to New York state for three weeks immediately following. The citizens of East Liverpool are fortunate in being able to hear this man who has been foremost in great inter-church causes, prohibition and peace movements for more than 25 years.

$20,000,000 In Gems Sacrificed Yearly in Burial With The Dead

CHICAGO.—People of the United States sacrifice twenty million dollars annually that is buried with the dead. This amount in jewelry alone is buried to preserve in the minds of the living a certain sentiment and regard for the deceased.

"Two billion dollars in gold and jewels lie under 6 feet of ground in this country," said Federick W. Patterson of Atlanta, Ga., president of the National Selected Morticians. This amount has accumulated since the birth of America.

The custom of burying jewels with the dead originated in early Egypt, where it was believed that the deceased carried valuables to a new world. In recent years, however, the custom is maintained merely as an expression of regard for the dead. The jewels buried are usually articles that were cherished in life by the deceased.

IF AUTOMOBILES BURNED COAL AND CARRIED AN ASH PAN—

Suppose an automobile burned coal. It would be necessary to have an ash pan into which the cinders and clinkers could drop.

The crankcase of a gasoline-burning automobile is its "ash pan." All the unburned portions of its fuel will pass the piston rings and enter the lubricating oil, thinning it and causing cylinder wear and bearing trouble.

The remedy of course, is to keep the motor in good mechanical condition, to use only MARATHON GASOLINE—and finally, and most important, to employ

MARATHON MOTOR OIL

RESULT MAY PAVE WAY TO TITLE FOR VICTOR

State Attack Will be Led by Scintillating Halfback, Elmer Marek, and Fellow Iowan, Nick Kutsch, Will be Big Punch for Invaders; Open Field Playing and Aerial Performances are Expected by Fans.

BY JACK CE JNAR

COLUMBUS, Oct. 24.—Two of the football titans of the big ten conference—Ohio State and Iowa—will collide with the momentum of last week's striking victories behind them, when their 1925 title trails cross at the stadium this afternoon.

The spirit of fight prevaded both camps.

The Buckeyes, conquerors by a 9 to 0 scors of Columbia, were grimly determined to outdo themselves in today's crucial tilt that many fans believe will pave the way to championship honors for the victor.

The Hawkeyes, who triumphed over "Red" Grange and his Illinois teammates, 12 to 10, were resolved to say it with touchdowns.

Rain or shine it will be an epic struggle that will unfold before some 45,000 spectators. Both sides will be led by laurel crowned supermen of the gridiron, who by a strange coincidence both sprang from Iowa soil.

Elmer Marek, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the scintillating Ohio States half back, and incidentally one of the five Cedar Rapids boys who will figure in the contest, and his brilliant running mates Karow, Grim, and Clark and perhaps Boyer, will lead the Buckeye attack. The Hawkeye offense will be headed by Nick Kutsch of Sioux City, Iowa, leading scorer of the conference and his efficient cohorts, Fry, Schirmer and Graham.

With the lines presenting almost equal bulwarks, followers of the pigskin sport expected spectacular open field playing and aerial performances by the fast backfields was dry.

"Can Ohio State stop Kutsch?", "can Marek circle Iowa ends?", "Can he outboot and outpass Kutsch?", "Will Ohio check Kutsch?"

Thousands of football mad rooters asked these questions today.

As is fitting in the best football circles, both coaches were as usual loaded with gloom.

"Look what Iowa did to Illinois" said Dr. John W. Wilce. "The visitors have a powerful team. We are handicapped by injuries to Bill Jenkins, Keith Devoe and Bill Hunt."

"We have a slim chance," quoth Bert Ingwersen. "Didn't Ohio State beat Columbia? Doesn't Ohio State claim to have the best team in years? Don't they outweigh us?"

News of a more pleasing nature drifted in, however, from the final practice yesterday afternoon. It was rumored that Harold Wendler, Fremont, Ohio, star quarterback, out of two games with injuries, might be able also to get into action before the final whistle.

Today was "Dad's Day" in campus and university authorities set aside a bench on the sidelines, right back of the 'Varsity squad, for the fathers of as many Ohio girdders as could attend the game.

The probable lineup this afternoon will be:

Probable lineup:

Ohio		Iowa
Cunningham (C)	L.E.	Rice
Nichols	L.T.	Hines
Meyers	L.G.	Krasuski

RALPH BAKER

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 24.—The injury to Ralph Baker, "the Red Grange of Northwestern," on the eve of the intersectional game with Tulane, formidable team of the south, was a sad blow to Northwestern football adherents. And the later news that Baker's services might be lost to the team the rest of the season was a sadder blow.

For Northwestern, up to now, has held high hopes for the 1925 campaign. Didn't the Purple team give the great Notre Dame team of 1924 one of its hard battles? Any team that held the Four Horsemen to two touchdowns might well crow. Rockne's men emerged victors in the 1924 contest by the close score of 13 to 6.

And when the early results of this season indicated that the South Bend team was sadly lacking in material of the kind that wore its uniforms last year Northwestern's hopes rose high.

Led by Baker, Northwestern licked South Dakota, always a formidable foe, 14 to 7.

They battled the Big Ten championship team from Chicago U. every inch of the field and held that team to a 6 to 0 score.

The Tulane game then loomed—as the word that Baker was injured, spread about.

The game with Notre Dame is to be staged at South Bend Nov. 21. There is a chance, of course, that Baker will be back in the game by that time, unless he goes in before, only to fall a victim again of the fate that seems to pursue outstanding stars.

In the meantime Northwestern is praying, and depending on Tim Lowery and its other stars to carry the burden.

Wooster Will Oppose Mount's Title March

WOOSTER, Oct. 24.—Wooster college football squad faces a hard task today, that of stopping Mount Union's march to football championship. Mount has not lost a battle this year, and is coming to Wooster with a team determined to even up past defeats.

Wooster came through the 7 to 6 victory over Reserve with few injuries. Bluogh, drop kicker and flashy halfback, injured his knee again and may not be able to play this week.

Wooster's line showed improvement Saturday, but is still far from being in the form it should.

Sangor-Stoy Battle In Youngstown Ring

Local fight fans who expect to take in the Rosey Stoy-Joey Sangor battle at Rayen Wood auditorium, Youngstown, next Wednesday night, are anticipating something of a scrap.

This pair met at Idora park this summer. The bout ended in the ninth round when Sangor hurt his leg when he stepped on a bad board in the ring. Up until then it was a slam bang affair.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 24.—Athletic Director C. V. Elder of Bethany college, has arranged to have all of the bleachers on the Wellsburg high school field tested today by the building inspector of Wellsburg in order to guard against any accident during the Bethany-Geneva game such as occurred at the W. & J. field last Saturday.

MICHIGAN SET FOR "ICE MAN"

Face Grange in Tilt With Illini at Urbana.

BY GEORGE A. STRICKLER

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 24.—Flushed with victories over two conference contenders and confident in the pdowess of Friedman, fleet Wolverine pilot, Michigan faces Illinois in the memorial stadium here today in what pretends to be the headline entry on the west's grid program.

Illinois looks to Grange, the fiery topped ice-man from Wheaton for anteams are in perfect playing health, other victory over Michigan. Both barring the inability of Daugherty of Illinois, and Edwards, giant Wolverine tackle, who carried much of the maize hopes of stopping Grange.

While Illinois and Michigan tre debating before some 75,000 cash customers, Iowa and Ohio State will be entertaining almost as many fans at Columbus. This game also attracts interest from the individual standpoint, it being first of all a meeting between Kutsch, the Iowa Cowboy, and Marek, Ohio ace, two boys who Summer in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Kutsch has already hammered his way into the hall of fame with his single handed victory over Illinois last week, and Marek is an athlete of much ability, who carried a leading role in Ohio's three point deadlock with Chicago.

Chicago, another conference pace setter, gathers its following for the afternoon jointly with Pennsylvania at Philadelphia in the first game the two teams in a quarter of a century.

Wisconsin meets Purdue in a conference game at Madison, but the other members of the Western circuit will be hosts to outsiders, at Minneapolis, Minnesota tackles Notre Dame.

Canton Bulldogs to Play in Cleveland

CANTON, Oct. 24.—The Canton Bulldogs take on a hated rival Sunday when they meet the Cleveland Collegians, at Cleveland. Ever since pro football was organized in Cleveland, the clubs from Canton and the Fifth City have met annually on the gridiron, and Sunday's game is the first of a home and home series.

Adding to the feeling of rivalry is the fact that Cleveland held the franchise of the Bulldogs last season and won the national title with a number of the local players.

On comparative scores, the Clevelanders appear to have the advantage. Akron beat the Collegians, 7-0, and registered a 20 to 3 victory over the Cantonians.

Beichley Returns to Wittenberg Lineup

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 24.—Wittenberg will clash with Heidelberg this afternoon in the Lutherans' third home game of the season. The Wittenbergers emerged from the St. Xavier contest last week in good shape. Captain Beichley returned to his post at quarter following a week's rest with an injured ankle.

CAPT. KOSTOS-BUCKNELL

LEWISBURG, Pa., Oct. 24. — Anthony "Shorty" Kostos, brilliant tackle and captain of the Bucknell team, is the second of the Kostos clan to captain an Orange and Blue eleven. His brother, Joe Kostos, was one of the nightiest backfield men ever turned out by the Lewisburg, Pa., institution of learning.

It is the only time in the history of football at Bucknell University that two brothers have had the proud distinction of captaining the college eleven.

Anthony, like his brother Joe, was graduated by Mount Carmel high school, where he gained undying fame as a grid performer.

When "Shorty" went to Bucknell he was a backfield man, but the Bison coaching staff converted him into the great lineman that he is today.

As a leader, his sterling generalship was uncovered in the Rutgers-Bucknell game of 1924, when the Bisons upset the football world by licking Rutgers, 10 to 0.

Anthony is also a star on the baseball field, on the track and on the basketball floor.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 24. — Smack Thompson, captain and end of the football eleven of the University of Georgia, is all smiles over prospects for a successful Dixie gridiron conference season this fall.

SMACK THOMPSON

Georgia proved a real surprise in defeating Mercer University 33-0 in the opening game of the season at Macon, Ga., after Mercer had been doped to win. The team's failure to halt Yale has not checked Georgia's hopes in the southern games. Thompson is one of the gamest gridiron warriors in southern football. He is a sure tackler.

TRYON-SLAGLE POINT BATTLE

"Triple Threaters" Feature Tiger-Colgate Game.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24.—It will be Jakie Slagle, the Prince of Orange, against Eddie Tryon, Marquis of the Maroon, in the final analysis of the Princeton-Colgate game in Palmer stadium this afternoon. Both are tripple threat men. Both can step. The field is dry. The footing fast. It should be quite a battle.

Slagle is the tow-headed speedster that the Canny Mr. Roper uncorked against Harvard last fall. He does everything there is to do with a football.

Tryon, the Colgate Cannon-ball, makes it a point to be the leading scorer in the East each fall, and is well on the way to that distinction again this year.

60,000 WILL SEE PENN BATTLE STAGG'S ELEVEN

By Davis J. Walsh.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Geographic rivals were to meet this afternoon for the fifth time in gridiron history and the football fans of two sections sat palpitant. Twenty-five years ago almost to the day, Alonzo Stagg, then a man in the full flush of youth, sent Chicago against Pennsylvania for the last time and the result was a 5 to 5 tie.

Since then, amicable but not liberal relations prevails and though the teams have stood as the football leaders of two great sections they never again met. As the issue stood before the game, Pennsylvania had the impressive record of never finishing second to Chicago, the series showing three local victories and the lone tie game.

Of all the games played between the pair, this one carried the biggest edge in national interest and a goodly crowd of not much less than 60,000 was to be there. Pennsylvania was fresh from a great victory over Yale last Saturday. Chicago came on as the co-leader with Michigan of the Western conference field. If the two teams were hand picked for the game, a greater natural rivalry could not have prevailed.

"We have a fighting chance,' said Stagg this morning and if he sat up all night to think that one over, he couldn't have expressed the situation more aptly. The Chicago team never existed that didn't have a fighting chance.

That's the kind of teams they turn out at Chicago. As a rule, they are fighting teams with a fool proof defense and a running attack that grinds rivals into the dust. Stagg never had a team that wasn't defensively perfect and this year's outfit is no exception. The team has a line averaging nearly 200 pounds to the individual hoof, a great plunger in McCarty and a certain scorer from the field in Bob Curley, light in weight but very heavy in ability.

Once inside in the 50-yard line, Curley misses about as often as the sun rises in the West.

The betting, if any, slightly favored Pennsylvania because if its reputed ability to step out with a lot of early speed. It was expected to get the jump on Chicago and then dire home on its defense, which was supposed to be a thing of beauty and joy forever. At that, Yale scored 13 points in the final half last Saturday but today's game was supposed to uncover sounder and more orthodox football.

The probable line-up:

Chicago—		—Penna
Lampe	L E	Singer
Henderson	L T	Wilson
Hibben	L G	Pike
Baker	C	Robinson
Pokrass	R G	Snyder
Hobscheid	R T	Sieracki
Yersley	R E	Thayer
Curley	Q B	Leith
Kerwein	L H B	Rogers
Marks	R H B	Fields

Beaver Falls Outfit Holds Edge on Bethany Rivals.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 24.—This afternoon the Bethany college football team wil stage the tenth gridiron battle of their athletic history with Geneva college. The record of the contests during the past 16 years of athletic relations gives the Beaver Falls college somewhat of an edge on the Bisons. The Geneva college eleven will meet an entirely different team this year than the one they battled last year and they will find that Coach Nuss turns out fighting teams, for such is the Bison eleven this year.

In 1923 the Bisons handed out their last defeat to the Covenanters. Carl Hamill, who was playing his first season of football for Bethany that year, was instrumental in scoring the lone touchdown of that game and it is this one man that will cause the Geneva gridders no little worry in their contest tomorrow. He has thrice crossed the goal line for the Green and White this season.

Dale Fiers, the husky Bison end who hails from West Palm Beach, Florida, will be at his regular position on the left end. Fiers has emerged from every game without a scratch. Just who will be at the other terminal is a question as Rhine, who has been at that position for the last three games, has been bothered for some time with a "charleyhorse." It may be that either Kuhn or Hamilton will repace Rhine.

Rice, however, has a very had wrist, but in case he is not able to play, Brandon, a good sized New Cumberland, W. Va., lad, will take his place at the right position. Griffith and Serafini will probably be at the guard positions with either Scott or Price at center.

The fullback position will be filled by either Hamill or Dimick with Carey at quarter and Stobbs and Captain Loppacker at the halves.

Goose Goslin Has Better Luck With Auto Than With His Goat

"Goose" Goslin, heavy slugger of the Washington ball club, apparently had better luck with his automobile than his goat. When his car was stolen from in front of his fair one's home he recovered it in three or four hours.

In the late lamented (for Washington) world's series, Earl Smith, Pirate catcher, stole Goslin's nanny and the Washington slugger never has recovered it.

Which may be either a sad commentary on the ability of ball park police or a tribute to Smith's genius in devising and carrying out a "perfect crime."

One feature of play of Chicago's football teams has come to be an integral part of Coach Stagg's system—a sort of traditional form.

This is the "Chicago" shift. In this shift the tackles are drawn back and there are three possible shifts by the backfield men, ranging from a one-step to a three-step shift. The varied number of plays which are started from this shift formation makes it a confusing one for the opposition. The defensive team cannot foretell whether the play is to be a kicking, passing or running one.

Navy football officials would feel much easier about the annual game with Princeton were the rules changed so that substitutes were eliminated.

For the last two years now a Princeton substitute has spilled tomato soup all over the bright colored vests of the Navy football diners. Last year one, Sam Ewing, sitting idly by during most of the game, stepped in at the psychological moment and kicked a field goal that placed the Annapolis team on the little end of the horn.

This year one, Dan Caulkins, sat unobtrusively on the second string bench until called upon to do his stuff. When called upon to do it he bidded his chance until he found a forward pass rolling loose about the gridiron. Recalling instructions of various coaches regarding just such an emergency he picked it up and lit out for home. Somebody tripped him as he neared the goal line, but he had lugged the ball from the shadow of the Princeton posts to within a few yards of the Navy line. Bridges carried the ball over for a touchdown a few moments later.

Years ago the early defeats sustained by the Harvard elevens meant little in the year's run. They were but practice events anyhow, leading up to the games with Yale and Princeton. Then came gloomy days when the season ended in a licking at the hands of one or both of the brother members of the Big Three. Got so, too, that earnest efforts to prevent the early season defeats met with little success.

Consequently, the recent beating handed Harvard by Holy Cross leaves a long face on John Harvard. Victories are needed to give Harvard confidence in its big games. Defeats are the galling habit now, not the fruit cocktail.

BOWLERS OPEN CARD MONDAY

Forbes "Scotty" Alcock's City Industrial bowlers will untangle the maples Monday night at the Liberty alleys in the first series of games of the 1925 26 season.

The circuit takes in eight teams from district manufacturing plants. They are: Laughlin 1, 4, 5 and 6, Taylor, Smith & Taylor, Trotters, Edwin M. Knowles and Hall China, the rosters including city, East End, Newell and Chester performers.

The league will bowl four nights a week—Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The schedule calls for two split seasons, of 14 weeks each, with a final series for the championship between the first and the second half winners.

Tuesday—T. S. T. vs. Laughlin 1.

Wednesday—Trotters vs. E. M. Knowles.

Friday—Hall China vs. Laughlin 4.

Ohio U. Sics Jinx On Wesleyan Outfit

ATHENS, Oct. 24.—The Ohio University jinx, which has trailed Ohio Wesleyan like a shadow for the last two years, was trimmed, combed and generally sleeked up today in preparation for its formal presentation to the Methodists here on Saturday. Settlement of the Ohio Conference championship appears to rest with the performance of the jinx when let loose for the first time this year against a team from the Delaware school.

The jinx, in the form of a squad of eager football men, was put through light practice this afternoon. The period was chiefly a warming up affair, with some attention being given to minute points in the execution of certain plays. The squad is living as one large family at a fraternity house, and no player will have any free moments until game time.

ARTICLE VIII, SECTION 13

PROPOSING TO AMEND ARTICLE VIII OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO BY THE ADDITION OF A NEW SECTION, TO BE DESIGNATED AS ARTICLE VIII, SECTION 13, RELATIVE TO THE INCURRING OF INDEBTEDNESS BY POLITICAL SUBDIVISIONS.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, in the manner provided by law on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to add a new section to the constitution to be known as article VIII, section 13, to read as follows:

ARTICLE VIII.

Sec. 13. No bonds, notes, certificates of indebtedness or other evidence of indebtedness shall be issued by any county, school district, township, municipal corporation or other political subdivision or taxing district for current operating expense, or for the acquisition or construction of any property or improvement having an estimated usefulness of less than five years; but laws may be passed authorizing borrowing for a period not exceeding six months in anticipation of the collection of revenue in and for the current fiscal year in which such indebtedness is incurred, or authorizing indebtedness in anticipation of the levy or collection of special assessments or for defraying the expenses of an extraordinary epidemic of disease or emergency expenses made necessary by sudden casualty which could not reasonably have been foreseen, or to provide for the payment of final judgments for personal injuries or other non-contractual obligations. No bonds or notes issued for the acquisition or construction of property or improvements shall run for longer than the probable period of usefulness of such property or improvements, to be estimated or determined as provided by laws fixing maximum maturities herein authorized. Laws shall be passed to fix the fiscal years of political subdivisions and taxing districts and to designate the boards or officers by whom and the manner in which the estimates as to the period of usefulness of property or improvements shall be made and certified. Within the limitations of this section laws may be passed fixing the maximum maturity of bonds or notes issued for any purpose or class of purposes.

Be it further resolved, That at such election, above referred to, this proposal shall be placed on the official ballot, in such manner as the secretary of state may designate. If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, this amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1926.

Adopted March 27, 1925.

PROPOSING TO AMEND ARTICLE XII, SECTION 2 OF THE CONSTITUTION SO AS TO PROVIDE FOR TAXATION BY UNIFORM RULE OF ALL REAL ESTATE AND TANGIBLE PROPERTY EXCEPT MOTOR VEHICLES, AND TO PROVIDE FOR THE TAXATION OF INTANGIBLE PROPERTY.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to amend article XII, section 2 of the constitution of the state of Ohio, to read as follows:

ARTICLE XII.

Sec. 2. Laws shall be passed, taxing by a uniform rule all real estate and improvements thereon and all tangible personal property, according to their true value in money, excepting motor vehicles which shall be taxed as may be provided by law. All moneys, credits, bonds, stocks and all other intangible property shall be taxed as may be provided by law.

But all bonds outstanding on the first day of January 1915 of the state of Ohio or of any city, village, hamlet, county or township in this state or which have been issued in behalf of the public schools in Ohio and the means of instruction in connection therewith, and all bonds issued under article VIII, section 2a of this constitution for the world war compensation fund, shall be exempt from taxation, and burying grounds, public school houses, houses used exclusively for public worship, institutions used exclusively for charitable purposes, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, and tangible personal property, to an amount not exceeding in value five hundred dollars for any individual, may by general laws, be exempted from taxation; and laws may be passed to provide against the double taxation that results from the taxation of both the real estate and the mortgage or the debt secured thereby, or other lien upon it, but all such laws shall be subject to alteration or repeal; and the value of all property, so exempted, shall, from time to time, be ascertained and published as may be directed by law.

Be it further resolved, That at such election, above referred to, this amendment shall be placed on the official ballot, in the manner provided by law, in such form as the secretary of state may designate.

If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, this amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1926, and original section 2 of article XII of the constitution shall be repealed and annulled.

Adopted March 25, 1925.

ARTICLE III, SECTION 2; ARTICLE X, SECTION 2

PROPOSING TO AMEND SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE III, SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE X AND TO REPEAL SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE XVII AND SECTION 3 OF ARTICLE X OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, TO PROVIDE FOR TERMS OF OFFICE OF NOT LESS THAN FOUR YEARS.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to amend section 2 of article III and section 2 of article X, and to repeal section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio to read as follows:

ARTICLE III.

Sec. 2. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor and attorney general shall hold their offices for four years. Their terms of office shall commence on the first Monday of January next after their election, and continue until their successors are elected and qualified.

ARTICLE X

Sec. 2. All elective county officers shall be elected on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, by the electors of each county for a period of four years.

Be it further resolved, That at the election, above referred to, such proposal shall be placed on the official ballot, in such manner as the secretary of state may designate.

If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, the amendment shall go into effect January 1, 1926, and original section 2 of article III, and section 2 of article X and section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio shall be repealed and annulled. The General Assembly shall have power to so adjust or extend existing terms of office as to effect the purpose of the foregoing amendment.

Adopted April 17, 1925.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
STATE OF OHIO.
Office of the Secretary of State.

I, THAD H. BROWN, Secretary of State, of the State of Ohio, do hereby certify that the foregoing are exemplified copies, carefully compared by me with the originals now on file in my office and in my official custody as Secretary of State and found to be true and correct, of a Joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on March 27, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, on April 4, 1925, proposing to amend article VIII of the constitution of the state of Ohio by the addition of a new section, to be designated as article VIII, section 13, relative to the incurring of indebtedness by political subdivisions, and of a joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on March 26, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, on April 4, 1925, proposing to amend article XII, section 2 of the Constitution so as to provide for taxation by uniform rule of all real estate and tangible property except motor vehicles, and to provide for the taxation of intangible property, and of a joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on April 17, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, April 21, 1925, proposing to amend section 2 of article III, section 2 of article X and to repeal section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio, to provide for terms of office of not less than four years.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 1st day of September, A. D. 1925.

[Seal] Secretary of State.

Mrs. Leathe's husband left her five million dollars 18 years ago. In a bankruptcy court she testifies that her total assets are reduced to $600 including a wrist watch worth $300.

Mrs. Leathe kept her money longer than is customary with widows of rich men. Gentlemen who consider it almost a business virtue to rob a woman usually get their money in much less than 18 years.

If you expect to leave a widow or daughters, leave a certain income so tied up that it cannot be stolen from them. A good trust company or the right insurance policy will help to do that.

Of the women made widows by the Shenandoah, all but two must work for a living. Ignorant and incompetent men in the navy department, ignoring the warnings of Commander Lansdowne, made them widows. The government ought to support those women as long as they live. Some congressman should prepare a bill with that idea in mind. Such a bill might make it possible in congress to wipe the coat of whitewash from the Shenandoah investigation and find what really happened.

Poland would like Henry Ford for president or king. Henry Ford, however, is like the British farmer whose clergyman told him he was soon going to heaven. The farmer did not want to go to heaven, he wanted to stay here and "the white-faced mare that went 'tip top' over the fences.

Henry Ford would rather stay at Dearborn and be king of the greatest industrial enterprise ever created.

Ford's work in the aircraft is to this nation a blessing of which the importance cannot be exaggerated. It may mean the difference between defeat and victory in the next war, or more probably it may mean that for America there will not be any next war.

Ford offers to build for the government at a cost of $200,000 an all-metal dirigible, 150 feet long. It is the type of aircraft that the world needs, can fly 2,000 miles without coming down. It represents common sense and economy.

There is no doubt that President Coolidge will accept Mr. Ford's offer. He was among the very first to praise and encourage Henry Ford's aircraft plans.

The Protestant Episcopal church house of bishops definitely removes "obey" from the marriage ceremony. Many married ladies had already removed it from the routine of daily life, common sense telling them that if marriage is not an equal partnership, it isn't much.

The old idea about women is dying out not too soon. British husbands no longer are allowed by law to beat their wives with a stick "no thicker than the thumb." The Fernch unwritten law gave fathers authority over their children, according to Westermarck, on the theory that the child was the property of the mother, and the mother was the property of the father.

The Moors, according to the same Westermarck (see "Origin and Development of Moral Ideas") believed that old men became saints and old women witches.

Breach of promise cases prove that old men become foolish and old women have to be very patient.

Attorney Cochran Named State Aide In Anderson Trial

Attorney Blaine H. Cochran today was appointed by Judge James G. Moore of common pleas court, Lisbon, to assist in the prosecution of George Anderson, automobile salesman and former college football star, who is under a second degree murder indictment for the death of Frank R. McLain, taxicab fleet manager, last October 3.

No date has been set for the trial of Anderson, who is in the county jail. He entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned last week.

Three Men Shot to Death In Rooming House Basement

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Three men were shot to death in a mysterious gun battle in the basement of a rooming house at 357 West Fifty-seventh street early today.

None of them were identified. All were about 30 years old.

Police reserves were summoned. They surrounded the place and began a roundup of possible witnesses to the tragedy.

Police were investigating reports that the basement where the shooting took place was used as a "speakeasy."

One of the dead men was partly identified as a partner of Jack Miglioertti, proprietor of the place. The identification was made by Baron Michael Ternow, formerly a captain in the Russian guard.

Miglioretti said he knew none of the victims of the shooting. Police searched the premisese and found several gallons of alleged alcoholic drinks, stored on the first floor. The basement was used as a restaurant.

Miglioretti was arrested.

On the floor near the bodies was found a .38 caliber revolver.

According to Miglioretti, two parties of men were in the place early this morning. Suddenly a fight started, he said. Furniture was thrown about, windows broken and then shots were fired. When he heard the shots, he said, he ran out to summon police.

SCHOOL LEVY AND TWO STATE PROPOSALS GET O. K. OF C. OF C.

Urge Support of Three-mill Tax by Electors.

DIRECTORS ACT

Recommend Rejection of Elective Office Term Extender.

The proposed three-mill tax levy for the East Liverpool district schools and the state debt limitation and tax amendments were endorsed, while the four-year office term extender was condemned by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce last night. Superintendent of Schools C. S. McVay, president D. F. White and members F. T. Weaver and C. A. Ferguson, of the school board, appeared before the directors to explain the school tax proposal which, with the state issues, will be submitted to the voters at the Nov. 3 election. They explained additional revenue is necessary if the schools are to be kept open for the nine-month term.

The directors urged support of the school levy, pointing out that taxes will not be increased by its adoption, inasmuch as it means only a renewal of the millage which expires this year. More than an hour was spent in discussing the issue before the endorsement was voted.

Favor World Court.

In approving the debt limitation proposal, it was argued that the purpose of the amendment was "to secure fundamental principles of sound public finance from periodical attacks of the legislature.' The two principles involved in the amendment, the directors were advised, was that "no borrowing for current expenses" would be permitted and "no bonds running longer than the life of the assets acquired" could be issued.

The proposed tax amendment, if approved, it was declared, would put billions of dollars worth of intangible

Bar Association Committee's Recommendations Regarding Proposed Changes in City Hall for Municipal Court are Filed — Order Concrete Top for Mulberry Street Culvert.

Preparatory to the establishment of a municipal court here on January 1, 1926, the city council last night approved on first reading an ordinance reducing the mayor's salary from $1,800 to $1,200 per year. The vote on the measure was 4 to 3.

Other highlights of the meeting were:

Instructed Solicitor Harry Brokaw to employ whatever assistance may be needed to call state tax commission's attention to proposed tax rate for 1926 which, it is claimed, will mean a cut of $32,000 to $34,000 in the municipality's revenue.

Heard report of committee named to investigate so-called "gasoline leak" at city building, which recommended new system for gasoline purchases in the future.

Filed report from bar association committee regarding proposed alterations and changes to second floor of city hall for new municipal court headquarters.

Instructed street department to build new concrete top for culvert crossing Mulberry street "immediately" in order to complete resurfacing improvements this fall.

Approved four ordinances providing for improvement of Mulberry, Second and Cadmus streets and Rural lane.

Civility Nominees Satisfied

[illegible] the mayor's salary slash marked the sixth time the proposal has been before the city legislators this year. On one occasion the legislation reached third reading when Solon Fred Eardley, who had supported the measure at first, switched his vote, thereby killing the ordinance.

Councilman Thomas Farrall sponsored last night's ordinance and moved that the measure be placed on first reading. Solon Press Kerr offered a second.

Farrall asserted that he and Kerr had conferred with J. S. Wilson, Republican mayoralty nominee who had assured them that he had no objection to a proposal to reduce the salary from $1,800 to $1,200 per year Ralph C. Benedum, Democratic candidate, said he would be satisfied with what Wilson regarded as a fair compensation for the mayor's duties, it was reported.

Councilman John B. Rowe, declared that council was "playing dirty" in cutting the salary after the nomi-

Friends may view the body Sunday afternoon and evening at the Sturgis funeral home.

WILBUR SCORES NAVAL CRITICS

Secretary Defends Policies, Absolves Navy of Disaster Blame.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A strong defense of present naval policies, and absolution of the navy from blame for the Shenandoah, the S-51 and other recent disasters came today from secretary of the navy Wilbur.

A speech to the national congregational conference inspired Wilbur's plea to the country to "Go along" with the navy and not criticise it at every turn.

In the disasters, Wilbur saw, not "criminal negligence and bungling amateurism", as Col. William Mitchell did, but heroism of the highest order, worthy of the finest traditions of the naval service, proof, he said, that the navy is functioning properly.

A navy without an occosional mishap, horrible sometimes as the consequences may be, is no navy at all, he said, for "there are risks to be assumed in peace as well as in time of war."

Wilbur glanced back to the early days of his administration and recounted the catastrophes that have befallen the navy since the time, and for each he had this underlying defense, found this comfort:

"If there were no accidents in the navy, no mishaps to submarines, no mishaps to surface vessels, no mishaps to turface vessels, no mishaps to aircraft, we would know that the navy was not alive, that it was not being operated according to correct principles, and that it was avoiding the hazards incident to the full ultization of the means of defense placed in its hands".

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—"What the youth of the country need is not more public control through governmental action, but more home control through parental action."

This sage piece of advice was handed out to American parents today by Calvin Coolidge, president and father, in the course of an address to the international convention of the Y. M. C. A.'s of the United States and Canada.

While not mentioning by name either jazz or the myriad other "exils" that are supposed to be afflicting the youth of today, the president made it emphatic that he clings to the old-fashioned belief that the home, and not the state, is responsible for the upbringing of the child. Parents, he said, cannot shift their responsibility to the state.

"There are too many indications that the functions of parenthood are breaking down," observed the president.

Praises Y. M. C. A.

"Too many people are neglicting the real wellbeing of their children, shifting the responsibility for their actions and turning over supervision of their discipline and conduct to the juvenile courts.

"It is stated on high authority that a very large proportion of the outcasts and criminals come from the ranks of those who lost the advantage of normal parental control in their youth.

"The home is the corner-stone of the nation, and any effective better-home movement must begin with the training of the youth for those responsibilities, or we shall see the disposition to attempt in some way to turn over to the government the responsibilities for the rearing of children constantly increased.

"What the youth of the country need is not more public control, through governmental action, but more home control through parental action."

The president praised the Y. M. C. A. as one of the agencies that seek to keep present-day youth with its feet on the ground.

"This movement," he said, "has brought into existence and organized one of the greatest lay forces the world has ever seen. One of the chief characteristics of Christianity is that it is a militant and crusading faith.

"Those who have become partakers of its inspirations and its consolidations, since it first began its early march over the hostile territory of the Roman empire, have been constantly spreading its truths among all their associates. If that faith is to maintain its vitality that work must go on.

"It is not enough that there should be action in the pulpits—there must be reaction in the pews. It will not be sufficient to have exalted preaching by the clergy unless there is exalted living by the laity. Your Christian associations represent a practical effort to organize and augment in every field the lay forces and to translate the truths of religion into the life of the people."

The international aspect of the association movement came in for particular commendation from the president.

"Perhaps one of the most significant results that is flowing from all these movements," he said, "is the unifying influence they are producing. We do not all need to be alike, but it is usually more helpful and certainly more comfortable to put the most emphasis on those characteristics which we have in common, rather than dwell too much on divergences and dissimilarities.

"One leads to friendship and cooperation, while the other is likely to develop contention and animosity.

"Amid all the divergent influences that have been manifesting themselves among the different peoples of the earth in recent times, it is exceedingly reassuring to realize there is a quiet and constructive effort on the part of a worldwide brotherhood of Christian youth for coordination and harmony.

Theodore Roosevelt's Birthday Will be Fittingly Observed

LANSING — Theodore Roosevelt's birthday, October 27, is to be marked throughout Michigan by special observance of the day in all schools. A letter sent out by T. E. Johnson, superintendent of public instructions, to all school heads, stated:

"I am suggesting that the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt be made the occasion of some special attention in the schools of Michigan. Mr. Roosevelt's life and work should be an inspiration to every child who finds himself handicapped early in life by a lack of physicial energy and ability. Certainly no person in history has made a greater place despite a serious handicap than Roosevelt."

SURRENDER
The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

CHAPTER 77.

Amoura set out early in the morning for Stone street, and its equally squalid neighbor, Green street, dressed simply and looking like the toiler in Bloom's candy factory, concerned only with wrapping endless chocolates and amassing enough precious coins to pay the rent, meet the weekly installment on the fur coat bought a year ago—when fur coats and silk stockings became the national peasant costume—and have enough left to see Ramon Navarro in his latest photo-play.

The evening before she had conceived a widely varying assortment of plans for teaching the poor of Westland to help themselves. She would, she decided, work independently of the local charities organization, and open a model house, organize classes in cookery, dressmaking, marketing, household management. Eventually there must be a community center, with a woman whose duty it would be to bring lonely young men and women together; swimming pools, billiard parlors, dances, programs of the better movies, play classes for children.

In her mind she could see the splendid building; she would make her father, as an anonymous donor, provide the necessary funds. As for the money for her initial efforts, she would extract that from the Ainsley principal, too.

She went on foot, enjoying the invigorating early morning air, and resolving to adhere to the "early to bed, early to rise" maxim. By the time she reached the foot of Indian Hill and traversed Main street six blocks, Stone street was, with Green street, pouring workers into the factories. Crowded streets became in a short time, almost deserted. Here and there dirty children played. Some wives haggled with hucksters. On a corner was a loafer or two.

Amoura was the subject of the curiosity of all who saw her in Stone street. She paused at Tillie's house and thought of going in, but went on, feeling uncomfortable. The ugliness of it! Would she be able to stand it down here, while she was endeavoring to help these people? Her determination met the challenge and flamed higher.

Near where Green street crosses, or collides with, for there are only a few shacks beyond, the railroad tracks, she saw a house that she thought would be excellent for her "homemakers' institute." A once grand residence, now like a discarded Rolls-Royce in a junkyard. Inhabited, it seemed, by swarms of swarthy children. She took the number with the idea of having the family lawyer find out how it could be purchased.

Down here, a half mile below Indian Hill geographically, but miles below Indian Hill in the scale of human existence, was, she felt in her youthful enthusiasm, a great field for useful work. She felt the call to service. Almost fondly she looked again at the squalid district as she reclimbed the winding streets that led to her home.

There, pencil and paper in hand, she made new plans and calculations. Luncheon was an interlude. In the afternoon she drew up a chart of courses she thought the institute ought to have, and decided how many co-workers she would need. How to go about getting them? Girls like Lucia Berryman? No. Here was a problem. She was still occupied with it when, at 4 o'clock, Tommy Loughley telephoned.

"I just got into town," he announced. "I'm so glad you're able to stop here, Tommy. We expect you to dinner tonight."

"Really—."

"No excuses, Tommy. You're to be the only guest. At 7, please."

Amoura chose to wear the red crepe gown, and it made her a lovely picture.

"Ah ha," said her father, insinuatingly, when he got a glimpse of her passing through the upper hall from her own suite to her mother's. "Almost as beautiful as your mother was when she was your age."

"What's that, Reginald?" Mrs. Ainsley called out.

Her husband, as if he was embarrassed by her hearing the compliment, went on downstairs, saying, "Nothing, my dear, nothing."

Mrs. Ainsley laughed when Amoura repeated his words. "Reginald has never forgotten to be gallant."

Tommy was resplendent in his evening clothes, and was at his best in them. He never was impressive in a "business suit" or sport clothes, but put him in a carefully tailored dress coat and he was the personification of manliness.

Amoura presented him to her parents in the library. J. Reginald beamed beneficently; Mrs. Ainsley smiled politely. Tommy, uncomfortable in their presence, perhaps, was reticent, advancing only conventional inquiries. At the dinner table he was brighter, however. It was easy to see he was relieved when dinner was over, and, having smoked a cigar and had liquors with his host, he was alone in the library with Amoura.

"I simply had to see you," he said.

Johnson's very words, she thought. Do all men say the same things?

"I wanted to tell you—."

She knew very well what he was going to say, and wondered, as he hesitated, what reply she would make.

DR. LANDRITH TO SPEAK HERE

County C. E. Union Engages Famed Lecturer.

One of the outstanding events of the early winter in East Liverpool is the coming of Dr. Ira Landrith of Chicago, nationally famed lecturer and reform leader. He is scheduled to speak at the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday evening, Nov. 15.

Dr. Landrith's engagement has been made by the Columbiana County Christian Endeavor Union, and his meeting is open to the public without charge. He is giving practically all of his time at present in the interest of the youth of America, actively functioning in connection with the United Society of Christian Endeavor.

Dr. Landrith has spent the months of September and October in Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma and other southwestern states, and is engaged in Ohio the first 15 days of November, going directly thence to New York state for three weeks immediately following. The citizens of East Liverpool are fortunate in being able to hear this man who has been foremost in great inter-church causes, prohibition and peace movements for more than 25 years.

$20,000,000 In Gems Sacrificed Yearly in Burial With The Dead

CHICAGO.—People of the United States sacrifice twenty million dollars annually that is buried with the dead. This amount in jewelry alone is buried to preserve in the minds of the living a certain sentiment and regard for the deceased.

"Two billion dollars in gold and jewels lie under 6 feet of ground in this country," said Federick W. Patterson of Atlanta, Ga., president of the National Selected Morticians. This amount has accumulated since the birth of America.

The custom of burying jewels with the dead originated in early Egypt, where it was believed that the deceased carried valuables to a new world. In recent years, however, the custom is maintained merely as an expression of regard for the dead. The jewels buried are usually articles that were cherished in life by the deceased.

IF AUTOMOBILES BURNED COAL AND CARRIED AN ASH PAN—

Suppose an automobile burned coal. It would be necessary to have an ash pan into which the cinders and clinkers could drop.

The crankcase of a gasoline-burning automobile is its "ash pan." All the unburned portions of its fuel will pass the piston rings and enter the lubricating oil, thinning it and causing cylinder wear and bearing trouble.

The remedy of course, is to keep the motor in good mechanical condition, to use only MARATHON GASOLINE—and finally, and most important, to employ

MARATHON MOTOR OIL

Copyright, 1925.

Mrs. Leathe's husband left her five million dollars 18 years ago. In a bankruptcy court she testifies that her total assets are reduced to $600 including a wrist watch worth $300.

Mrs. Leathe kept her money longer than is customary with widows of rich men. Gentlemen who consider it almost a business virtue to rob a woman usually get their money in much less than 18 years.

If you expect to leave a widow or daughters, leave a certain income so tied up that it cannot be stolen from them. A good trust company or the right insurance policy will help to do that.

Of the women made widows by the Shenandoah, all but two must work for a living. Ignorant and incompetent men in the navy department, ignoring the warnings of Commander Lansdowne, made them widows. The government ought to support those women as long as they live. Some congressman should prepare a bill with that idea in mind. Such a bill might make it possible in congress to wipe the coat of whitewash from the Shenandoah investigation and find what really happened.

Poland would like Henry Ford for president or king. Henry Ford, however, is like the British farmer whose clergyman told him he was soon going to heaven. The farmer did not want to go to heaven, he wanted to stay here and kiss his white-faced mare that went "tip top" over the fences.

Henry Ford would rather stay at Dearborn and be king of the greatest industrial enterprise ever created.

Ford's work in the aircraft is to this nation a blessing of which the importance cannot be exaggerated. It may mean the difference between defeat and victory in the next war, or more probably it may mean that for America there will not be any next war.

Ford offers to build for the government at a cost of $200,000 an all-metal dirigible, 150 feet long. It is the type of aircraft that the world needs, can fly 2,000 miles without coming down. It represents common sense and economy.

There is no doubt that President Coolidge will accept Mr. Ford's offer. He was among the very first to praise and encourage Henry Ford's aircraft plans.

The Protestant Episcopal church house of bishops definitely removes "obey" from the marriage ceremony. Many married ladies had already removed it from the routine of daily life, common sense telling them that if marriage is not an equal partnership, it isn't much.

The old idea about women is dying out not too soon. British husbands no longer are allowed by law to beat their wives with a stick "no thicker than the thumb." The Fernch unwritten law gave fathers authority over their children, according to Westermarck, on the theory that the child was the property of the mother, and the mother was the property of the father.

The Moors, according to the same Westermarck (see "Origin and Development of Moral Ideas") believed that old men became saints and old women witches.

Breach of promise cases prove that old men become foolish and old women have to be very patient.

Three Men Shot to Death In Rooming House Basement

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Three men were shot to death in a mysterious gun battle in the basement of a rooming house at 357 West Fifty-seventh street early today.

None of them were identified. All were about 30 years old.

Police reserves were summoned. They surrounded the place and began a roundup of possible witnesses to the tragedy.

Police were investigating reports that the basement where the shooting took place was used as a "speakeasy."

One of the dead men was partly identified as a partner of Jack Miglioertti, proprietor of the place. The identification was made by Baron Michael Ternow, formerly a captain in the Russian guard.

Miglioretti said he knew none of the victims of the shooting. Police searched the premisese and found several gallons of alleged alcoholic drinks, stored on the first floor. The basement was used as a restaurant.

Miglioretti was arrested.

On the floor near the bodies was found a .38 caliber revolver.

According to Miglioretti, two parties of men were in the place early this morning. Suddenly a fight started, he said. Furniture was thrown about, windows broken and then shots were fired. When he heard the shots, he said, he ran out to summon police.

Eagles' Lodge Plans Old Members' Night Program Tuesday

A class of candidates will be initiated. M. A. Hyde, of Marietta, will speak. Lunch will be served.

BRITISH READY TO QUIT COLOGNE

LONDON, Oct. 24. — Preparations have been completed for the withdrawal of the British army of occupation from Cologne, it was officially announced today.

The order for the withdrawal will not be given until the situation warrants it, but it is expected that Cologne will be evacuated before the end of the year, it was stated.

The British troops will be moved from Cologne to Wiesbaden.

20 FAMILIES FLEE FACTORY FIRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Twenty families were driven from their home early today when a spectacular blaz destroyed a six-story factory at 53 West 58th street and damaged a building next door.

SCHOOL LEVY AND TWO STATE PROPOSALS GET O. K. OF C. OF C.

Urge Support of Three-mill Tax by Electors.

DIRECTORS ACT

Recommend Rejection of Elective Office Term Extender.

The proposed three-mill tax levy for the East Liverpool district schools and the state debt limitation and tax amendments were endorsed, while the four-year office term extender was condemned by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce last night. Superintendent of Schools C. S. McVay, president D. F. White and members F. T. Weaver and C. A. Ferguson, of the school board, appeared before the directors to explain the school tax proposal which, with the state issues, will be submitted to the voters at the Nov. 3 election. They explained additional revenue is necessary if the schools are to be kept open for the nine-month term.

The directors urged support of the school levy, pointing out that taxes will not be increased by its adoption, inasmuch as it means only a renewal of the millage which expires this year. More than an hour was spent in discussing the issue before the endorsement was voted.

Favor World Court.

In approving the debt limitation proposal, it was argued that the purpose of the amendment was "to secure fundamental principles of sound public finance from periodical attacks of the legislature.' The two principles involved in the amendment, the directors were advised, was that "no borrowing for current expenses" would be permitted and "no bonds running longer than the life of the assets acquired" could be issued.

The proposed tax amendment, if approved, it was declared, would put billions of dollars worth of intangible

DONAHEY SCORES TWO PROPOSALS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 24.—Governor Donahey today urged Ohio voters to adopt at the November election the proposed debt limitation amendment to the state constitution but to defeat the property classification and office extender proposals.

Former Governors James M. Cox and Judson Harmon and former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene, all of whom, with Donahey, are prominently identified with the Ohio Democratic organization, have publicly advocated adoption of both the debt limitation and the taxation on proposals.

CALL OFF RACES AT LAUREL, MD.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 24.—A drizzling rain, which turned the new pineboard speedway here into a slippery course, today forced postponedment of the 250-mile auto races scheduled for this afternoon.

A score of the best drivers in the country were to have competed for prizes totalling $30,000.

COUNCIL DEMANDS FULL SHARE OF TAXES; "GAS" LEAK QUIZ COLLAPSES

Solicitor Brokaw is Instructed to Call State Tax Commission's Attention to Proposed Levy for 1925, Which, it is Claimed, Will Mean Revenue Decrease of $32,000.

FARRELL SAYS HE NEVER CHARGED ANYONE WITH THEFT OF GASOLINE

Preparatory to the establishment of a municipal court here on January 1, 1926, the city council last night approved on first reading an ordinance reducing the mayor's salary from $1,800 to $1,200 per year. The vote on the measure was 4 to 3.

Other highlights of the meeting were:

Instructed Solicitor Harry Brokaw to employ whatever assistance may be needed to call state tax commission's attention to proposed tax rate for 1926 which, it is claimed, will mean a cut of $32,000 to $34,000 in the municipality's revenue.

Heard report of committee named to investigate so-called "gasoline leak" at city building, which recommended new system for gasoline purchases in the future.

Filed report from bar association committee regarding proposed alterations and changes to second floor of city hall for new municipal court headquarters.

Instructed street department to build new concrete top for culvert crossing Mulberry street "immediately" in order to complete resurfacing improvements this fall.

Approved four ordinances providing for improvement of Mulberry, Second and Cadmus streets and Rural lane.

Quality Nominees Satisfied

On the mayor's salary slash matter the sixth time the proposal has been before the city legislators this year. On one occasion the legislation reached third reading when Solon Fred Eardley, who had supported the measure at first, switched his vote, thereby killing the ordinance.

Councilman Thomas Farrall sponsored last night's ordinance and moved that the measure be placed on first reading. Solon Press Kerr offered a second.

Farrall asserted that he and Kerr had conferred with J. S. Wilson, Republican mayoralty nominee who had assured them that he had no objection to a proposal to reduce the salary from $1,800 to $1,200 per year Ralph C. Benedum, Democratic candidate, said he would be satisfied with what Wilson regarded as a fair compensation for the mayor's duties, it was reported.

Councilman John B. Rowe, declared that council was "playing dirty" in cutting the salary after the nomi-

Friends may view the body Sunday afternoon and evening at the Sturgis funeral home.

WILBUR SCORES NAVAL CRITICS

Secretary Defends Policies, Absolves Navy of Disaster Blame.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A strong defense of present naval policies, and absolution of the navy from blame for the Shenandoah, the S-51 and other recent disasters came today from secretary of the navy Wilbur.

A speech to the national congregational conference inspired Wilbur's plea to the country to "Go along" with the navy and not criticise it at every turn.

In the disasters, Wilbur saw, not "criminal negligence and bungling amateurism", as Col. William Mitchell did, but heroism of the highest order, worthy of the finest traditions of the naval service, proof, he said, that the navy is functioning properly.

A navy without an occosional mishap, horrible sometimes as the consequences may be, is no navy at all, he said, for "there are risks to be assumed in peace as well as in time of war."

Wilbur glanced back to the early days of his administration and recounted the catastrophes that have befallen the navy since the time, and for each he had this underlying defense, found this comfort:

"If there were no accidents in the navy, no mishaps to submarines, no mishaps to surface vessels, no mishaps to turface vessels, no mishaps to aircraft, we would know that the navy was not alive, that it was not being operated according to correct principles, and that it was avoiding the hazards incident to the full ultization of the means of defense placed in its hands".

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—"What the youth of the country need is not more public control through governmental action, but more home control through parental action."

This sage piece of advice was handed out to American parents today by Calvin Coolidge, president and father, in the course of an address to the international convention of the Y. M. C. A.'s of the United States and Canada.

While not mentioning by name either jazz or the myriad other "exils" that are supposed to be afflicting the youth of today, the president made it emphatic that he clings to the old-fashioned belief that the home, and not the state, is responsible for the upbringing of the child. Parents, he said, cannot shift their responsibility to the state.

"There are too many indications that the functions of parenthood are breaking down," observed the president.

Praises Y. M. C. A.

"Too many people are neglicting the real wellbeing of their children, shifting the responsibility for their actions and turning over supervision of their discipline and conduct to the juvenile courts.

"It is stated on high authority that a very large proportion of the outcasts and criminals come from the ranks of those who lost the advantage of normal parental control in their youth.

"The home is the corner-stone of the nation, and any effective better-home movement must begin with the training of the youth for those responsibilities, or we shall see the disposition to attempt in some way to turn over to the government the responsibilities for the rearing of children constantly increased.

"What the youth of the country need is not more public control, through governmental action, but more home control through parental action."

The president praised the Y. M. C. A. as one of the agencies that seek to keep present-day youth with its feet on the ground.

"This movement," he said, "has brought into existence and organized one of the greatest lay forces the world has ever seen. One of the chief characteristics of Christianity is that it is a militant and crusading faith.

"Those who have become partakers of its inspirations and its consolidations, since it first began its early march over the hostile territory of the Roman empire, have been constantly spreading its truths among all their associates. If that faith is to maintain its vitality that work must go on.

"It is not enough that there should be action in the pulpits—there must be reaction in the pews. It will not be sufficient to have exalted preaching by the clergy unless there is exalted living by the laity. Your Christian associations represent a practical effort to organize and augment in every field the lay forces and to translate the truths of religion into the life of the people."

The international aspect of the association movement came in for particular commendation from the president.

"Perhaps one of the most significant results that is flowing from all these movements," he said, "is the unifying influence they are producing. We do not all need to be alike, but it is usually more helpful and certainly more comfortable to put the most emphasis on those characteristics which we have in common, rather than dwell too much on divergences and dissimilarities.

"One leads to friendship and cooperation, while the other is likely to develop contention and animosity.

"Amid all the divergent influences that have been manifesting themselves among the different peoples of the earth in recent times, it is exceedingly reassuring to realize there is a quiet and constructive effort on the part of a worldwide brotherhood of Christian youth for coordination and harmony.

PENNSY CUTS DAMAGE CLAIMS

During the first six months of last year the treasurer of the Pennsylvania railroad handed out $1,430,453.77 to patrons as payments for claims for loss and damage, or at the rate of nearly $3,000,000,000 a year.

To offset this stupendous drain upon earnings, the C. & P. division has begun a concentrated drive to reduce claims. The first step has been a campaign to see that sewer pipe, fireproofing, flue lining, segment blocks, hollow building tile and the like is properly packed.

Investigation by H. K. Rogers, extra agent, who has been placed in charge of this drive, developed that much of this material was improperly packed and braced, and that straw was seldom used in packing, although provided for in the rules.

Before the campaign started on his division the claims on 1,000 cars of sewer pipe, etc., amounted to nearly $16,000 for breakage alone, but so well did Rogers do his work that only $890 is now paid for claims on 1,000 cars of this material. And many plants on the C. & P. division load a thousand cars of vitreous products in a month.

And the shippers are pleased, also. W. M. Council, traffic manager, National Fireproofing company of Pittsburgh, stated recently that during February and March he had occasion to file claims which averaged $19 a car for breakage, while of all the cars they loaded in a period subsequent to April 1 he had but a single claim, and it for but $13.77, an average of practically nothing per car since the better methods of loading have prevailed.

The net result of this campaign on the C. & P. division discloses that the average admage claim on vitreous products has been reduced from approximately $15 to $89 a car.

CITIZENSHIP DAY PROGRAM PLANNED

Two special services, in recognition of "Better Citizenship Day" will be held Sunday in the First United Presbyterian church here.

A day given to the consideration of our political principles is becoming increasingly popular in the churches of America, according to Rev. Robert Ustick, pastor, and the services Sunday are planned with this end in view.

At the morning service at 11 o'clock Rev. Ustick will deliver a special sermon on "Waiting Under the Rainbow—a Biblical Review of the First Great Reformer." Music by the choir will feature the service.

In the evening Rev. Ustick will have as his sermon subject, "The Man We Want for Mayor." A comparative study of the first great statesman will be a part of this discussion.

Several special features will add to this service, including a short dialogue on "The Greatest Moral Issue Now Before the American People," selections by a brass quartet and music by the choir.

Rev. Ustick has extended an invitation to the public to attend the services.

EASTERN STARS TO HOLD SERVICE

Officers and members of Wellsville chapter No. 417, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold special services for Edward Sillcox, Fifteenth street, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Sillcox residence.

Members of the organization will assemble immediately before the services at the home of Charles Snediker, in Fifteenth street, and from the Snediker residence will go in a body to the Sillcox home.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock in charge of Rev. Ernest Games, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, and Wellsville lodge No. 180, F. & A. M. The body will be taken to Steubenville, following the services, and burial will be made in Union cemetery there.

'Man and Maid' Real Love Tale

Latest Elinor Glyn Picture Thrilling Romance of War Hero.

The sets as well as the people are real in Elinor Glyn's Metro-Goldyn-Mayer production of "Man and Maid", which is coming to the American Theatre on Monday.

Madame Gyln in writing her novels puts in real life characters and actual incidents. Then in bringing her stories to the screen she transcribes them accurately and casts exactly as to type.

The heroine in "Man and Maid" was a tall slender, tragic eyed blonde, a close friend of Madame Glyn's. Harriet Hammond looked identically like the original, so she was given the role, though she had been away from the screen for two years and previous to that time had only been connected with pictures as a player of small parts.

Lew Cody was so exactly like the hero of Madame Glyn's tale that she couldn't resist taking him for the part, though everyone warned her that he was essentially the "heavy". She won her point conclusively when he was shown on the screen as Sir Nicholas Thormonde, for every semblance of his villaining had been lost and in its place stood the real lover.

Radio Will Announce Price of Vegetables To Market Purchaser

MARSEILLES.—"String beans four francs per kilo! Tomatoes two franc per pound!" So will announce the loud speakers in the Marseilles markets if the plans of the Municipal authorities materialize.

That the housewife doing her marketing may know the official prices, a central station at City hall will announce hourly, on market days, the current prices which will be carried by wife to loud speakers installed in advantageous places in all the markets. The housewife in this way may stand in front of the onions, carrots or peaches and check up the price card with the official announcement.

Common Sense Road Program

Columbiana county electors will vote Tuesday, November 3, upon the question of putting dollars in their pockets.

This, in short, is the plan of the commissioners in submitting to the voters a proposed $950,000 bond issue for the purpose of giving the Ohio river county one of the most extensive road building programs ever mapped out—a plan that means a good highway for every city, village and rural district within their jurisdiction.

The proposal, if approved, assures the improvement of all gaps that now nullify the availability of many important arteries of transportation. Its defeat means road building will practically stop in the county in 1926 because of the enactment of new laws governing the work.

The county's investment in the program will prompt equal contributions from the state and federal highways departments, but this is contingent, of course, upon the voters' approval of the proposed bond issue.

And, too, taxpayers shall not increase their road taxes by supporting the plan, for, with the discontinuance of the two-mill levy in three years, a greater amount will be taken off the rates for road purposes than will be added by the $950.000 investment.

This common sense program should be supported.

End Of Armed Occupation

On the very day that the treaty of Locarno was signed, the last French troops marched out of the Ruhr. Germany's great industrial region is now completely in the hands of its owners again for the first time in nearly three years.

So ends the great adventure entered upon so gaily by the sword-rattling Poincare. When Germany failed in some obligations assumed under the Versailles treaty, he conceived no remedy but armed force. Deferred payments, in kind and cash, were to be collected by armies. But all that his armies succeeded in doing was to enrage the Germans, retard industrial production in Germany and interfere with the normal process of collection. France got less with her armies than she had got without them.

Sword-rattling gave way to reason and conciliation. Germans, being human, responded. The present outlook is that Germany will meet her obligations willingly and fully, as agreed upon under the Dawes plan. And France now plans to withdraw her troops from the Rhine. It looks like a new era. That way lies hope. The other way could only lead to further war.

Coal

The big surplus stock of hard coal that was regarded so reassuringly when the strike began doesn't seem to work as expected. Speculators are said to have gobbled it up. And dealers would be more than human if they failed to take advantage of a glorious opportunity. So coal in eastern cities is $20 to $25 a ton, and New York is going to let down the smoke restrictions so that people can burn soft coal.

The sections accustomed to anthracite can burn bituminous, of course—with a by-product of unaccustomed smoke and dirt, and with the payment of exorbitant prices for that commodity. Whereupon all the rest of the country will pay higher prices for its fuel. Even fuel oil will feel the pressure and rise in harmony.

There are some troubles, too, in the soft coal fields.

There are prophecies of a long, cold winter, and the weather so far is not reassuring. At any rate, winter is coming on fast. And nobody is doing anything about it. The universal policy seems to be, "Let nature take its course." Which would be all right if nature—especially human nature—didn't sometimes wreck things when let alone too long.

Kicking At Home

"I want to kick to local authority," says Herbert Hoover, referring especially to public regulation of electrical utilities, "when the power rates are unjust. I want to kick where the searchlight of public opinion and local knowledge can be brought to bear. Far more than this, I want to live in a community which governs itself. I do not believe the people of our communities have yet become so supine or careless of the fundamental advantages of self-government that they are ready to surrender control of their most intimate concerns to a paternal government at Washington, however wise or however powerful."

Public authority in this country has failed to a large extent because the people have tried to center it in Washington and then forget about it. We are now beginning to realize that no community should delegate to a more distant authority a task that it can attend to itself.

With cities and states attending to their public business themselves, there is a chance always for the local kick, which has infinitely more vitality than long-range representation at a national capital. And a community that governs itself by kicking like a steer every time things go wrong is a live community, worth living in.

Florida histories say that Ponce de Leon was disappointed in his hope of finding the Fountain of Youth. And yet it may be that sulphur water was just what his system needed.

No, the Florida land boom isn't like the California gold rush. The Florida fortune-hunters bring their gold with them.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Wives of famous men do not lead such idyllic lives as might be supposed. Most of them are overshadowed by personalities of their husbands and must sit in the background when more than likely they are responsible for their husbands' success. And know it.

They strike me as good sports. They go the weary rounds listening to stories they have heard endless times and contributing wooden property smiles. I doubt if any man can really be a hero to his wife any more than he can be to his valet.

Feminine intuition is keen and soon senses the stuff of which heroes are made. They discover the clay feet long before the public. A celebrity I admire very much has offended many. He ignores all invitations that do not include his wife.

There is one wife who cracked under the strain one evening. She had been included with her husband in a rather brilliant gathering. She sat in a secluded corner while one after another contributed a bright bit of the evening.

Finally the hostess spied her and said tactlessly: "And what can you do for us?" All eyes were turned upon her and she replied: "Nothing but listen and be bored." She happens to be an accomplished harpist and a sparkling conversationalist but is content for her husband to take all honors.

Wives of these men are quick to detect insincerity long before their husbands. They know the law of the pack—a kowtow and back pat on the mountain top and an snub in the valley. Yet genuine admiration for their husbands is graciously welcomed.

I have watched men rocking on their pedestal. The subsequent crash is one of the most poignant of all human tragedies. They learn that only the Salvation Army takes seriously the dictum: "A man may be down but never out."

New Yorkers take old age gracefully. A pleasant sight. Their hair was silver and you somehow thought of the glitter of moonbeams on cobwebs. He was in evening clothes and she in black evening gown. They started the meal with something suspiciously like cocktails. He was deaf and her voice rose above the din—altogether unconscious of being heard. Others did not interest them. They were engrossed in each other and their talk was of other days—of Ward McAllister balls, horse cars and Booth and Barrett.

At another table sat a young couple of the Scottfitzgerald age. He did the talking, but she was one of those types — perhaps you've met them—who gazes over the shoulder and seems vitally interested in something far away at critical points in the story but he carried on bravely. When she talked, if you are interested, she told of a girl friend who was having a gown made to match the color of her dog.

A rain around the dinner hour in Gotham costs restaurants $125,000 and adds about half that much to receipts of delicatessen dealers.

There is a cult of rain walkers. They don galoshes and mackintoshes and usually strike out for the graveled path in Central Park. There is, they declare, a mental stimulus in walking in a slashing rain and that it is restful to frayed nerves.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Government Reservations

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—From time to time since the earliest days of the Government, Congress has passed acts withdrawing certain sections of the public land for Government use. Subsequently some of these reservations have been found to be no longer necessary and have been annulled, opening the land to the public.

Taken singly these many reservations of timber, oil, and coal lands have but little significance, but pieced together into a consecutive history they help to tell the story of the development of our modern national defense.

For as the wooden vessel gave way to the steel man-of-war, and the coal-burning ship was superseded by the oil burner, which finally was forced to divide honors with the airplane, the Government has systematically set aside the cream of the national resources for the construction of armaments.

Buried in the archieves of the General Land Office of the Interior Department is a record of the first timber reservations, made over a hundred years ago, for the use of the Navy in the construction of warships.

Back in 1817, long before steel was used for shipbuilding, an act of Congress provided that the Secretary of the Navy should have lands growing suitable live oak and red cedar trees explored and selections of them made, to be withdrawn for supplying the Navy with timber.

Under this act, in November 1818, two Government agents set out to explore the wilds of Louisana and Alabama in search of valuable timber land. After several months of hardship and struggle with Indians and escaped criminals they returned and recommended the withdrawal of large tracts along the Mississippi river.

In 1813 other large tracts of timber land were reserved in Florida. These withdrawals were known as the "Live Oak Reservations," and were made officially by President Andrew Jackson. The selections were made by seven agents of the Navy Department sent to the timber district to reserve from sale such public lands as had trees valuable for shipbuilding purposes. Each agent was given a definite district to examine, and was allowed compensation of $1800 a year with $1.25 per day for the expense of himself and his horse.

There is also a record of a certain J. W. Dabney, of Alachua county, Florida, who wrote to the Secretary of the Navy that he had bought at a sale in the city of Tallahasse, 730 acres of the finest live oak land to be found in any part of the United States, and "that it never would have been grought into market until the timber had been secured to the Government if the deputy surveyor had done his duty." Mr. Dabney stated that he had started to clear the tract for planting, and offered to sell the timber to the Government as would also the other gentlemen owning land in that section.

Poaching On Public Preserves

Apparently the Government had no small difficulty in maintaining the integrity of these timber reservations, because an act of February 23, 1822, provided that the President might use the land and naval forces of the United States to prevent trespasses on Government timber land in Florida.

During the next decade there were frequent reports of depredations of the national timber, and in 1831 an agent informed the General Land Office that "there are within fifty miles of this place 5 steam mills, several of them located upon public lands, and all of them draw their supply of timber from public lands, and a New Orleans newspaper, in recapitulating the injury done by one of the recent storms, estimated the loss of rafts driven from the leves at over $20,000, and all of these were cut from the public lands."

To cut down the extent of these trespasses the naval agents stationed in the timber country to select further tracts for withdrawal were commissioned also to prevent depredations, and to make constant reports to the Secretary of the Navy.

In spite of this pillaging of Government timber, the task of building a Navy went ahead speedily in those days when billowing canvas dominated the high seas, and many a fine frigate sailed out of the Navy yard, built of sound timber from the Government's wide tracts.

Then toward the end of the first half of the nineteenth century came the beginnings of the era of iron—and later steel—constructed ships, which were in time, practically to drive wooden vessels off the seas.

Before long the American Navy was slowly being transformed from a wooden to a metal fleet. This change is accurately recorded through the gradual abandonment of the Navy's timber reserves.

By act of Congress on March 3, 1843, the first of the annulments of timber withdrawals was made. In 1846, 1853, 1879, and 1895 still more of the timber reservations came to an end through acts annulling the withdralaws and returning the land to the public domain. Finally in February, 1923, the last law passed by Congress on the subject annulled the last of these early timber reservations of the Navy.

Coal Need For Fuel

When steam power took the place of wind and sail, the Government next was faced with the problem of keeping its ships well supplied with fuel. During the nineteenth and early part of the twentieth century coal exclusively was used for steamships.

For a long time little attention was given to the fact that the more desirable of the coal resources of the United States were not inexhaustible. But in the early part of this century it began to be apparent that valuable coal fields were being taken out of the public domain through the taking up of agricultural lands by homesteaders.

To prevent further looting of the nation's coal resources, President Taft directed the Secretary of the Interior to withdraw from entry all valuable coal lands. This was the beginning of the large coal reservations now held by the Government.

The establishment of the coal reserves necessitated the withdrawal of all tracts on which there was a reasonable probability of the presence of coal. These lands were then examined as rapidly as possible, and the non-coal land restored to entry.

The work of appraising coal lands and withdrawing certain sections for Government use has been carried on steadily, until, according to the latest figures available at the Interior Department, there are now more than thirty-one million acres of coal reservations.

The next step in the development of the modern naval vessel was the oil-burning ship. By 1910 the Navy's new ships were being designed to burn oil instead of coal, and in 1912 the first two naval oil reserves were created. These reserves comprised 68,219 acres in California.

Since that time the Government withdrawal of oil lands has continued until there are now about six and a half million acres of oil and oil shale lands under reservation.

When the airplane came into prominence during the war it again became necessary for the Government to make timber reservations as a part of the nation's armament program. It was found that the best airplane propellers could be made from spruce wood. Accordingly, by executive orders of May 2 and August 16, 1918, an area of approximately 215,680 acres around Lituya Bay on the southeastern coast of Alaska, containing a good stand of Sitka spruce, was withdrawn.

The timber has not yet been used for the proposed purpose but is still being reserved for the time when it may be needed, although the reserved area has been included in the Tongass National Forest.

Since the development of the dirigible, the Government also has reserved some tracts containing valuable helium deposits to be used in the manufacture of helium gas.

A man is some one who spends almost as much time packing for a month's vacation as a woman does getting herself into six ounces of organdie.—Defiance Crescent-News.

Mrs. Saunders Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Troubles of Change of Life

Knoxville, Tenn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while going through the Change of Life. I was very nervous, could not sleep and had melancholy spells. In fact, I was nearly insane at times and my memory was almost a blank. I was so weak I could not do my housework half of the time and suffered dreadfully with my back. My doctor said I would have to worry it out and I went through this for three years before I began taking the Vegetable Compound which I saw advertised. I think it was eight bottles that I took. It has been two years since I took any and I haven't had a doctor since for that trouble, I do all my washing and ironing and I have gained from 116 to 138 pounds. I feel so well I think I do not need any medicine now, but I advise all women who suffer physically and mentally as I did to give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. I hope it will do as much for them as it did for me."—Mrs. T. A. SAUNDERS, 711 E. Depot Street, Knoxville, Tenn.

PENNSY CUTS DAMAGE CLAIMS

During the first six months of last year the treasurer of the Pennsylvania railroad handed out $1,430,453.77 to patrons as payments for claims for loss and damage, or at the rate of nearly $3,000,000,000 a year.

To offset this stupendous drain upon earnings, the C. & P. division has begun a concentrated drive to reduce claims. The first step has been a campaign to see that sewer pipe, fireproofing, flue lining, segment blocks, hollow building tile and the like is properly packed.

Investigation by H. K. Rogers, extra agent, who has been placed in charge of this drive, developed that much of this material was improperly packed and braced, and that straw was seldom used in packing, although provided for in the rules.

Before the campaign started on his division the claims on 1,000 cars of sewer pipe, etc., amounted to nearly $16,000 for breakage alone, but so well did Rogers do his work that only $890 is now wpaid for claims on 1,000 cars of this material. And many plants on the C. & P. division load a thousand cars of vitreous products in a month.

And the shippers are pleased, also. W. M. Council, traffic manager, National Fireproofing company of Pittsburgh, stated recently that during February and March he had occasion to file claims which averaged $19 a car for breakage, while of all the cars they loaded in a period subsequent to April 1 he had but a single claim, and it for but $13.77, an average of practically nothing per car since the better methods of loading have prevailed.

The net result of this campaign on the C. & P. division discloses that the average admage claim on vitreous products has been reduced from approximately $15 to $89 a car.

CITIZENSHIP DAY PROGRAM PLANNED

Two special services, in recognition of "Better Citizenship Day" will be held Sunday in the First United Presbyterian church here.

A day given to the consideration of our political principles is becoming increasingly popular in the churches of America, according to Rev. Robert Ustick, pastor, and the services Sunday are planned with this end in view.

At the morning service at 11 o'clock Rev. Ustick will deliver a special sermon on "Waiting Under the Rainbow—a Biblical Review of the First Great Reformer." Music by the choir will feature the service.

In the evening Rev. Ustick will have as his sermon subject, "The Man We Want for Mayor." A comparative study of the first great statesman will be a part of this discussion.

Several special features will add to this service, including a short dialogue on "The Greatest Moral Issue Now Before the American People," selections by a brass quartet and music by the choir.

Rev. Ustick has extended an invitation to the public to attend the services.

EASTERN STARS TO HOLD SERVICE

Officers and members of Wellsville chapter No. 417, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold special services for Edward Sillcox, Fifteenth street, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Sillcox residence.

Members of the organization will assemble immediately before the services at the home of Charles Snediker, in Fifteenth street, and from the Snediker residence will go in a body to the Sillcox home.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock in charge of Rev. Ernest Games, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, and Wellsville lodge No. 180, F. & A. M. The body will be taken to Steubenville, following the services, and burial will be made in Union cemetery there.

Kochert-Williamson Wedding.

Miss Gladys M. Kochert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Kochert, Henry avenue, and Clarence M. Williamson, Tenth street, were married today in the parsonage of the Second Presbyterian church, Eighteenth street, Rev. Thomas G. Berger, performed the ceremony.

They left on a honeymoon trip to the east and upon their return will reside at the home of the bride's parents.

Notice!

Members of Wellsville lodge No. 180, F. & A. M., will meet at the temple on Monday, October 26, at 12 o'clock to attend the funeral of the late Brother Edward Sillcox.

'Man and Maid' Real Love Tale

Latest Elinor Glyn Picture Thrilling Romance of War Hero.

The sets as well as the people are real in Elinor Glyn's Metro-Goldyn-Mayer production of "Man and Maid", which is coming to the American Theatre on Monday.

Madame Gyln in writing her novels puts in real life characters and actual incidents. Then in bringing her stories to the screen she transcribes them accurately and casts exactly as to type.

The heroine in "Man and Maid" was a tall slender, tragic eyed blonde, a close friend of Madame Glyn's. Harriet Hammond looked identically like the original, so she was given the role, though she had been away from the screen for two years and previous to that time had only been connected with pictures as a player of small parts.

Lew Cody was so exactly like the hero of Madame Glyn's tale that she couldn't resist taking him for the part, though everyone warned her that he was essentially the "heavy". She won her point conclusively when he was shown on the screen as Sir Nicholas Thormonde, for every semblance of his villaining had been lost and in its place stood the real lover.

SOCIETY

Ladies of K. of C. Name Officers, Plan Fall-Winter Program

Mrs. R. R. Bode, of Bradshaw avenue, was elected president of the Ladies of the Knights of Columbus at the annual business session held in the K. of C. parlors in the Fowler building, Diamond, last night. She succeeds Miss Catherine Hickey.

A series of card parties and dinner-dances will be held during the fall and winter season, the opening affair being scheduled for early November.

After the business session, bridge, five hundred and euchre were the diversions. Refreshments were served by the social committee.

Miss Myrtle McCoy Hostess.

Miss Myrtle McCoy was hostess to a group of friends at her home in Orchard Grove avenue last evening when a Hallowe'en party was given. The home was decorated in the season's collors. Music, games and dancing were the diversions, after which a three course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. R. Chadwick and Miss Carson, covers being arranged for 24 guests.

Messrs. John Wilson and Joseph McDermott of Pittsburgh were the out-of-town guests.

Classic Club Entertained.

Members of the Classic club enjoyed a masquerade party last evening at the home of Miss Edith Bowen of Pleasant Heights. The home was decorated with a color scheme of orange and black, pumpkins and other novelties. Music, games and dancing were the pastimes. Miss Edith Bowen and Miss Pauline Bryan gave specialty dances. Trophies were awarded Mrs. Noah Siddall and Miss Olive Clendenning.

A three-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss May Wynn, Miss Dora Fitzjohn and Miss Marie Kirkbride. Covers were arranged for Misses Maud Williams, Dora, Calra, and Nellie Fitzjohn, May Williams, Edith Bowen, Marie Kirkbride, Pauline Bryan, Pauline Minnix, Ruth Barnhart, Mary Lowers, Mildred Miller and Margaret Wynn; Mesdames William Fitzjohn, George Bowen, Noah Siddall, Raymond Wynn, and Caleb Machin; Messrs. John Fitzjohn, Ralph Smith, Earl Malone, William Kind, James and George Bowen, Clarence Machin, Carl and William Bettridge, Carl McCartney, William Fitzjohn, Jack Bowen and Raymond Wynn.

The next meeting will be held October 30, at the home of Mrs. Raymond Wynn, of Pleasant Heights.

Meeting of Missionary Society.

The Missionary society of the First Church of Christ will meet Thursday evening, Nov. 5. The committee in charge will include Mrs. C. H. O'Hara, leader; Mrs. Elmer Crawford, Miss Carrie Gaver, Miss Margaret Hague, Mrs. Alma Walker, Mrs. Anna Welch, Miss Vera Heddleston, Miss Mildred Rose, Miss Beatrice Griffith, Mrs. Retta Werner, Mrs. Grace Capeheart and Mrs. Elmer Smith.

Art Circle Club Meets.

Members of the Art Circle club were guests Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Guy Mackey of 324 Grant street. Radio music, games and dancing were the diversions, after which refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Emerson Bowman and Mrs. Joseph Judge. Covers were arranged for 17 persons.

Special guests included Mrs. Harry McHenry and Mrs. John Rigby of this city; Mrs. Harrison of Cleveland and Mrs. J. C. Elliott of New Castle, Pa.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Charles Orin of 307 Grant street.

Amoma Class Entertained.

The Amoma class of the First Baptist church was entertined Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Arthur Smith. The home was decorated with a color scheme of yellow and black and Hallowe'en novelties. Games, music and guessing contests were enjoyed during the social hours, souvenirs being awarded Miss Edna Reed, Miss Doris Ganet, Mrs. Frank Lambright and Mrs. Ruby Pickard. Trophies were also given Mrs. Arthur Smith, who was dressed as Martha Washington; Mrs. Freda Fife, attired as a colored mammy, and Mrs. Enid Ferguson, who dressed as a Scotchman.

The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Ina Pace and Miss Edna Moore.

Happy Whirlers Entertained.

Mrs. Kathryn Zange delightfully entertained the members of the Happy Whirlers' club Thursday evening at her home in St. Clair avenue. After Hallowe'en games, music and dancing, masks were removed and a hot roast pork dinner was served. Hallowe'en novelties adorned the table, at which covers were arranged for 16 guests.

Seven guests were visitors of the club. Paul Edgell was awarded a trophy in a guessing contest.

The club will meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Minne Boyd of Sophia street.

Class Plans Masquerade Party.

Class No. 14, of the Second Presbyterian church, will hold a masquerade party at the home of Mrs. Frederick A. Dean of St. George street, Friday evening, October 30. Mrs. M. C. Russell is president of this class.

Common Sense Road Program

Columbiana county electors will vote Tuesday, November 3, upon the question of putting dollars in their pockets.

This, in short, is the plan of the commissioners in submitting to the voters a proposed $950,000 bond issue for the purpose of giving the Ohio river county one of the most extensive road building programs ever mapped out—a plan that means a good highway for every city, village and rural district within their jurisdiction.

The proposal, if approved, assures the improvement of all gaps that now nullify the availability of many important arteries of transportation. Its defeat means road building will practically stop in the county in 1926 because of the enactment of new laws governing the work.

The county's investment in the program will prompt equal contributions from the state and federal highways departments, but this is contingent, of course, upon the voters' approval of the proposed bond issue.

And, too, taxpayers shall not increase their road taxes by supporting the plan, for, with the discontinuance of the two-mill levy in three years, a greater amount will be taken off the rates for road purposes than will be added by the $950,000 investment.

This common sense program should be supported.

End Of Armed Occupation

On the very day that the treaty of Locarno was signed, the last French troops marched out of the Ruhr. Germany's great industrial region is now completely in the hands of its owners again for the first time in nearly three years.

So ends the great adventure entered upon so gaily by the sword-rattling Poincare. When Germany failed in some obligations assumed under the Versailles treaty, he conceived no remedy but armed force. Deferred payments, in kind and cash, were to be collected by armies. But all that his armies succeeded in doing was to enrage the Germans, retard industrial production in Germany and interfere with the normal process of collection. France got less with her armies than she had got without them.

Sword-rattling gave way to reason and conciliation. Germans, being human, responded. The present outlook is that Germany will meet her obligations willingly and fully, as agreed upon under the Dawes plan. And France now plans to withdraw her troops from the Rhine. It looks like a new era. That way lies hope. The other way could only lead to further war.

Coal

The big surplus stock of hard coal that was regarded so reassuringly when the strike began doesn't seem to work as expected. Speculators are said to have gobbled it up. And dealers would be more than human if they failed to take advantage of a glorious opportunity. So coal in eastern cities is $20 to $25 a ton, and New York is going to let down the smoke restrictions so that people can burn soft coal.

The sections accustomed to anthracite can burn bituminous, of course—with a by-product of unaccustomed smoke and dirt, and with the payment of exorbitant prices for that commodity. Whereupon all the rest of the country will pay higher prices for its fuel. Even fuel oil will feel the pressure and rise in harmony.

There are some troubles, too, in the soft coal fields.

There are prophecies of a long, cold winter, and the weather so far is not reassuring. At any rate, winter is coming on fast. And nobody is doing anything about it. The universal policy seems to be, "Let nature take its course." Which would be all right if nature—especially human nature—didn't sometimes wreck things when let alone too long.

Kicking At Home

"I want to kick to local authority," says Herbert Hoover, referring especially to public regulation of electrical utilities, "when the power rates are unjust. I want to kick where the searchlight of public opinion and local knowledge can be brought to bear. Far more than this, I want to live in a community which governs itself. I do not believe the people of our communities have yet become so supine or careless of the fundamental advantages of self-government that they are ready to surrender control of their most intimate concerns to a paternal government at Washington, however wise or however powerful."

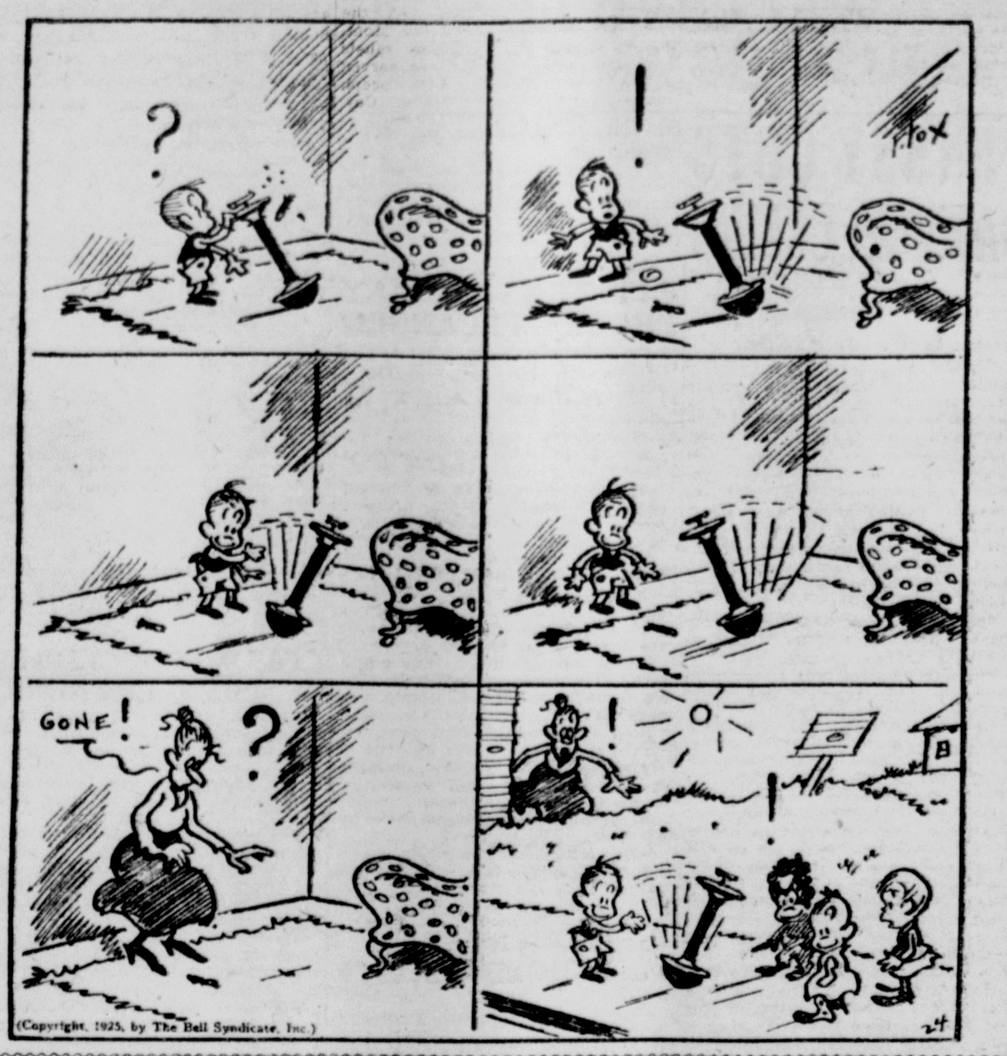
Public authority in this country has failed to a large extent because the people have tried to center it in Washington and then forget about it. We are now beginning to realize that no community should delegate to a more distant authority a task that it can attend to itself.

With cities and states attending to their public business themselves, there is a chance always for the local kick, which has infinitely more vitality than long-range representation at a national capital. And a community that governs itself by kicking like a steer every time things go wrong is a live community, worth living in.

Florida histories say that Ponce de Leon was disappointed in his hope of finding the Fountain of Youth. And yet it may be that sulphur water was just what his system needed.

No, the Florida land boom isn't like the California gold rush. The Florida fortune-hunters bring their gold with them.

High Spots in The Life of Little Stanley, The Great Explorer—By F. Fox



NEW YORK DAY BY DAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Wives of famous men do not lead such idyllic lives as might be supposed. Most of them are overshadowed by personalities of their husbands and must sit in the background when more than likely they are responsible for their husbands' success. And know it.

They strike me as good sports. They go the weary rounds listening to stories they have heard endless times and contributing wooden property smiles. I doubt if any man can really be a hero to his wife any more than he can be to his valet.

Feminine intuition is keen and soon senses the stuff of which heroes are made. They discover the clay feet long before the public. A celebrity I admire very much has offended many. He ignores all invitations that do not include his wife.

There is one wife who cracked under the strain one evening. She had been included with her husband in a rather brilliant gathering. She sat in a secluded corner while one after another contributed a bright bit of the evening.

Finally the hostess spied her and said tactlessly: "And what can you do for us?" All eyes were turned upon her and she replied: "Nothing but listen and be bored." She happens to be an accomplished harpist and a sparkling conversationalist but is content for her husband to take all honors.

Wives of these men are quick to detect insincerity long before their husbands. They know the law of the pack—a kowtow and back pat on the mountain top and an snub in the valley. Yet genuine admiration for their husbands is graciously welcomed.

I have watched men rocking on their pedestal. The subsequent crash is one of the most poignant of all human tragedies. They learn that only the Salvation Army takes seriously the dictum: "A man may be down but never out."

New Yorkers take old age gracefully. A pleasant sight. Their hair was silver and you somehow thought of the glitter of moonbeams on cobwebs. He was in evening clothes and she in black evening gown. They started the meal with something suspiciously like cocktails. He was deaf and her voice rose above the din—altogether unconscious of being heard. Others did not interest them. They were engrossed in each other and their talk was of other days—of Ward McAllister balls, horse cars and Booth and Barrett.

At another table sat a young couple of the Scottfitzgerald age. He did the talking, but she was one of those types — perhaps you've met them—who gazes over the shoulder and seems vitally interested in something far away at critical points in the story but he carried on bravely. When she talked, if you are interested, she told of a girl friend who was having a gown made to match the color of her dog.

A rain around the dinner hour in Gotham costs restaurants $125,000 and adds about half that much to receipts of delicatessen dealers.

There is a cult of rain walkers. They don galoshes and mackintoshes and usually strike out for the graveled path in Central Park. There is, they declare, a mental stimulus in walking in a slashing rain and that it is restful to frayed nerves.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Government Reservations

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—From time to time since the earliest days of the Government, Congress has passed acts withdrawing certain sections of the public land for Government use. Subsequently some of these reservations have been found to be no longer necessary and have been annulled, opening the land to the public.

Taken singly these many reservations of timber, oil, and coal lands have but little significance, but pieced together into a consecutive history they help to tell the story of the development of our modern national defense.

For as the wooden vessel gave way to the steel man-of-war, and the coal-burning ship was superseded by the oil burner, which finally was forced to divide honors with the airplane, the Government has systematically set aside the cream of the national resources for the construction of armaments.

Buried in the archieves of the General Land Office of the Interior Department is a record of the first timber reservations, made over a hundred years ago, for the use of the Navy in the construction of warships.

Back in 1817, long before steel was used for shipbuilding, an act of Congress provided that the Secretary of the Navy should have lands growing suitable live oak and red cedar trees explored and selections of them made, to be withdrawn for supplying the Navy with timber.

Under this act, in November 1818, two Government agents set out to explore the wilds of Louisana and Alabama in search of valuable timber land. After several months of hardship and struggle with Indians and escaped criminals they returned and recommended the withdrawal of large tracts along the Mississippi river.

In 1813 other large tracts of timber land were reserved in Florida. These withdrawals were known as the "Live Oak Reservations," and were made officially by President Andrew Jackson. The selections were made by seven agents of the Navy Department sent to the timber district to reserve from sale such public lands as had trees valuable for shipbuilding purposes. Each agent was given a definite district to examine, and was allowed compensation of $1800 a year with $1.25 per day for the expense of himself and his horse.

There is also a record of a certain J. W. Dabney, of Alachua county, Florida, who wrote to the Secretary of the Navy that he had bought at a sale in the city of Tallahasse, 730 acres of the finest live oak land to be found in any part of the United States, and "that it never would have been grought into market until the timber had been secured to the Government if the deputy surveyor had done his duty." Mr. Dabney stated that he had started to clear the tract for planting, and offered to sell the timber to the Government as would also the other gentlemen owning land in that section.

Poaching On Public Preserves

Apparently the Government had no small difficulty in maintaining the integrity of these timber reservations, because an act of February 23, 1822, provided that the President might use the land and naval forces of the United States to prevent trespasses on Government timber land in Florida.

During the next decade there were frequent reports of depredations of the national timber, and in 1831 an agent informed the General Land Office that "there are within fifty miles of this place 5 steam mills, several of them located upon public lands, and all of them draw their supply of timber from public lands, and a New Orleans newspaper, in recapitulating the injury done by one of the recent storms, estimated the loss of rafts driven from the leves at over $20,000, and all of these were cut from the public lands."

To cut down the extent of these trespasses the naval agents stationed in the timber country to select further tracts for withdrawal were commissioned also to prevent depredations, and to make constant reports to the Secretary of the Navy.

In spite of this pillaging of Government timber, the task of building a Navy went ahead speedily in those days when billowing canvas dominated the high seas, and many a fine frigate sailed out of the Navy yard, built of sound timber from the Government's wide tracts.

Then toward the end of the first half of the nineteenth century came the beginnings of the era of iron—and later steel—constructed ships, which were in time, practically to drive wooden vessels off the seas.

Before long the American Navy was slowly being transformed from a wooden to a metal fleet. This change is accurately recorded through the gradual abandonment of the Navy's timber reserves.

By act of Congress on March 3, 1843, the first of the annulments of timber withdrawals was made. In 1846, 1853, 1879, and 1895 still more of the timber reservations came to an end through acts annulling the withdrawals and returning the land to the public domain. Finally in February, 1923, the last law passed by Congress on the subject annulled the last of these early timber reservations of the Navy.

Coal Need For Fuel

When steam power took the place of wind and sail, the Government next was faced with the problem of keeping its ships well supplied with fuel. During the nineteenth and early part of the twentieth century coal exclusively was used for steamships.

For a long time little attention was given to the fact that the more desirable of the coal resources of the United States were not inexhaustible. But in the early part of this century it began to be apparent that valuable coal fields were being taken out of the public domain through the taking up of agricultural lands by homesteaders.

To prevent further looting of the nation's coal resources, President Taft directed the Secretary of the Interior to withdraw from entry all valuable coal lands. This was the beginning of the large coal reservations now held by the Government.

The establishment of the coal reserves necessitated the withdrawal of all tracts on which there was a reasonable probability of the presence of coal. These lands were then examined as rapidly as possible, and the non-coal land restored to entry.

The work of appraising coal lands and withdrawing certain sections for Government use has been carried on steadily, until, according to the latest figures available at the Interior Department, there are now more than thirty-one million acres of coal reservations.

The next step in the development of the modern naval vessel was the oil-burning ship. By 1910 the Navy's new ships were being designed to burn oil instead of coal, and in 1912 the first two naval oil reserves were created. These reserves comprised 68,249 acres in California.

Since that time the Government withdrawal of oil lands has continued until there are now about six and a half million acres of oil and oil shale lands under reservation.

When the airplane came into prominence during the war it again became necessary for the Government to make timber reservations as a part of the nation's armament program. It was found that the best airplane propellers could be made from spruce wood. Accordingly, by executive orders of May 2 and August 16, 1918, an area of approximately 215,680 acres around Lituya Bay on the southeastern coast of Alaska, containing a good stand of Sitka spruce, was withdrawn.

The timber has not yet been used for the proposed purpose but is still being reserved for the time when it may be needed, although the reserved area has been included in the Tongass National Forest.

Since the development of the dirigible, the Government also has reserved some tracts containing valuable helium deposits to be used in the manufacture of helium gas.

A man is some one who spends almost as much time packing for a month's vacation as a woman does getting herself into six ounces of organdie.—Defiance Crescent-News.

NEARLY INSANE. AT TIMES

Mrs. Saunders Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Troubles of Change of Life

Knoxville, Tenn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while going through the Change of Life. I was very nervous, could not sleep and had melancholy spells. In fact, I was nearly insane at times and my memory was almost a blank. I was so weak I could not do my housework half of the time and suffered dreadfully with my back. My doctor said I would have to worry it out and I went through this for three years before I began taking the Vegetable Compound which I saw advertised. I think it was eight bottles that I took. It has been two years since I took any and I haven't had a doctor since for that trouble, I do all my washing and ironing and I have gained from 116 to 138 pounds. I feel so well I think I do not need any medicine now, but I advise all women who suffer physically and mentally as I did to give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. I hope it will do as much for them as it did for me."—Mrs. T. A. SAUNDERS, 711 E. Depot Street, Knoxville, Tenn.

FISHER PARK

Is Not An Experiment

East Liverpool Needs Fisher Park for its proffered Freedom from Noise and Dirt; its Clear Air and Safe, Roomy Play Space For Healthy, Growing Kiddies.

Fisher Park is not offered to the people of East Liverpool by promoters who step in, unload, and step out again.

Hoopes and Watson, owners, purchased outright, the Sanford E. Fisher farm from which Fisher Park is being created.

Fisher Park is not offered in one Plat with a view to quick sales and an end to owner responsibility. This means that the personal, vital interest of Hoopes and Watson, as owners, will continue until approximately seven years after the last Location in the last Plat, shall have been sold.

Plat No. 1 contains exactly 98 lots, or Home-site Locations. Plat No. 1 will be completely sold out before other property is offered. In the meantime, the completion of the improvement program of Plat 1, including macadam streets, storm sewers, water and gas connections and the landscaping and planting of trees and shrubbery, will have been become a reality. And the building of homes contemplated next spring by Dr. Turner, Dr. Metz, and at least four others, will begin increasing values automatically.

Our terms, 10% Down Payment, and 1% a month, mean that 90 months will elapse before purchasers, adhering to the monthly payment plan, will have completed their payments. This means that the personal vital interest of Hoopes and Watson in Fisher Park will continue until 1933 in the case of Plat 1 alone.

All this, also, means that in the matter of improvements, in planting and in personal supervision, Fisher Park property will have the interest and co-operation of Hoopes and Watson for many years to come.

East Liverpool needs Fisher Park. Restrictions guarantee to home builders of moderate means a pleasant, well-kept atmosphere for home and family. Improvements in and guaranteed will save purchasers time and money in completing a home worth while. The opportunity is here for the home-builder of means; the terms present equal opportunity for the one who must pay as he earns; Civic Pride and Helpful Spirit stir those of means to buy, build and help those who are deserving yet handicapped by lack of ready funds.

At present introductory prices Fisher Park offers home builders an opportunity to obtain a home-site with improvements the average purchaser could not individually afford to install. Fisher Park offers investors an opportunity to take advantage of sure, certain profits attendant upon definite, visible improvements. The purchaser who gets in on the ground floor will avoid paying a profit to someone else later on.

The Home-Site Seeker—The Prudent Investor May Purchase a Location in Fisher Park For 10% Down and 1% Each Month—And Pay as He Or She Earns.

The Fisher Park selling organization is composed of your own neighbors, including C. W. Hendershot, Potters Savings and Loan Bldg.; J. S. Hilbert, George H. Owens and Co.; W. V. Blake Agency, and numerous individuals. All are selling Fisher Park Locations and learning more about East Liverpool, their home town, its advantages, its needs, its present, its future, than they ordinarily would have learned in years.

East Liverpool is growing. It is expanding Lisbon-ward. Watch Pleasant Heights and Glenmore at Stop 55, on the Y. & O. All on the Lincoln Highway (Lisbon road). Not increasing the city-limit population of East Liverpool, perhaps, but increasing the metropolitan area definitely and rapidly.

Fisher Park is in the very heart of all this definite, substantial expansion and development. Fisher Park is less than two miles from the Diamond, closer, more readily available than some of the exclusive locations being offered. Fisher Park comprises one of the most beautiful spots in eastern Ohio. Fisher Park is high, dry, clean and clear. Fisher Park commands an intriguing view of surrounding hills and dales.

Fisher Park is where your home should be. Business hours demand enough of your time amid the smoke, dirt and clatter of the city proper. Build where the Kiddies will have a chance to romp and play and grow big and strong and healthy, away from the street dangers.

There are no under-sized Locations in Fisher Park. Most of them are 50 by 150 feet. Have you seen the changes out there in the past few weeks? Do you know of the improvements yet to come. If not, there is a treat in store for you.

Make arrangements by phone for a visit to Fisher Park any day. A representative will be glad to take your family out for an hour of inspection without obligation in any way.

There will be representatives on the ground all day Sunday.

CHURCH PLANS REVIVAL MEETS

Evangelist Miller of Kentucky to Assist Rev. A. E. Sims.

Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the First Christian church, announced today that a series of revival meetings would begin in the church on Wednesday evening, November 4. The pastor will be assisted by Evangelist William Mart Miller of Newport, Ky.

The evangelist's record is unique in that, after having spent half a lifetime in the law, he was persuaded by other evangelists to leave his chosen field and enter upon his present work. One of these men, Evangelist Amos K. Clarke, says: "Miller stands for the bible, the whole bible, and nothing but the bible, and his loyalty, ability and Christian character led me and other evangelists to urge him to leave the law and enter upon this work." Evangelist Fred A. Galiger of Chicago and Evangelist J. H. McWhirter, formerly state evangelist of Texas and now state evangelist of Kentucky, also express great satisfaction at having had a part in turning Mr. Miller from the law to the ministry.

Mr. Miller's methods are unique in that he always carefully avoids indulging in expressions of private opinion in doctrinal matters. He says that out of 16 years' experience in the law he has brought one great lesson, namely, that "It isn't what you think, but what you can actually prove, that wins or loses your case."

A good working organization has been perfected to take part in the campaign under the direction of Rev. Sims.

GROSS SALES TAX LAW IS ATTACKED

Disapproval of the so-called "gross sales tax," one of the state's great sources of revenue, crystallized yesterday in the starting of court proceedings at Charleston to test its validity. Three large companies engaged in the natural gas industry began the onslaught by filing injunction suits, through which they hope to have enforcement of the act restrained in the common pleas court of Kanawha county, and next Wednesday was set for hearing their pleas for temporary injunctions against the state tax commissioner and attorney general.

PLAN TO ERECT NEW TUBE MILL

The new tube mill is designated to occupy the location used for years past as a stock yard for scrap iron. Thousands of tons of scrap iron are to be moved nearly a half mile southward. Grading for the new scrap yard was started this week and as soon as this work is completed giant electric cranes will be placed in operation to transfer the mountainous scrap pile southward.

Some excavating is being done to level the new scrap site. The large electric cranes will be magnetic appliances for use in picking up the scrap iron and steel and to convey it to the new yards.

Plans for the new tube mill were announced some weeks ago, along with plans for other expansion and improvements in Weirton to cost approximately $10,000,000.

AUTO PER CAPITA EXPENSE IS $33

Fifty million dollars, or more than $33 for each man, women and child in the state, is a conservative estimate of the amount expended in automobiles in 1924 in West Virginia, basing the estimate on compilations by State Labor Commissioner George F. Daugherty.

From the statistical reports received by his department. Mr. Daugherty learned that the 440 automobile sales and repair concerns reporting to him placed a value of $37,947,622.55 on the repair work and sales during the year. Addition to this figure of the motor vehicle tax of $2,874,587 collected by the state and $1,277,101.82 from the two-cent gasoline tax which was in force in 1924, gave a total or $42,099,311.37 for the known elements of cost of automobiles in the state. The cost of gasoline itself and cost of insurance accessories and other small items are not included in the records, making it certain that the state's automobile for the year exceeded the $50,000,000 estimate.

Reports from the sales and repair companies showed the 440 plants employed 3,190 people, paid wages during the year amounting to $4,144,988 and represented a capital investment of $13,120,567.

Parent Teachers To Meet

Plans have been completed for the Parent-Teachers meeting to be held Monday evening in the Central school building. Plans will be made at this session to install the school savings system.

PARTY IS HELD BY AID SOCIETY

Members of the Ladies Aid society of the First Methodist Episcopal church and a number of friends were entertained last evening at a masquerade party in the home of Mrs. L. W. Ten Eyck, in Third street. The home was decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en season. The grand march was played by Katherine Bloor after which the guests unmasked. Music and games were the diversions. Lunch was served by the committee composed of Mesdames Pipes, Ten Eyck, Allen, Welsch, Miller, Spangler, Meeks and Haney.

CHESTER SQUAD MEETS TORONTO

Chester high football team, accompanied by a large delegation of rooters, left at noon today for Toronto, where the crack scholastic eleven of that place will be met this afternoon in what is expected to prove one of the hardest games of the season for the locals.

Coach Wild will use the same lineup that faced the Wellsville squad last Saturday.

Hope Takes Initiative

The Hope Natural gas company, which represented to the court that the major part of its gas business was for sale in Ohio and Pennsylvania, took the lead in the contest against the law, and petitions filed by the Reserve Gas company, also doing mainly an interstate business, and the United Fuel Gas company, which sells some of its gas outside the state as well as serving a large territory in West Virginia, followed closely that of the Hope company. Counsel indicated that a number of other suits along similar lines would be filed within a few days.

District Rally Here.

Rev. W. S. Hamilton, of New Cumberland, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, spoke last evening at the Grant dis- First Christian church. Delegates were present from every church in the district.

Chicken Supper Held.

112th Engineers Plan Reunion in Cleveland, Nov. 7

Former members of Company F, 112th Engineers, in which several East Liverpool men served during the World war, will hold a reunion at Cleveland on Saturday, Nov. 7.

The 112th Engineers was a unit of the 37th ("Buckeye") division, having seen active service on the battle fronts in France and Belgium. Former members of the company interested in the reunion are requested to communicate with W. R. Mills, Central Armory, Cleveland.

Agricultural implement manufacturers interested in Czechoslovakia are negotiating with Italian bankers for the organization of a company to make such implements in Italy, thus bringing the productions nearer home than at present.

COHAN SCREEN HIT IS BOOKED

Douglas MacLean in Broadway Success at Ceramic.

After a search for story material that extended over a period of several months, Douglas MacLean selected "Seven Keys to Baldpate" as his first starring comedy for Paramount.

The story, which holds the screen at the Ceramic Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is one that is known to everyone and needs no retelling. For the past decade "Seven Keys to Baldpate" has been a stage favorite of audiences the world over and has in addition to its New York triumph a record for performances by stock companies in every city in the United States, aside from being presented by road companies in every town large enough to support a theatre.

In bringing the Cohan story to the screen, MacLean has struck to the original faithfully adding to it only what additional material screen comedy technique demanded. Love-interest, substituted for the "Wager" angle ,and a surprise climax are features of the screen play by Frank Griffin and Wade Boteler.

Fred Newmeyer, who made all the recent Harold Lloyd comedies, directed "Seven Keys." Edith Roberts, leading woman, heads the cast playing in support of the star. Other big names include Betty Francisco, Maym Kelso, Andres Randolf, Crauford Kent, Ned Sparks, William Orlamonde and Edwin Sturgis.

The Loring Mystery
Read this COMPLETE Novel—full of Romance, Mystery and Intrigue!
in the 28 page FICTION MAGAZINE
Hardly a soul in England knew that Sir Nevil Loring was not the lawful heir to the Loring estates—he had held them and the title for many years. From Virginia came young David Loring son of Sir Nevil's older brother, Humphrey, and the rightful heir; but before David reached Loring Chase, a body was washed up by the Thames and recognized by Sir Nevil, the family solicitor, Mr. Gillespie, and Jasper Shrig, shrewd private detective, as that of the young American. Meanwhile, a mysterious young man who called himself David Loring reached Loring Chase, obtained audience with Sir Nevil, and was rudely received, then swore to dispossess his uncle of the property. Soon after, Sir Nevil, wicked, relentless Sir Nevil, was found dead in his home, the silver hilt of a dagger gleaming among the blood-stained frills at his throat. It was plainly murder and there was work for Jasper Shrig to do.
So starts this romance of London and the English country in the early nineteenth century. Mr. Farnol has added to an unflagging, wholesome incident and delightful character-drawing narrative, a murder mystery that defies solution till the final pages are reached. And what a heroine is Anticlea—flame of fire and strength of steel, headstrong, high-spirited and beautiful with the dazzling glory of the autumn woodlands—Anticlea who rode her white horse down the green aisles of the beechwood straight into David Loring's stricken heart!

FISHER PARK

Is Not An Experiment

East Liverpool Needs Fisher Park for its proffered Freedom from Noise and Dirt; its Clear Air and Safe, Roomy Play Space For Healthy, Growing Kiddies.

Fisher Park is not offered to the people of East Liverpool by promoters who step in, unload, and step out again.

Hoopes and Watson, owners, purchased outright, the Sanford E. Fisher farm from which Fisher Park is being created.

Fisher Park is not offered in one Plat with a view to quick sales and an end to owner responsibility. This means that the personal, vital interest of Hoopes and Watson, as owners, will continue until approximately seven years after the last Location in the last Plat, shall have been sold.

Plat No. 1 contains exactly 98 lots, or Home-site Locations. Plat No. 1 will be completely sold out before other property is offered. In the meantime, the completion of the improvement program of Plat 1, including macadam streets, storm sewers, water and gas connections and the landscaping and planting of trees and shrubbery, will have been become a reality. And the building of homes contemplated next spring by Dr. Turner, Dr. Metz, and at least four others, will begin increasing values automatically.

Our terms, 10% Down Payment, and 1% a month, mean that 90 months will elapse before purchasers, adhering to the monthly payment plan, will have completed their payments. This means that the personal vital interest of Hoopes and Watson in Fisher Park will continue until 1933 in the case of Plat 1 alone.

All this, also, means that in the matter of improvements, in planting and in personal supervision, Fisher Park property will have the interest and co-operation of Hoopes and Watson for many years to come.

East Liverpool needs Fisher Park. Restrictions guarantee to home builders of moderate means a pleasant, well-kept atmosphere for home and family. Improvements in and guaranteed will save purchasers time and money in completing a home worth while. The opportunity is here for the home-builder of means; the terms present equal opportunity for the one who must pay as he earns; Civic Pride and Helpful Spirit stir those of means to buy, build and help those who are deserving yet handicapped by lack of ready funds.

At present introductory prices Fisher Park offers home builders an opportunity to obtain a home-site with improvements the average purchaser could not individually afford to install. Fisher Park offers investors an opportunity to take advantage of sure, certain profits attendant upon definite, visible improvements. The purchaser who gets in on the ground floor will avoid paying a profit to someone else later on.

The Home-Site Seeker—The Prudent Investor May Purchase a Location in Fisher Park For 10% Down and 1% Each Month—And Pay as He Or She Earns.

The Fisher Park selling organization is composed of your own neighbors, including C. W. Hendershot, Potters Savings and Loan Bldg.; J. S. Hilbert, George H. Owens and Co.; W. V. Blake Agency, and numerous individuals. All are selling Fisher Park Locations and learning more about East Liverpool, their home town, its advantages, its needs, its present, its future, than they ordinarily would have learned in years.

East Liverpool is growing. It is expanding Lisbon-ward. Watch Pleasant Heights and Glenmore at Stop 55, on the Y. & O. All on the Lincoln Highway (Lisbon road). Not increasing the city-limit population of East Liverpool, perhaps, but increasing the metropolitan area definitely and rapidly.

Fisher Park is in the very heart of all this definite, substantial expansion and development. Fisher Park is less than two miles from the Diamond, closer, more readily available than some of the exclusive locations being offered. Fisher Park comprises one of the most beautiful spots in eastern Ohio. Fisher Park is high, dry, clean and clear. Fisher Park commands an intriguing view of surrounding hills and dales.

Fisher Park is where your home should be. Business hours demand enough of your time amid the smoke, dirt and clatter of the city proper. Build where the Kiddies will have a chance to romp and play and grow big and strong and healthy, away from the street dangers.

There are no under-sized Locations in Fisher Park. Most of them are 50 by 150 feet. Have you seen the changes out there in the past few weeks? Do you know of the improvements yet to come. If not, there is a treat in store for you.

Make arrangements by phone for a visit to Fisher Park any day. A representative will be glad to take your family out for an hour of inspection without obligation in any way.

There will be representatives on the ground all day Sunday.

FASTER STREET CAR SCHEDULE

Thirty-minute Service to Midland Effective Tomorrow.

Supplementing a fast interurban service inaugurated on Sunday, October 11, the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company will establish better transportation on the Wellsville-Midland and East Liverpool-Wellsville divisions tomorrow.

G. F. Wills, general superintendent, announced that a 30-minute service will be the rule on the Midland run, while 15-minute cars will be operated on the main line.

Under the fast interurban service, a 30-minute saving in running time is made on the Beaver-Steubenville trip.

ROBBERS LOOT VILLAGE STORE

The general store of W. C. Springer, New Waterford, was entered by thieves early this morning, cash and merchandise, valued at approximately $500, being taken.

The robbery occurred after midnight. Entrance was gained by jimmying the lock in the front door. A cash register, containing $160, several rain coats, underwear, trousers, hosiery and other merchandise were included in the loot.

Sheriff George Wright was called to make an investigation.

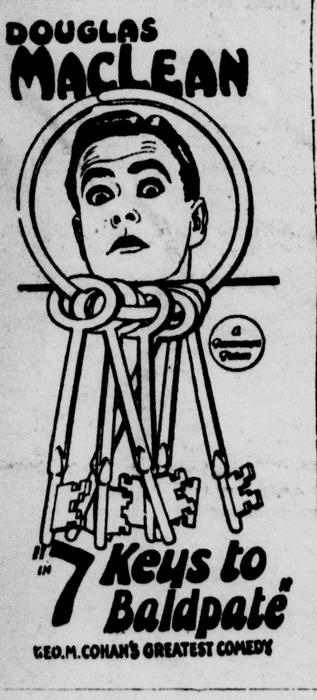
DEATH ROLL

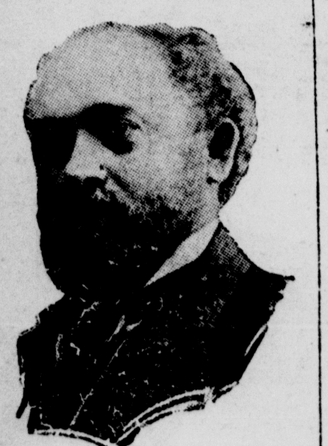
Miss Ada Surgeon.

Miss Ada Surgeon, formerly of East Liverpool, died yesterday at the home of her brother, Fred Surgeon, Murray, O., following a long illness.

Deceased, who was formerly a teacher in the Wellsville schools, is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Byron, East Liverpool; James, Orbiston, O.; Fred, Murray, O.; Mrs. Beulah Cope, Pughtown, W. Va.; Mrs. Frank Miller, Wheeling, and Mrs. Homer Roush, East Liverpool.

The body will be brought here this evening and taken to the home of her brother, Byron Surgeon, in Pennsylvania avenue.





A TISSUE BUILDER

One of the important laws of health is to safeguard the quality of the blood, for good, red blood builds up the tissues. The food we eat and the food our parents ate, is a factor, also the air we breathe day and night, and the kind of water we drink, absolute purity is a requisite, and we owe it to ourselves and to those who come after us to keep the blood pure. A graduate of Philadelphia and Cincinnati Medical Schools was Dr. R. V. Pierce, who early practiced in Pennsylvania, and became famous. He was a student of life problems, and had great faith in Nature's healing through the herbs and roots, such as were used by the Indians, and, after careful analysis of their different qualities, compounded the Golden Medical Discovery, which met with such phenomenal success that a wider field was necessary, and he removed to Buffalo, N. Y., where he became a leading citizens and representative in Congress, built up a splendid business, and founded the famous Invalids Hotel. Dr. Pierce's name is alone a guarantee of the purity of the Golden Medical Discovery, which has helped thousands for over fifty years, and many unsolicited testimonials bear witness to its value as a tonic.

Sold by all druggists, in liquid or tablet form, or send 10 cents for trial sample to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel 665 Main Street Buffalo N. Y., and write for free medical advice.

Doughboy Comedian Stars in Show at Strand Next Week

A new stage comedian will delight the patrons of the Strand theatre, starting Monday, Oct. 26. He is Billy Maine, the only doughboy in the entire A. E. F., who could make General Pershing laugh. He combines a lithesome spirit of fun with captivating wit. His comedy is not of the common, vulgar type, but is clean and free from defilement. Billy's wit is a golden thread tossed over the footlights to tickle the ribs of his auditors into convulsions. He is on the stage almost constantly from rise to drop of curtain.

Billy has a good show—an amazingly clean show. The veteran theatregoers will not have laughed so much in their amusement career as they will be at the ad lib antics of the boob doubghoy. His fantastic sense of humor finds happy expression in the cheerful lunacies of his musical comedy.

It is not a moving picture. It is not a ward play. It just turns the monotony of strict army regulations into new fangled merriment at which you will laugh till tears flow.

Youth of Country

This peaceful penetrating influence, the president characterized as one of the many things America is doing in the furtherance of international peace and helpfulness to all nations.

"America," he said, "has many reasons for pride and satisfaction in the character of its citizenship. It is gratifying to know that it has the resources with which to make these outlays and perform these services.

"We ought to be thankful in remembering that our own people do not need to receive this kind of assistance from any other people. We are able to look after our own.

"But that which rises above all other considerations is the fact that our people are imbued with a religious charity which makes them disposed to extend these benefits to those who are less fortunately circumstanced at home and abroad.

"There are those who constantly reprove our people and our government for an alleged failure to assist other peoples.

"I do not know that anyone could ever say we were doing enough, but it is my strong suspicion that those who are making the loudest complaints have never taken the trouble to ascertain what we have done and what we are doing.

"It is gratifying to realize how the steady, courageous, generous hand of America continues to reach out to those in need. It stands as conclusive answer to all censorious criticism. These works stamp America with a continuing effort, working for moral regeneration."

nation. "I was against it then and am opposed to it now," he said.

Upon roll call, Farrall, Kerr, Hayes and Larcombe voted "yea", while Chambers, Rowe, and Eardley voted against it. When previous attempts were made to cut the salary Councilman Larcombe expressed a willingness to support a $1,200 salary measure but opposed to making it less.

Lacking the necessary three-fourths vote to suspend the rules the ordinance was held up on second reading. Should the line-up stand, two more meetings will be necessary to enact the measure.

Kerr Explains Tax Situation.

Kerr asserted that the city would face a serious financial situation during next year as a result of an agreement which has been made between county officials and the East Liverpool district board of education. He produced figures which he declared had been obtained from the county auditor's office, showing that the school levy for 1926 would be 9.38 mills, provided the proposed three-mill levy is approved November 3, as compared with 8.71 mills, the rate this year. The school's gain, the solon asserted, is the municipality's loss.

"If this plan goes through it will mean that the city's revenue for next year will be reduced $32,000 or $34,000, according to conservative estimates," Kerr said. "It will mean that we will have to cut our police force in two, lay off half the firemen and retrench in other ways. It is a serious matter.

"I wish to be thoroughly understood that I am not opposed to the three-mill school levy which goes before the voters at the general election. I realize that the schools must be supported, but nevertheless the city must be cared for just as well as the schools."

Auditor McGraw and Solicitor Brokaw also explained the proposed system of taxation.

Kerr then offered a motion that the solicitor be instructed to take the matter up with the state tax commission at once, employing whatever assistance is necessary to halt the purported plan. Hayes offered a second and the action was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Too Much Shrinkage, Says Report.

Kerr submitted a report from a committee, made up of himself, Farrall and Larcombe, regarding the alleged gasoline "leak" at the city building.

Councilman Farrall declared that he had never charged any one with stealing gasoline belonging to the city but that he was merely stating what he had been told by "other citizens."

"I was branded as a liar in the newspapers," said Farrall. "The citizens whom I talk to are not liars. This committee has made a thorough investigation and submits its report, which is not for publication unless council says so."

The report showed that up to October 1, of this year, 282 gallons of gasoline had been used in the patrol, 61 gallons used by the motorcycle and 138¼ gallons by the machine owned by Jail Turnkey William Cline, which, it is claimed, is used in police department work. This totals 482¼ gallons as compared with 769 gallons which has been purchased since the first of the year.

"This committee thinks this is too much shrinkage and would recommend that the underground tank be raised to see if there isn't a leak," says the report. "We do not mean to say that any one is deliberately stealing gasoline, but we do think this is entirely too much gasoline being used for the work done by the department."

The report says that the desk sergeant on duty at police headquarters refused to allow the committee permission to see the gasoline record, asserting he was acting under orders. The mayor also at first refused to permit an examination of the records, declaring the committee should file mandamus proceedings, the report added. Later, however, he permitted the committee to see the books and to question the desk sergeant.

"We would recommend that the coupon system be used in the purchase of gasoline in the future," the report says. "By this system the drivers could purchase their gas direct from the filling station, turning duplicate coupons into the auditor's office to correspond with coupons held by the filling station owners.

"There was a vast discrepancy in either the manner of issuing gasoline or the manner in which the books have been kept," the report concludes. "This committee has presented the facts as it found them and in conclusion wish to state that we feel that some one is using entirely too much gas for the work that has been done by the safety department."

Without a dissenting vote the solons voted to "receive and file" the report without comment. This action means the collapse of the probe inasmuch as the police department has already adopted the socalled coupon system for purchasing gasoline, for department-operated motor vehicles.

Ordinace Passed

The solons voted to permit the owner of a gasoline station being erected in Pennsylvania avenue, East End, to remove 25 feet of curb at either side of his place of business for a driveway.

No attempt was made to re-enact the ordinance providing for street repair work, vetoed by Mayor Brown early this week. The mayor's veto message was read and accepted.

An ordinance giving the police motor patrol the right of way on all city streets was passed on second and third readings.

Other ordinances approved on three readings, under suspension of the rules, were:

To borrow money and issue notes for improvement of Mulberry street; to borrow money and issue notes for improvement of Second street; to levy special assessments for improvement of Cadmus street; to improve Rural Lane from Monroe street to West alley.

Service Director Ellis was instructed to notify the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Company that they must remove an obstruction from Washington street, near the Potters Savings & Loan company building; also to advise the Youngstown Auto Body company, East End, to cease blockading the sidewalk in front of their place of business in Pennsylvania avenue.

Oppose Traffic Light Purchase.

The report of the bar association on proposed improvement at the city hall, read by Solicitor Brokaw, were estimated to cost not less than $2,500. Council ordered the acceptance of this report, but there is little likelihood that any extensive improvements will be made until after the court has been in operation for a year at least. Slight changes will be made to the second floor before the first of the year.

Council turned down a motion, offered by Chambers, that the city purchase two automatic lights which have been shipped here. The lights, according to council, were ordered with the understanding that the bill would be paid by the Columbiana County Motor club. Kerr, Larcomb, Farrall and Hayes voted against the proposal, while Chambers, Rowe and Eardley supported it.

The service director was instructed to have the city street force lay a new top on the culvert crossing Mulberry street. Contractors want approximately $1,000 fo rthis work, while the street department can do it for $500, members of council declared.

Council also instructed the service director to accept from C. V. Beatty a deed for a strip of land near the Croxall estate which will provide an outlet for residents of Claybourne avenue. Beatty recently expressed his willingness to deed this land to the city.

The request of George Hadgett, Monroe street, for permission to build a flight of steps from his home into the street was referred to the street committee for investigation.

although the Greeks have not occupied it. The town is reported to be heavily damaged and some reports describe it as "a mass of ruins," with the population having fled.

During yesterday, although Athens reports said the Greek army had been ordered to halt, the invading forces advanced slightly to the north of the village of Raina, west of the river Struma.

The village of Levunovo has suffered heavily from Greek shells, being subjected to an almost constant fire from artillery and aeroplane bombs.

The Greek forces now occupy eight Bulgarian villages.

Reports reach Sofia that the Greeks are plundering and destroying property and crops are being ruined.

The Bulgarian population is said to have completely evacuated the occupied area.

Here's Instant Relief from Bunions and Soft Corns

Actually Reduces the Swelling—Soft Corns Dry Right Up and Can Be Picked Off.

Mathews Medicine Store Says Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction or Money Cheerfully Refunded.

Get a two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) today. Every well stocked drug store has this, with the distinct understanding that your money will be cheerfully returned if it does not reduce the inflamation, soreness, and pain much quicker than any remedy you ever used.

Your bunions may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture and pray for quick relief. What's to be done?

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes all the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel right up and scale off.

No matter how discouraged you have been with pads, shields or other applications, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn. Something that will end your foot troubles for ever.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing varicose or swollen veins.

Mathews Medicine Store and every good druggist guarantees Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

Quite a program, but the judge wouldn't let it go through.

In Russia, on the other hand, a deletion of orthodox priests and bishops begged the government "for an equal civil status with citizens of the Soviet state."

The priests asked the right to publish religious literature and have for their children (priests of the Greek church marry) the same education as is given to the children of peasants. The Russian government says no.

Again Thursday Wall street celebrated a 2,000,000 share day. A seat on the stock exchange has sold for $135,000. It is a record price, but cheap when you consider that it makes the purchaser one of the happy eleven hundred that make "one-eighth of 1 per cent" on the nation's stock speculations. It's a valuable seat for a man with sound nerves, a cool head, able to leave gambling to his clinets. But it is not easy to find 1,100 men of that kind.

property on the duplicate just as real estate and other property are now taxed. The director recommended its support.

The term extending would only add to the confusion in the legislature, the directors decided, in advising the voters to vote "no" upon this amendment. At the present all state officers, except the auditor, are elected for terms of two years. The amendment proposes to make the terms of all state and county officials, except members of the legislature, four years. The board points out that election of a governor and other state officials every four years and members of the state legislature every two years would be unsatisfactory.

The chamber, at the request of the United States Chamber of Commerce, went on record as favoring the World court. Members of the senate from this state will be urged to vote in favor of the American participation in the tribunal when the issue comes up for action in congress in December.

HARRY KNOWLES SEEKS DAMAGES

Harry Knowles, a minor, through his mother, Mrs. Mae Knowles, of Highland Colony, has filed suit in common pleas court, Lisbon, seeking $3,000 damages from C. C. Pusey, as the result of injuries sustained when the boy was struck by an automobile last June 14.

Young Knowles, it is claimed, was riding a bicycle along St. Clair avenue near Gardendale avenue, when he was run down. He sustained a concussion of the brain and was confined in the City hospital for several days, paying $255 for medical treatment.

The plaintiff is represented by Billingsley and Moore, of Lisbon.

Licensed To Wed.

A marriage license was issued at Lisbon this morning to Leland Hollinger of Massillon, formerly of East Liverpool, and Miss Deborah French, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. Morris French of Salem. The ceremony was to take place after their return to Salem.

SAMUEL POLOVINA TO FILL PULPIT

Samuel Polovina, converted Austrian, will speak Sunday morning in the First Methodist Episcopal church, of which Rev. J. W. Schrader is pastor. He will have as his subject, "From Heathenism to Christ." Large crowd is expected to attend the service.

Services in the other churches will be held at the usual hours with pastors occupying their respective pulpits.

PLANS ARRANGED FOR TESTIMONIAL

Plans have been arranged for the testimonial to be given A. M. Fisher, Newell fire chief, in the Odd Fellows' hall next Tuesday evening. There will be a dinner, after which a program will be given. Number of addresses will be made by prominent local citizens. Mr. Fisher has served here for 20 years as head of the fire department, which is an unsalaried position.

To Attend Convention.

Newell churches will be largely represented at the Hancock county Sunday school convention, which is scheduled to be held in the Chester Presbyterian church on November 5-6.

WORKERS DANCE DRAWS LARGELY

Second annual masquerade dance held last evening under the auspices of the employes of the various shops of the Homer Laughlin China company in the Eagles' hall, East Liverpool, was largely attended. Number of Newell plant employes were present.

Prizes were awarded to wearers of the handsomest, most unique and comic costumes. Music was furnished by Dorsey Mann's orchestra. Proceeds will be devoted to financing the Homer Laughlin soccer team.

Playing at New Brighton.

Homer Laughlin China soccer team, accompanied by a delegation of rooters, left at noon today for New Brighton, Pa., where they will engage the fast team of that place. Next Saturday the first of the elmination games will be played on the Newell field.

License Receipts Climb.

Hunting license receipts this fall show an increase over that of last year, according to reports from Charleston. To date but few accidents have been reported in striking contrast to other seasons.

CHURCH PLANS REVIVAL MEETS

Evangelist Miller of Kentucky to Assist Rev. A. E. Sims.

Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the First Christian church, announced today that a series of revival meetings would begin in the church on Wednesday evening, November 4. The pastor will be assisted by Evangelist William Mart Miller of Newport, Ky.

The evangelist's record is unique in that, after having spent half a lifetime in the law, he was persuaded by other evangelists to leave his chosen field and enter upon his present work. One of these men, Evangelist Amos K. Clarke, says: "Miller stands for the bible, the whole bible, and nothing but the bible, and his loyalty, ability and Christian character led me and other evangelists to urge him to leave the law and enter upon this work." Evangelist Fred A. Galiger of Chicago and Evangelist J. H. McWhirter, formerly state evangelist of Texas and now state evangelist of Kentucky, also express great satisfaction at having had a part in turning Mr. Miller from the law to the ministry.

Mr. Miller's methods are unique in that he always carefully avoids indulging in expressions of private opinion in doctrinal matters. He says that out of 16 years' experience in the law he has brought one great lesson, namely, that "It isn't what you think, but what you can actually prove, that wins or loses your case."

A good working organization has been perfected to take part in the campaign under the direction of Rev. Sims.

GROSS SALES TAX LAW IS ATTACKED

Disapproval of the so-called "gross sales tax," one of the state's great sources of revenue, crystallized yesterday in the starting of court proceedings at Charleston to test its validity. Three large companies engaged in the natural gas industry began the onslaught by filing injunction suits, through which they hope to have enforcement of the act restrained in the common pleas court of Kanawha county, and next Wednesday was set for hearing their pleas for temporary injunctions against the state tax commissioner and attorney general.

PLAN TO ERECT NEW TUBE MILL

The new tube mill is designated to occupy the location used for years past as a stock yard for scrap iron. Thousands of tons of scrap iron are to be moved nearly a half mile southward. Grading for the new scrap yard was started this week and as soon as this work is completed giant electric cranes will be placed in operation to transfer the mountainous scrap pile southward.

Some excavating is being done to level the new scrap site. The large electric cranes will be magnetic appliances for use in picking up the scrap iron and steel and to convey it to the new yards.

Plans for the new tube mill were announced some weeks ago, along with plans for other expansion and improvements in Weirton to cost approximately $10,000,000.

AUTO PER CAPITA EXPENSE IS $33

Fifty million dollars, or more than $33 for each man, women and child in the state, is a conservative estimate of the amount expended in automobiles in 1924 in West Virginia, basing the estimate on compilations by State Labor Commissioner George F. Daugherty.

From the statistical reports received by his department, Mr. Daugherty learned that the 440 automobile sales and repair concerns reporting to him placed a value of $37,947,622.55 on the repair work and sales during the year. Addition to this figure of the motor vehicle tax of $2,874,587 collected by the state and $1,277,101.82 from the two-cent gasoline tax which was in force in 1924, gave a total of $42,099,311.37 for the known elements of cost of automobiles in the state. The cost of gasoline itself and cost of insurance accessories and other small items are not included in the records, making it certain that the state's automobile for the year exceeded the $50,000,000 estimate.

Reports from the sales and repair companies showed the 440 plants employed 3,190 people, paid wages during the year amounting to $4,144,988 and represented a capital investment of $13,120,567.

Parent Teachers To Meet

Plans have been completed for the Parent-Teachers meeting to be held Monday evening in the Central school building. Plans will be made at this session to install the school savings system.

PARTY IS HELD BY AID SOCIETY

Members of the Ladies Aid society of the First Methodist Episcopal church and a number of friends were entertained last evening at a masquerade party in the home of Mrs. L. W. Ten Eyck, in Third street. The home was decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en season. The grand march was played by Katherine Bloor after which the guests unmasked. Music and games were the diversions. Lunch was served by the committee composed of Mesdames Pipes, Ten Eyck, Allen, Welsch, Miller, Spangler, Meeks and Haney.

CHESTER SQUAD MEETS TORONTO

Chester high football team, accompanied by a large delegation of rooters, left at noon today for Toronto, where the crack scholastic eleven of that place will be met this afternoon in what is expected to prove one of the hardest games of the season for the locals.

Coach Wild will use the same lineup that faced the Wellsville squad last Saturday.

Hope Takes Initiative

The Hope Natural gas company, which represented to the court that the major part of its gas business was for sale in Ohio and Pennsylvania, took the lead in the contest against the law, and petitions filed by the Reserve Gas company, also doing mainly an interstate business, and the United Fuel Gas company, which sells some of its gas outside the state as well as serving a large territory in West Virginia, followed closely that of the Hope company. Counsel indicated that a number of other suits along similar lines would be filed within a few days.

District Rally Here.

Rev. W. S. Hamilton, of New Cumberland, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church, spoke last evening at the Grant dis- First Christian church. Delegates were present from every church in the district.

Chicken Supper Held.

112th Engineers Plan Reunion in Cleveland, Nov. 7

Former members of Company F, 112th Engineers, in which several East Liverpool men served during the World war, will hold a reunion at Cleveland on Saturday, Nov. 7.

The 112th Engineers was a unit of the 37th ("Buckeye") division, having seen active service on the battle fronts in France and Belgium. Former members of the company interested in the reunion are requested to communicate with W. R. Mills, Central Armory, Cleveland.

Agricultural implement manufacturers interested in Czechoslovakia are negotiating with Italian bankers for the organization of a company to make such implements in Italy, thus bringing the productions nearer home than at present.

COHAN SCREEN HIT IS BOOKED

Douglas MacLean in Broadway Success at Ceramic.

After a search for story material that extended over a period of several months, Douglas MacLean selected "Seven Keys to Baldpate" as his first starring comedy for Paramount.

The story, which holds the screen at the Ceramic Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is one that is known to everyone and needs no retelling. For the past decade "Seven Keys to Baldpate" has been a stage favorite of audiences the world over and has in addition to its New York triumph a record for performances by stock companies in every city in the United States, aside from being presented by road companies in every town large enough to support a theatre.

In bringing the Cohan story to the screen, MacLean has struck to the original faithfully adding to it only what additional material screen comedy technique demanded. Love-interest, substituted for the "Wager" angle ,and a surprise climax are features of the screen play by Frank Griffin and Wade Boteler.

Fred Newmeyer, who made all the recent Harold Lloyd comedies, directed "Seven Keys." Edith Roberts, leading woman, heads the cast playing in support of the star. Other big names include Betty Francisco, Maym Kelso, Andres Randolf, Crauford Kent, Ned Sparks, William Orlamonde and Edwin Sturgis.

The Loring Mystery
Hardly a soul in England knew that Sir Nevil Loring was not the lawful heir to the Loring estates—he had held them and the title for many years. From Virginia came young David Loring son of Sir Nevil's older brother, Humphrey, and the rightful heir; but before David reached Loring Chase, a body was washed up by the Thames and recognized by Sir Nevil, the family solicitor, Mr. Gillespie, and Jasper Shrig, shrewd private detective, as that of the young American. Meanwhile, a mysterious young man who called himself David Loring reached Loring Chase, obtained audience with Sir Nevil, and was rudely received, then swore to dispossess his uncle of the property. Soon after, Sir Nevil, wicked, relentless Sir Nevil, was found dead in his home, the silver hilt of a dagger gleaming among the blood-stained frills at his throat. It was plainly murder and there was work for Jasper Shrig to do.
So starts this romance of London and the English country in the early nineteenth century. Mr. Farnol has added to an unflagging, wholesome incident and delightful character-drawing narrative, a murder mystery that defies solution till the final pages are reached. And what a heroine is Anticlea—flame of fire and strength of steel, headstrong, high-spirited and beautiful with the dazzling glory of the autumn woodlands—Anticlea who rode her white horse down the green aisles of the beechwood straight into David Loring's stricken heart!

BETTER TYPE FURS SOUGHT, REPORT SHOWS

Imports of $88,000,000 Last Year Give Idea of Business.

FASHION CALLS

Alaskan Skin Sales in American Market are Heavy.

WASHINGTON.—In addition to millions of dollars worth of Alaskan sealskins sold on the American market by the government, this country last year imported furs valued at nearly $88,000,000.

This is a small portion of the bill paid each year to keep America's feminine population properly clothed and muffled in accordance with the dictates of fashion.

Officials say that the demand for furs, especially of the better grades, is increasing and that probably 1925 will show a material advance in the importation as well as domestic manufacture.

Big Growth Shown.

The 192-4 figure showed an advance of $20,000,000 from 1922 although it did not far surpass the import in 1925.

Undressed furs made up the bulk of the imports during the year, again disclosing the dependency of American manufacturers on foreign sources of supply. The value of manufactured fur products did not exceed $8,000,000.

Officials estimate that the finished product brought a retail market price of over twenty times the value of imports.

On islands off Alaska, the United States government owns the largest seal herd in the world, and is believed to control eight per cent of the sealskins sold. A majority of the skins sold are sold on the domestic market, although there is a considerable export in this business.

American furs are popular among the wealthy abroad, although the high prices prohibit their general use with the masses. The quality of American seal is said to be superior to that produced in any other part ofq the world.

Amongq the various classifications of undressed furs, according to the department of Commerce, hare, coney and rabbit figured heaviest, both as to quantity and value, with receipts of more than 95,500,000 pieces valued at $16,875,000.

Squirrel Far Second.

Squirrel came second, imports hoveing been 18,340,000 pieces of $14,983,000 value. Purchases of fox skins, other than silver and black, amounted to $10,382,000. Other foreign buying of furs follows.

Marten, $4,948,000; beaver, $3,550,000; muskrat, $2.549000 and mink, $2,137,000.

American export of raw and finished furs amounted to $26,130,000 in 1924. The figure was a material advance over 1923, when shipments totalled but $22,618,000.

Erases Wrinkles in Less Than 15 Minutes

Scientists have at last taken up seriously the problem of removing wrinkles and age lines. Many experiments have been made. The result indicates that the "tarkroot method" is the best because it produces immediate results with perfect safety and comfort. It consists merely in spreading over the face a mixture of powdered tarkroot, one spoonful, and lemon juice, one spoonful. In your mirror, before your very eyes, you can watch the wrinkles and sagginess literally melt away—in less than 15 minutes!

The sensation from this brief treatment is most refreshing. The effect is far better than that produced by the most expert massage. Tarkroot is so harmless you could eat it. And the cost per treatment is trifling—less than three cents when purchased in the original package at any drug store.

Have You Too Much "Acid?"

A TIRED, achy, listless feeling is a common sign of sluggish kidneys and excess uric acid. This subtle body-poison causes many mysterious aches and ills. One feels tired, is lame and stiff, obliged to get up at night and has other annoying kidney irregularities. The back aches; there are headaches and dizzy spells; one feels nervous and depressed.

Don't risk serious sickness! Assist the kidneys to more active elimination by drinking plenty of water, eating less heavy foods and using Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands in similar cases. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

Mrs. Ruth Collins, 108 East Third St., says: "A dull aching through my back made it hard for me to get about my housework. Sometimes I could hardly get up when I got down. I was bothered by the way my kidneys acted and I felt miserable all over. I got a box of Doan's Pills and after taking some I was relieved."

FASTER STREET CAR SCHEDULE

Thirty-minute Service to Midland Effective Tomorrow.

Supplementing a fast interurban service inaugurated on Sunday, October 11, the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company will establish better transportation on the Wellsville-Midland and East Liverpool-Wellsville divisions tomorrow.

G. F. Wills, general superintendent, announced that a 30-minute service will be the rule on the Midland run, while 15-minute cars will be operated on the main line.

Under the fast interurban service, a 30-minute saving in running time is made on the Beaver-Steubenville trip.

ROBBERS LOOT VILLAGE STORE

The general store of W. C. Springer, New Waterford, was entered by thieves early this morning, cash and merchandise, valued at approximately $500, being taken.

The robbery occurred after midnight. Entrance was gained by jimmying the lock in the front door. A cash register, containing $160, several rain coats, underwear, trousers, hosiery and other merchandise were included in the loot.

Sheriff George Wright was called to make an investigation.

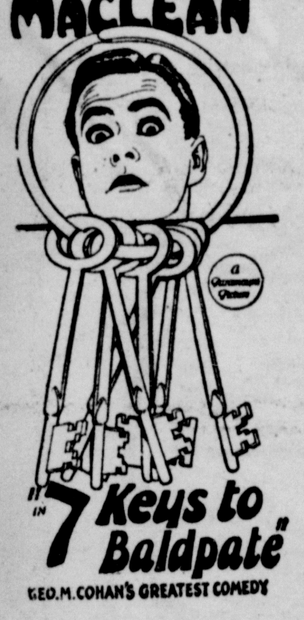
DEATH ROLL

Miss Ada Surgeon.

Miss Ada Surgeon, formerly of East Liverpool, died yesterday at the home of her brother, Fred Surgeon, Murray, O., following a long illness.

Deceased, who was formerly a teacher in the Wellsville schools, is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Byron, East Liverpool; James, Orbiston, O.; Fred, Murray, O.; Mrs. Beulah Cope, Pughtown, W. Va.; Mrs. Frank Miller, Wheeling, and Mrs. Homer Roush, East Liverpool.

The body will be brought here this evening and taken to the home of her brother, Byron Surgeon, in Pennsylvania avenue.



A TISSUE BUILDER

One of the important laws of health is to safeguard the quality of the blood, for good, red blood builds up the tissues. The food we eat and the food our parents ate, is a factor, also the air we breathe day and night, and the kind of water we drink, absolute purity is a requisite, and we owe it to ourselves and to those who come after us to keep the blood pure. A graduate of Philadelphia and Cincinnati Medical Schools was Dr. R. V. Pierce, who early practiced in Pennsylvania, and became famous. He was a student of life problems, and had great faith in Nature's healing through the herbs and roots, such as were used by the Indians, and, after careful analysis of their different qualities, compounded the Golden Medical Discovery, which met with such phenomenal success that a wider field was necessary, and he removed to Buffalo, N. Y., where he became a leading citizens and representative in Congress, built up a splendid business, and founded the famous Invalids Hotel. Dr. Pierce's name is alone a guarantee of the purity of the Golden Medical Discovery, which has helped thousands for over fifty years, and many unsolicited testimonials bear witness to its value as a tonic.

Sold by all druggists, in liquid or tablet form, or send 10 cents for trial sample to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel 665 Main Street Buffalo N. Y., and write for free medical advice.

Doughboy Comedian Stars in Show at Strand Next Week

A new stage comedian will delight the patrons of the Strand theatre, starting Monday, Oct. 26. He is Billy Maine, the only doughboy in the entire A. E. F., who could make General Pershing laugh. He combines a lithesome spirit of fun with captivating wit. His comedy is not of the common, vulgar type, but is clean and free from defilement. Billy's wit is a golden thread tossed over the footlights to tickle the ribs of his auditors into convulsions. He is on the stage almost constantly from rise to drop of curtain.

Billy has a good show—an amazingly clean show. The veteran theatregoers will not have laughed so much in their amusement career as they will be at the ad lib antics of the boob doubghoy. His fantastic sense of humor finds happy expression in the cheerful lunacies of his musical comedy.

It is not a moving picture. It is not a ward play. It just turns the monotony of strict army regulations into new fangled merriment at which you will laugh till tears flow.

Youth of Country

This peaceful penetrating influence, the president characterized as one of the many things America is doing in the furtherance of international peace and helpfulness to all nations.

"America," he said, "has many reasons for pride and satisfaction in the character of its citizenship. It is gratifying to know that it has the resources with which to make these outlays and perform these services.

"We ought to be thankful in remembering that our own people do not need to receive this kind of assistance from any other people. We are able to look after our own.

"But that which rises above all other considerations is the fact that our people are imbued with a religious charity which makes them disposed to extend these benefits to those who are less fortunately circumstanced at home and abroad.

"There are those who constantly reprove our people and our government for an alleged failure to assist other peoples.

"I do not know that anyone could ever say we were doing enough, but it is my strong suspicion that those who are making the loudest complaints have never taken the trouble to ascertain what we have done and what we are doing.

"It is gratifying to realize how the steady, courageous, generous hand of America continues to reach out to those in need. It stands as conclusive answer to all censorious criticism. These works stamp America with a continuing effort, working for moral regeneration."

Another thing we are utterly unable to understand is where there can be any call for mite society money in this day and age when we have 14,000,000 telephones in the country.—Marion Star.

Mayor's Pay Slash

nation. "I was against it then and am opposed to it now," he said.

Upon roll call, Farrall, Kerr, Hayes and Larcombe voted "yea", while Chambers, Rowe, and Eardley voted against it. When previous attempts were made to cut the salary Councilman Larcombe expressed a willingness to support a $1,200 salary measure but opposed to making it less.

Lacking the necessary three-fourths vote to suspend the rules the ordinance was held up on second reading. Should the line-up stand, two more meetings will be necessary to enact the measure.

Kerr Explains Tax Situation.

Kerr asserted that the city would face a serious financial situation during next year as a result of an agreement which has been made between county officials and the East Liverpool district board of education. He produced figures which he declared had been obtained from the county auditor's office, showing that the school levy for 1926 would be 9.38 mills, provided the proposed three-mill levy is approved November 3, as compared with 8.71 mills, the rate this year. The school's gain, the solon asserted, is the municipality's loss.

"If this plan goes through it will mean that the city's revenue for next year will be reduced $32,000 or $34,000, according to conservative estimates," Kerr said. "It will mean that we will have to cut our police force in two, lay off half the firemen and retrench in other ways. It is a serious matter.

"I wish to be thoroughly understood that I am not opposed to the three-mill school levy which goes before the voters at the general election. I realize that the schools must be supported, but nevertheless the city must be cared for just as well as the schools."

Auditor McGraw and Solicitor Brokaw also explained the proposed system of taxation.

Kerr then offered a motion that the solicitor be instructed to take the matter up with the state tax commission at once, employing whatever assistance is necessary to halt the purported plan. Hayes offered a second and the action was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Too Much Shrinkage, Says Report.

Kerr submitted a report from a committee, made up of himself, Farrall and Larcombe, regarding the alleged gasoline "leak" at the city building.

Councilman Farrall declared that he had never charged any one with stealing gasoline belonging to the city but that he was merely stating what he had been told by "other citizens."

"I was branded as a liar in the newspapers," said Farrall. "The citizens whom I talk to are not liars. This committee has made a thorough investigation and submits its report, which is not for publication unless council says so."

The report showed that up to October 1, of this year, 282 gallons of gasoline had been used in the patrol, 61 gallons used by the motorcycle and 138½ gallons by the machine owned by Jail Turnkey William Cline, which, it is claimed, is used in police department work. This totals 482½ gallons as compared with 769 gallons which has been purchased since the first of the year.

"This committee thinks this is too much shrinkage, and would recommend that the underground tank be raised to see if there isn't a leak," says the report. "We do not mean to say that any one is deliberately stealing gasoline, but we do think this is entirely too much gasoline being used for the work done by the department."

The report says that the desk sergeant on duty at police headquarters refused to allow the committee permission to see the gasoline record, asserting he was acting under orders. The mayor also at first refused to permit an examination of the records, declaring the committee should file mandamus proceedings, the report added. Later, however, he permitted the committee to see the books and to question the desk sergeant.

"We would recommend that the coupon system be used in the purchase of gasoline in the future," the report says. "By this system the drivers could purchase their gas direct from the filling station, turning duplicate coupons into the auditor's office to correspond with coupons held by the filling station owners.

"There was a vast discrepancy in either the manner of issuing gasoline or the manner in which the books have been kept," the report concludes. "This committee has presented the facts as it found them and in conclusion wish to state that we feel that some one is using entirely too much gas for the work that has been done by the safety department."

Without a dissenting vote the solons voted to "receive and file" the report without comment. This action means the collapse of the probe inas-much as the police department has already adopted the socalled coupon system for purchasing gasoline for department-operated motor vehicles.

Ordinace Passed

The solons voted to permit the owner of a gasoline station being erected in Pennsylvania avenue, East End, to remove 25 feet of curb at either side of his place of business for a driveway.

No attempt was made to re-enact the ordinance providing for street repair work, vetoed by Mayor Brown early this week. The mayor's veto message was read and accepted.

An ordinance giving the police motor patrol the right of way on all city streets was passed on second and third readings.

Other ordinances approved on three readings, under suspension of the rules, were:

To borrow money and issue notes for improvement of Mulberry street; to borrow money and issue notes for improvement of Second street; to levy special assessments for improvement of Cadmus street; to improve Rural Lane from Monroe street to West alley.

Service Director Ellis was instructed to notify the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Company that they must remove an obstruction from Washington street, near the Potters Savings & Loan company building; also to advise the Youngstown Auto Body company, East End, to cease blockading the sidewalk in front of their place of business in Pennsylvania avenue.

Oppose Traffic Light Purchase.

The report of the bar association on proposed improvement at the city hall, read by Solicitor Brokaw, were estimated to cost not less than $2,500. Council ordered the acceptance of this report, but there is little likelihood that any extensive improvements will be made until after the court has been in operation for a year at least. Slight changes will be made to the second floor before the first of the year.

Council turned down a motion, offered by Chambers, that the city purchase two automatic lights which have been shipped here. The lights, according to council, were ordered with the understanding that the bill would be paid by the Columbiana County Motor club. Kerr, Larcomb, Farrall and Hayes voted against the proposal, while Chambers, Rowe and Eardley supported it.

The service director was instructed to have the city street force lay a new top on the culvert crossing Mulberry street. Contractors want approximately $1,000 fo rthis work, while the street department can do it for $500, members of council declared.

Council also instructed the service director to accept from C. V. Beatty a deed for a strip of land near the Croxall estate which will provide an outlet for residents of Claybourne avenue. Beatty recently expressed his willingness to deed this land to the city.

The request of George Hadgett, Monroe street, for permission to build a flight of steps from his home into the street was referred to the street committee for investigation.

Quite a program, but the judge wouldn't let it go through.

In Russia, on the other hand, a deletion of orthodox priests and bishops begged the government "for an equal civil status with citizens of the Soviet state."

The priests asked the right to publish religious literature and have for their children (priests of the Greek church marry) the same education as is given to the children of peasants. The Russian government says no.

property on the duplicate just as real estate and other property are now taxed. The director recommended its support.

The term extending would only add to the confusion in the legislature, the directors decided, in advising the voters to vote "no" upon this amendment. At the present all state officers, except the auditor, are elected for terms of two years. The amendment proposes to make the terms of all state and county officials, except members of the legislature, four years. The board points out that election of a governor and other state officials every four years and members of the state legislature every two years would be unsatisfactory.

The chamber, at the request of the United States Chamber of Commerce, went on record as favoring the World court. Members of the senate from this state will be urged to vote in favor of the American participation in the tribunal when the issue comes up for action in congress in December.

HARRY KNOWLES SEEKS DAMAGES

Harry Knowles, a minor, through his mother, Mrs. Mae Knowles, of Highland Colony, has filed suit in common pleas court, Lisbon, seeking $3,000 damages from C. C. Pusey, as the result of injuries sustained when the boy was struck by an automobile last June 14.

Young Knowles, it is claimed, was riding a bicycle along St. Clair avenue near Gardendale avenue, when he was run down. He sustained a concussion of the brain and was confined in the City hospital for several days, paying $255 for medical treatment.

The plaintiff is represented by Billingsley and Moore, of Lisbon.

PLANS ARRANGED FOR TESTIMONIAL

Plans have been arranged for the testimonial to be given A. M. Fisher, Newell fire chief, in the Odd Fellows' hall next Tuesday evening. There will be a dinner, after which a program will be given. Number of addresses will be made by prominent local citizens. Mr. Fisher has served here for 20 years as head of the fire department, which is an unsalaried position.

To Attend Convention.

Newell churches will be largely represented at the Hancock county Sunday school convention, which is scheduled to be held in the Chester Presbyterian church on November 5-6.

WORKERS DANCE DRAWS LARGELY

Second annual masquerade dance held last evening under the auspices of the employes of the various shops of the Homer Laughlin China company in the Eagles' hall, East Liverpool, was largely attended. Number of Newell plant employes were present.

Prizes were awarded to wearers of the handsomest, most unique and comic costumes. Music was furnished by Dorsey Mann's orchestra. Proceeds will be devoted to financing the Homer Laughlin soccer team.

Playing at New Brighton.

Homer Laughlin China soccer team, accompanied by a delegation of rooters, left at noon today for New Brighton, Pa., where they will engage the fast team of that place. Next Saturday the first of the elmination games will be played on the Newell field.

Q. How old is the obelisk in Central park supposed to be? C. S.

A. The obelisk in Central park, New York, is thirty-five centuries old. As the Standard Guide to New York City remarks: "It was old when Moses read its inscription in honor of the Egyptian and sun god." It stood before the Temple of the Sun at Heliopolis near Cairo where it was erected in the 16th Century B. C., by Thothme III. In 12 B. C. Augustus Caesar carried the obelisk to Alexandria. Here it and two others were erected before the Temple of the Caesars. In 1877 it was presented by the Khedive of Egypt to the United States, and brought to America by Lt. Cmdr. Gorringe, U. S. N. It was erected in Central park in 1881. William H. Vanderbilt bore the expense of removal which was $102,576. The obelisk is a monolith of syenite from the granite quarries of Syene, Egypt. The shaft is 69½ feet high, 7 feet 9 inches by 7 feet 8½ inches at the base and weighs 448,000 pounds.

English Rum Drinking Drops as Export Trade Shows Heavy Increase

LONDON.—England is drinking less whiskey. Statistics show that the consumption of whiskey in the United Kingdom has decreased by one third during the past twenty-one years, and that only eleven million proof gallons are now being annually consumed.

It must not be thought that the British whisky distillers are on the way to the poorhouse, however, for American prohibition has resulted in a heavily increased export trade. For instance, the exportation of whisky to Canada, for long known to be the half way liquor house to America, increased by nearly seventy thousand proof gallons during one month. The decrease in the English consumption is said to be due to the inferior whisky which is now being turned out, and the high price that is being demanded for it.

BETTER TYPE FURS SOUGHT, REPORT SHOWS

Imports of $88,000,000 Last Year Give Idea of Business.

Alaskan Skin Sales in American Market are Heavy.

WASHINGTON.—In addition to millions of dollars worth of Alaskan sealskins sold on the American market by the government, this country last year imported furs valued at nearly $88,000,000.

This is a small portion of the bill paid each year to keep America's feminine population properly clothed and muffled in accordance with the dictates of fashion.

Officials say that the demand for furs, especially of the better grades, is increasing and that probably 1925 will show a material advance in the importation as well as domestic manufacture.

Big Growth Shown.

The 192-4 figure showed an advance of $20,000,000 from 1922 although it did not far surpass the import in 1925.

Undressed furs made up the bulk of the imports during the year, again disclosing the dependency of American manufacturers on foreign sources of supply. The value of manufactured fur products did not exceed $8,000,000.

Officials estimate that the finished product brought a retail market price of over twenty times the value of imports.

On islands off Alaska, the United States government owns the largest seal herd in the world, and is believed to control eight per cent of the sealskins sold. A majority of the skins sold are sold on the domestic market, although there is a considerable export in this business.

American furs are popular among the wealthy abroad, although the high prices prohibit their general use with the masses. The quality of American seal is said to be superior to that produced in any other part ofq the world.

Amongq the various classifications of undressed furs, according to the department of Commerce, hare, coney and rabbit figured heaviest, both as to quantity and value, with receipts of more than 95,500,000 pieces valued at $16,875,000.

Squirrel Far Second.

Squirrel came second, imports hoveing been 18,340,000 pieces of $14,983,000 value. Purchases of fox skins, other than silver and black, amounted to $10,382,000. Other foreign buying of furs follows.

Marten, $4,948,000; beaver, $3,550,000; muskrat, $2,549000 and mink, $2,137,000.

American export of raw and finished furs amounted to $26,130,000 in 1924. The figure was a material advance over 1923, when shipments totalled but $22,618,000.

Erases Wrinkles in Less Than 15 Minutes

Scientists have at last taken up seriously the problem of removing wrinkles and age lines. Many experiments have been made. The result indicates that the "tarkroot method" is the best because it produces immediate results with perfect safety and comfort. It consists merely in spreading over the face a mixture of powdered tarkroot, one spoonful, and lemon juice, one spoonful. In your mirror, before your very eyes, you can watch the wrinkles and sagginess literally melt away—in less than 15 minutes!

The sensation from this brief treatment is most refreshing. The effect is far better than that produced by the most expert massage. Tarkroot is so harmless you could eat it. And the cost per treatment is trifling—less than three cents when purchased in the original package at any drug store.

Turks Abolish Grilles.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—Another age-old Turkish institution will soon be no more. This time it will be the grilles in front of the Turkish houses designed to prevent the harem women being seen from outside. The ministry of health has ordered the removal of the grilles on the ground that they keep out the sunlight and air, with injurious results to infantile health.

Have You Too Much "Acid?"

A TIRED, achy, listless feeling is a common sign of sluggish kidneys and excess uric acid. This subtle body-poison causes many mysterious aches and ills. One feels tired, is lame and stiff, obliged to get up at night and has other annoying kidney irregularities. The back aches; there are headaches and dizzy spells; one feels nervous and depressed.

Don't risk serious sickness! Assist the kidneys to more active elimination by drinking plenty of water, eating less heavy foods and using Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands in similar cases. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

Mrs. Ruth Collins, 108 East Third St., says: "A dull aching through my back made it hard for me to get about my housework. Sometimes I could hardly get up when I got down. I was bothered by the way my kidneys acted and I felt miserable all over. I got a box of Doan's Pills and after taking some I was relieved."

ROAD BUILDING BEING SPEEDED

Work Progressing on Road in Yellow Creek Township.

Less than three-quarters of a mile of concrete remains to be poured on the last section of the Wellsville-Salienville road in Yellow Creek township, it was announced today by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. Pouring at the rate of 396 feet per day, this concrete job should be completed within 10 working days, it has been pointed out.

More or less delay has been encountered on this contract on account of non-delivery of materials at the Salineville railroad yards. If it is possible to pour all of the remaining section of this road by Nov. 7, the last section will have to remain closed for three weeks to allow the concrete to set before the highway will be allowed to be opened for traffic by the State Highway Department. Should this schedule be adhered to, the road may be opened on or about Nov. 28th.

During the week of Nov. 2nd the county commissioners will send trucks to Salineville to ash that section of this road within the corporate limits, and which section is to be surfaced next year. At all events, the road between East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville will be opened to through traffic over the Chattle Lake route before Dec. 1st according to Surveyor Kirk.

Passage of the proposed $950,000 bond issue will insure the construction of the Salineville-Lisbon road through Wayne township within a short time, it was disclosed at the office of the county commissioners Saturday morning. This four-mile strip will give the south-central part of the county a direct road north and south and also openinfg the Salem territory to Salineville by an improved highway.

This road is improved in Centre township, and south to the Centre-Wayne township line, but in Wayne township there is no improved highway, the township at this time being behind Franklin township in this respect.

During the week the county commissioners have been informed that considerable interest is being shown in the plan to build an improved highway between Homeworth in Knox township northeast through Butler township to Salem. It is known that the commissioners are anxious to build this road, and connect up with an improved link in the North Georgetown territory, so that trade from the western part of the county which now flits into Alliance can be diverted into the Salem district.

This road will also give Salem a new outlet to Valley, and connecting at Valley with an improved road from that place north to Damascus.

A meeting of residents of the Highlandtown section in Washington township will be held there next Monday night at which time the proposed bond issue will be discussed.

Tuesday evening a similar meeting will be held at Salineville, and Thursday night a like gathering will be held at Summitville where Franklin township is anxious to have Salineville hooked up through Summitville with the Lincoln Highway at Kensington.

The last road meeting before election day will be held Friday night of next week at Willow Grove Grange hall.

PREDICT CLOSE ELECTION FIGHT

The election in Franklin township November 3rd gives early indication of being an interesting one. In the field for trustee there are four candidates. F. H. Johnson of the Summitville Brick compan, and J. A. Williard are candidates for re-election, while S. M. Brown and J. S. Thompson are seeking a first term.

In the contest for clerk there will be two candidates. Jackson Peebles and Edwin King. For member of the township board of education the names of three candidates will appear on the ballot, Elvy Thompson, Alansan Finnicum and James Kelley. The petition of Fred Nisson for this office was not properly signed and was rejected by the county board of elections. Mr. Nisson has been an active member of the board of education for the last four years, and although his name will not appear on the ballot, it is said in Franklin township that his name will be written in on the ballot.

HUNTERS SLOW IN SEEKING PERMITS

The demand for hunters licenses this year is declared to be "dull," and the number issued by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to date indicates that not much interest is being shown in the sport. However, all township clerks have been provided with such licenses, and applicants are being supplied from that source as well as at the office of the clerk of courts.

Township clerks look for a rush for these licenses about November 1, which will be in line with the heaviest demand in previous years. There has been no change made by the legislature in the fee charged for these license tags.

Granted Divorce.

In the divorce case of Hazel Patterson against her husband William Patterson, the court has granted the plaintiff a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty, and has also awarded the custody of a minor child to Mrs. Patterson.

DOG LICENSES STILL IN DEMAND

A total of 5,152 dog licenses have been issued so far this year by Deputy Tax Collector Randall Hamilton, there being an increased demand for the license tags noted since so many have had to pay fines and penalties for failure to take out licenses as required by law.

"We're ahead of last year, but a number of dog owners are still delinquent, according to the tax returns the dog owners have filed,' Mr. Hamilton declared. "We're checking up on all of these records, and sooner or later we'll have had all the dog owners of the county in."

The money collected from this source goes to the dog and kennel fund and also to the county board of education.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment for $750 and interest from Nov. 5, 1924, amounting to $39.36 has been rendered in common pleas court by default in the case of Thomas Richardson against J. R. Call, formerly of East Palestine. The action was based upon a note given by the defendant to the plaintiff.

Action Dismissed.

At the costs of the plaintiff and on her own motion, the action filed in common pleas court Dec. 21, 1923, by Elizabeth C. Runyon against Charles Boyd as administrator has been dismissed from the record.

Pastor Returns Home.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry M. Peebles of Millport, have concluded a two weeks' visit vacation spent with relatives in Licking county and at Coshocton. As a result of the return to Millport of the minister, the usual services will be held in Bethesda church Sunday morning.

Woman Given Divorce.

On the grounds of extreme cruelty a decree of divorce has been granted by Judge James G. Moore in common pleas court No. 1 to Dollie Sunderman against her husband, Raymond Sunderman. After the court awarded the custody of a minor child to the plaintiff, the defendant was ordered by the court to pay to Mrs. Sunderman alimony for the support of his child, as agreed upon.

Divorce Action Dismissed.

For failure to prosecute the case, the divorce action filed in common pleas court April 8, last, by Maude Randolph against her husband, Charles Randolph, has been dismissed from the record at the costs of the plaintiff.

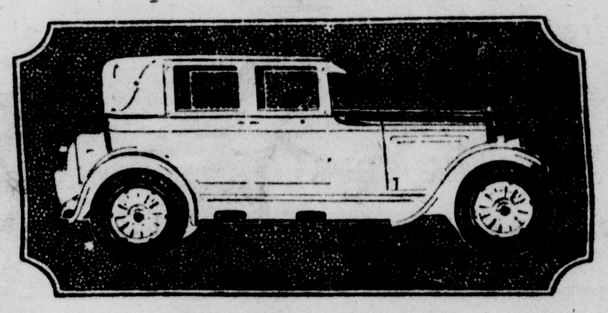
"everlastingly fine performance"!

"If other cars required as little attention, as few adjustments, as the Willys-Knight—the repair shops of this country would have to close their doors tomorrow!" . . .



—direct from the owner of the busiest repair shop in one of our largest cities comes that statement . . .

"Fully 50% of our time is spent in grinding valves and cleaning out carbon", says another service station manager . . .

In those two significant remarks, from experience-headquarters, you have the answer to the expensive and annoying cost-of-upkeep problem that perpetually perplexes so many car owners. And, in the same breath, you have the reason for the universal satisfaction of Willys-Knight owners, today in their hundreds of thousands! . . .

"An Engine You'll Never Wear Out"

the patented Knight sleeve-valve engine . . . in this lies the secret of Willys-Knight emancipation from engine-repairs, its freedom from the need for constant adjustment. This unique engine-principle means uninterrupted service, year in, year out. It means longer life for your car—immeasurably, infinitely longer. It means a sweeter, quieter, more efficient motor-mechanism up to and beyond 100,000 miles than you enjoyed on the day you bought it! . . .

No Carbon Troubles No Valves to Grind

. . . your Willys-Knight is absolutely immune from engine-complications and engine-disorders caused by carbon accumulation. "It's all the better for a bit of carbon"—any expert mechanic will tell you that. Carbon cannot harm your Willys-Knight, or cause knocks or noise, or put your car out of commission for hours and days. It is an engineering fact that carbon serves actually to facilitate this engine's functioning!

No valves to grind—no tappets, no springs, no rocker arm bushings to get out of order or replace. The Knight sleeve-valve idea gets rid of all of them. No eternal pounding of metal upon metal—all parts of this sleeve-valve engine slide and rotate—hence no chattering of parts, no wear and tear . . .

. . . where all other engines lose in power, lose in endurance, and cost more to run as their mileage grows—the engine of your Willys-Knight actually improves with use. It develops more horsepower, becomes sweeter and quieter, and costs less to run the more mileage you pile up on it!

A Car of Rare Beauty—Rare Distinction

And your Willys-Knight is as beautiful an autmobile as you have ever cast your eyes upon. "In line and form the most graceful I have ever seen," a famous artist says. Its appointments as rich, its equipment as complete as you will find in any car, regardless of its price . . . See the smart Coupe-Sedan here shown. A car you will delight to drive. A car in which you will take vast pride in owning. Come, see this superb automobile. Familiarize yourself with the facts about its magnificent performance record. Consider the substantially reduced prices. Deferred payments. A small amount down. Your own convenience—52 weeks or more for balance. Your present car to apply as part payment.

English Rum Drinking Drops as Export Trade Shows Heavy Increase

LONDON.—England is drinking less whiskey. Statistics show that the consumption of whiskey in the United Kingdom has decreased by one third during the past twenty-one years, and that only eleven million proof gallons are now bei... annually consummed.

It must not be thought that the British whisky distillers are on the way to the poorhouse, however, for American prohibition has resulted in a heavily increased export trade. For instance, the exportation of whisky to Canada, for long known to be the half way liquor house to America, increased by nearly seventy thousand proof gallons during one month. The decrease in the English consumption is said to be due to the inferior whisky which is now being turned out, and the high price that is being demanded for it.

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

LISBON

M. K. Zimerman, West Park Ave. Phone 319-R. Lisbon, O.

ROAD BUILDING BEING SPEEDED

Work Progressing on Road in Yellow Creek Township.

Less than three-quarters of a mile of concrete remains to be poured on the last section of the Wellsville-Salienville road in Yellow Creek township, it was announced today by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. Pouring at the rate of 396 feet per day, this concrete job should be completed within 10 working days, it has been pointed out.

More or less delay has been encountered on this contract on account of non-delivery of materials at the Salineville railroad yards. If it is possible to pour all of the remaining section of this road by Nov. 7, the last section will have to remain closed for three weeks to allow the concrete to set before the highway will be allowed to be opened for traffic by the State Highway Department. Should this schedule be adhered to, the road may be opened on or about Nov. 28th.

During the week of Nov. 2nd the county commissioners will send trucks to Salineville to ash that section of this road within the corporate limits, and which section is to be surfaced next year. At all events, the road between East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville will be opened to through traffic over the Chattle Lake route before Dec. 1st according to Surveyor Kirk.

Passage of the proposed $950,000 bond issue will insure the construction of the Salineville-Lisbon road through Wayne township within a short time, it was disclosed at the office of the county commissioners Saturday morning. This four-mile strip will give the south-central part of the county a direct road north and south and also openinfg the Salem territory to Salineville by an improved highway.

This road is improved in Centre township, and south to the Centre-Wayne township line, but in Wayne there is no improved highway, the township at this time being behind Franklin township in this respect.

During the week the county commissioners have been informed that considerable interest is being shown in the plan to build an improved highway between Homeworth in Knox township northeast through Butler township to Salem. It is known that the commissioners are anxious to build this road, and connect up with an improved link in the North Georgetown territory, so that trade from the western part of the county which now flits into Alliance can be diverted into the Salem district.

This road will also give Salem a new outlet to Valley, and connecting at Valley with an improved road from that place north to Damascus.

A meeting of residents of the Highlandtown section in Washington township will be held there next Monday night at which time the proposed bond issue will be discussed.

Tuesday evening a similar meeting will be held at Salineville, and Thursday night a like gathering will be held at Summitville where Franklin township is anxious to have Salineville hooked up through Summitville with the Lincoln Highway at Kensington.

The last road meeting before election day will be held Friday night of next week at Willow Grove Grange hall.

PREDICT CLOSE ELECTION FIGHT

The election in Franklin township November 3rd gives early indication of being an interesting one. In the field for trustee there are four candidates. F. H. Johnson of the Summitville Brick compan, and J. A. Willard are candidates for re-election, while A. M. Brown and J. S. Thompson are seeking a first term.

In the contest for clerk there will be two candidates. Jackson Peebles and Edwin King. For member of the township board of education the names of three candidates will appear on the ballot, Elvy Thompson, Alansan Finnicum and James Kelley. The petition of Fred Nisson for this office was not properly signed and was rejected by the county board of elections. Mr. Nisson has been an active member of the board of education for the last four years, and although his name will not appear on the ballot, it is said in Franklin township that his name will be written in on the ballot.

HUNTERS SLOW IN SEEKING PERMITS

The demand for hunters licenses this year is declared to be "dull," and the number issued by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to date indicates that not much interest is being shown in the sport. However, all township clerks have been provided with such licenses, and applicants are being supplied from that source as well as at the office of the clerk of courts.

Township clerks look for a rush for these licenses about November 1, which will be in line with the heaviest demand in previous years. There has been no change made by the legislature in the fee charged for these license tags.

Granted Divorce.

In the divorce case of Hazel Patterson against her husband William Patterson, the court has granted the plaintiff a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty, and has also awarded the custody of a minor child to Mrs. Patterson.

DOG LICENSES STILL IN DEMAND

A total of 3,152 dog licenses have been issued so far this year by Deputy Tax Collector Randall Hamilton, there being an increased demand for the license tags noted since so many have had to pay fines and penalties for failure to take out licenses as required by law.

"We're ahead of last year, but a number of dog owners are still delinquent, according to the tax returns the dog owners have filed," Mr. Hamilton declared. "We're checking up on all of these records, and sooner or later we'll have had all the dog owners of the county in."

The money collected from this source goes to the dog and kennel fund and also to the county board of education.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment for $750 and interest from Nov. 5, 1924, amounting to $39.36 has been rendered in common pleas court by default in the case of Thomas Richardson against J. R. Call, formerly of East Palestine. The action was based upon a note given by the defendant to the plaintiff.

Action Dismissed.

At the costs of the plaintiff and on her own motion, the action filed in common pleas court Dec. 21, 1923, by Elizabeth C. Runyon against Charles Boyd as administrator has been dismissed from the record.

Pastor Returns Home.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry M. Peebles of Millport, have concluded a two weeks' visit vacation spent with relatives in Licking county and at Coshocton. As a result of the return to Millport of the minister, the usual services will be held in Bethesda church Sunday morning.

Woman Given Divorce.

On the grounds of extreme cruelty a decree of divorce has been granted by Judge James G. Moore in common pleas court No. 1 to Dollie Sunderman against her husband, Raymond Sunderman. After the court awarded the custody of a minor child to the plaintiff, the defendant was ordered by the court to pay to Mrs. Sunderman alimony for the support of his child, as agreed upon.

Divorce Action Dismissed.

For failure to prosecute the case, the divorce action filed in common pleas court April 8, last, by Maude Randolph against her husband, Charles Randolph, has been dismissed from the record at the costs of the plaintiff.

Leetonia

Midway grange will hold its annual fair on Saturday evening. From 5 to 8 supper will be served and from 9 to 12 there will be dancing. An apron sale will also be one of the features. A number of cash premiums will be given for farm products, including corn, wheat, oats, potatoes, apples, pears, quinces, canned goods, fancywork, and the juveniles will be awarded prizes for baked articles and fancywork.

Leetonia lodge No. 401, F. & A. M., will hold special communications on Monday evening, October 26, and on Friday evening, October 30. On Friday evening a lunch will be one of the features. The meetings will be held in the lodge rooms, Main street.

Rev. H. C. Brillhart, C. S. Anglemyer and Mr. and Mrs. Ira F. Mellinger are in Findlay attending the Ohio State synod of the United Lutheran church of America. Mr. Anglemyer is the delegate from St. Paul's Lutheran church, while Mr. Mellinger is attending in the interest of the Brotherhood of the Lutheran church, of which he is state president. Rev. Baker, of Salem, and Rev. Brant, of Washingtonville, accompanied Rev. Brillhart.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmor Wilson quietly celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary Wednesday at their home, about five miles southwest of Leetonia. October 21, 1869, Miss Esther Davenport, of Doronberg, Pa., and Emmor Wilson were united in marriage at the home of the bride. They shortly after came to Columbiana county, where they have since resided. They were the parents of six children, four of whom are living, Mrs. Nellie Albright, Lisbon; Emmor Wilson, Leetonia; Thomas Wilson, Warren, and one son living at Doronberg, Pa. There are 21 grandchildren and 5 great-grandchildren living in and around this vicinity.

The Girl Scout meeting held on Thursday evening at the Southside school building was well attended. Captain, Miss Myrtle Wilhelm, and lieutenant, Miss Roma Degnon, were in charge. Following the opening of the meeting Captain Wilhelm read a list of names of Leetonia women who had accepted the task of passing on the merit badges of the girls. Their names and the test arey are to pass on is as follows: Paint, Mrs. Nellie Conrad; bird huner, Mrs. Elmer Harrold; business women, Miss Amelia Weidmayer; citizen, Miss Tilly McNulty; home maker and hostess, Miss Amy Shinn; craftsman, Mrs. Joseph Whittle; dairy maid, Mrs. Ainozo Morris; dancing, Mrs. Edward Sauerwine; economist, Miss Elma Rauch; dressmaking, Mrs. W. D. Risher; first aid, Mrs. George Woods; health winner, Mrs. William Rankin.

Sebring

The Misses Margaret and Elodie Watson entertained members of the B. F. of N. M. club at their home Tuesday evening. This was the club's first regular meeting. Plans were laid for a Hallowe'en party to be given at Louisville Saturday evening, October 31. At the close of the business session refreshments were served by Mrs. Watson, mother of the hostesses. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Molly Foden in two weeks.

M. A. Sutherin, Sebring's freight and passenger agent of the Pennsylvania station, attended the regular monthly meeting of the eastern division freight agents in Alliance Thursday afternoon. The meeting, presided over by E. E. Kessel, of Pittsburgh, supervising agent, was devoted to the discussion of loss and damage.

Conferring of the third degree upon a class of candidates featured the regular meeting of Dresmond lodge No. 719, Knights of Pythias, Thursday evening. Luncheon was served at the conclusion of the lodge session.

Members of the Sebring Business Mens' association devoted their regular weekly meeting Thursday afternoon to business. No speaker was booked for the occasion. It is likely an out-of-town speaker will address the association on Thursday, October 29.

Mrs. Bert Sebring will be one of 36 Ohio delegates attending the annual convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America in Chicago Thursday, November 5, to Monday, November 9. Other Mahoning county delegates are Mrs. Arabele Crandall of Youngstown and the Rev. Henry White, also of Youngstown.

Plans are being laid for an appropriate program to be presented at the formal dedication of the new $20,000 Smith township school which will be an event of Tuesday evening, October 27.

Floyd McKee, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. McKee, who has been confined to the Salem Clinic hospital for some time, is reported considerably improved.

Alfred Robson, James Fleming and Miss Grace Early of Columbiana motored to Darlington, Pa., Wednesday evening to attend a masquerade party.

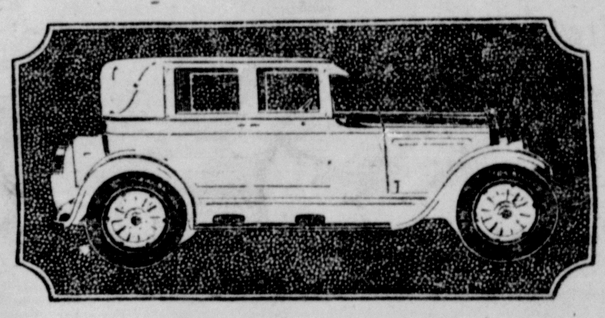
"everlastingly fine performance"!

"If other cars required as little attention, as few adjustments, as the Willys-Knight—the repair shops of this country would have to close their doors tomorrow!" . . .



—direct from the owner of the busiest repair shop in one of our largest cities comes that statement . . .

"Fully 50% of our time is spent in grinding valves and cleaning out carbon", says another service station manager . . .

In those two significant remarks, from experience-headquarters, you have the answer to the expensive and annoying cost-of-upkeep problem that perpetually perplexes so many car owners. And, in the same breath, you have the reason for the universal satisfaction of Willys-Knight owners, today in their hundreds of thousands! . . .

"An Engine You'll Never Wear Out"

the patented Knight sleeve-valve engine . . . in this lies the secret of Willys-Knight emancipation from engine-repairs, its freedom from the need for constant adjustment. This unique engine-principle means uninterrupted service, year in, year out. It means longer life for your car—immeasurably, infinitely longer. It means a sweeter, quieter, more efficient motor-mechanism up to and beyond 100,000 miles than you enjoyed on the day you bought it! . . .

No Carbon Troubles No Valves to Grind

. . . your Willys-Knight is absolutely immune from engine-complications and engine-disorders caused by carbon accumulation. "It's all the better for a bit of carbon"—any expert mechanic will tell you that. Carbon cannot harm your Willys-Knight, or cause knocks or noise, or put your car out of commission for hours and days. It is an engineering fact that carbon serves actually to facilitate this engine's functioning!

No valves to grind—no tappets, no springs, no rocker arm bushings to get out of order or replace. The Knight sleeve-valve idea gets rid of all of them. No eternal pounding of metal upon metal—all parts of this sleeve-valve engine slide and rotate—hence no chattering of parts, no wear and tear . . .

. . . where all other engines lose in power, lose in endurance, and cost more to run as their mileage grows—the engine of your Willys-Knight actually improves with use. It develops more horsepower, becomes sweeter and quieter, and costs less to run the more mileage you pile up on it!

A Car of Rare Beauty—Rare Distinction

And your Willys-Knight is as beautiful an automobile as you have ever cast your eyes upon. "In line and form the most graceful I have ever seen," a famous artist says. Its appointments as rich, its equipment as complete as you will find in any car, regardless of its price . . . See the smart Coupe-Sedan here shown. A car you will delight to drive. A car in which you will take vast pride in owning. Come, see this superb automobile. Familiarize yourself with the facts about its magnificent performance record. Consider the substantially reduced prices. Deferred payments. A small amount down. Your own convenience—52 weeks or more for balance. Your present car to apply as part payment.

ROAD BUILDING BEING SPEEDED

Work Progressing on Road in Yellow Creek Township.

Less than three-quarters of a mile of concrete remains to be poured on the last section of the Wellsville-Salienville road in Yellow Creek township, it was announced today by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. Pouring at the rate of 396 feet per day, this concrete job should be completed within 10 working days, it has been pointed out.

More or less delay has been encountered on this contract on account of non-delivery of materials at the Salineville railroad yards. If it is possible to pour all of the remaining section of this road by Nov. 7, the last section will have to remain closed for three weeks to allow the concrete to set before the highway will be allowed to be opened for traffic by the State Highway Department. Should this schedule be adhered to, the road may be opened on or about Nov. 28th.

During the week of Nov. 2nd the county commissioners will send trucks to Salineville to ash that section of this road within the corporate limits, and which section is to be surfaced next year. At all events, the road between East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville will be opened to through traffic over the Chattle Lake route before Dec. 1st according to Surveyor Kirk.

Passage of the proposed $950,000 bond issue will insure the construction of the Salineville-Lisbon road through Wayne township within a short time, it was disclosed at the office of the county commissioners Saturday morning. This four-mile strip will give the south-central part of the county a direct road north and south and also opening the Salem territory to Salineville by an improved highway.

This road is improved in Centre township, and south to the Centre-Wayne township line, but in Wayne township there is no improved highway, the township at this time being behind Franklin township in this respect.

During the week the county commissioners have been informed that considerable interest is being shown in the plan to build an improved highway between Homeworth in Knox township northeast through Butler township to Salem. It is known that the commissioners are anxious to build this road, and connect up with an improved link in the North Georgetown territory, so that trade from the western part of the county which now flits into Alliance can be diverted into the Salem district.

This road will also give Salem a new outlet to Valley, and connecting at Valley with an improved road from that place north to Damascus.

A meeting of residents of the Highlandtown section in Washington township will be held there next Monday night at which time the proposed bond issue will be discussed.

Tuesday evening a similar meeting will be held at Salineville, and Thursday night a like gathering will be held at Summitville where Franklin township is anxious to have Salineville hooked up through Summitville with the Lincoln Highway at Kensington.

The last road meeting before election day will be held Friday night of next week at Willow Grove Grange hall.

PREDICT CLOSE ELECTION FIGHT

The election in Franklin township November 3rd gives early indication of being an interesting one. In the field for trustee there are four candidates. F. H. Johnson of the Summitville Brick compan, and J. A. Willard are candidates for re-election, while O. M. Brown and J. S. Thompson are seeking a first term.

In the contest for clerk there will be two candidates. Jackson Peebles and Edwin King. For member of the township board of education the names of three candidates will appear on the ballot, Elvy Thompson, Alansan Finnicum and James Kelley. The petition of Fred Nisson for this office was not properly signed and was rejected by the county board of elections. Mr. Nisson has been an active member of the board of education for the last four years, and although his name will not appear on the ballot, it is said in Franklin township that his name will be written in on the ballot.

HUNTERS SLOW IN SEEKING PERMITS

The demand for hunters licenses this year is declared to be "dull," and the number issued by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to date indicates that not much interest is being shown in the sport. However, all township clerks have been provided with such licenses, and applicants are being supplied from that source as well as at the office of the clerk of courts.

Township clerks look for a rush for these licenses about November 1, which will be in line with the heaviest demand in previous years. There has been no change made by the legislature in the fee charged for these license tags.

Granted Divorce.

In the divorce case of Hazel Patterson against her husband William Patterson, the court has granted the plaintiff a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty, and has also awarded the custody of a minor child to Mrs. Patterson.

DOG LICENSES STILL IN DEMAND

A total of 5,152 dog licenses have been issued so far this year by Deputy Tax Collector Randall Hamilton, there being an increased demand for the license tags noted since so many have had to pay fines and penalties for failure to take out licenses as required by law.

"We're ahead of last year, but a number of dog owners are still delinquent, according to the tax returns the dog owners have filed,' Mr. Hamilton declared. "We're checking up on all of these records, and sooner or later we'll have had all the dog owners of the county in."

The money collected from this source goes to the dog and kennel fund and also to the county board of education.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment for $750 and interest from Nov. 5, 1924, amounting to $39.36 has been rendered in common pleas court by default in the case of Thomas Richardson against J. R. Call, formerly of East Palestine. The action was based upon a note given by the defendant to the plaintiff.

Action Dismissed.

At the costs of the plaintiff and on her own motion, the action filed in common pleas court Dec. 21, 1923, by Elizabeth C. Runyon against Charles Boyd as administrator has been dismissed from the record.

Pastor Returns Home.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry M. Peebles of Millport, have concluded a two weeks' visit vacation spent with relatives in Licking county and at Coshocton. As a result of the return to Millport of the minister, the usual services will be held in Bethesda church Sunday morning.

Woman Given Divorce.

On the grounds of extreme cruelty a decree of divorce has been granted by Judge James G. Moore in common pleas court No. 1 to Dollie Sunderman against her husband, Raymond Sunderman. After the court awarded the custody of a minor child to the plaintiff, the defendant was ordered by the court to pay to Mrs. Sunderman alimony for the support of his child, as agreed upon.

Divorce Action Dismissed.

For failure to prosecute the case, the divorce action filed in common pleas court April 8, last, by Maude Randolph against her husband, Charles Randolph, has been dismissed from the record at the costs of the plaintiff.

Leetonia

Midway grange will hold its annual fair on Saturday evening. From 5 to 8 supper will be served and from 9 to 12 there will be dancing. An apron sale will also be one of the features. A number of cash premiums will be given for farm products, including corn, wheat, oats, potatoes, apples, pears, quinces, canned goods, fancywork, and the juveniles will be awarded prizes for baked articles and fancywork.

Leetonia lodge No. 401, F. & A. M., will hold special communications on Monday evening, October 26, and on Friday evening, October 30. On Friday evening a lunch will be one of the features. The meetings will be held in the lodge rooms, Main street.

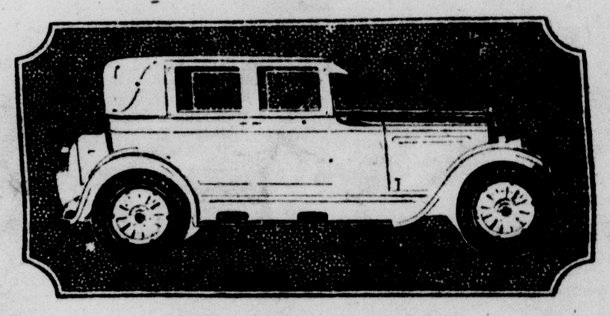
"everlastingly fine performance"!

"If other cars required as little attention, as few adjustments, as the Willys-Knight—the repair shops of this country would have to close their doors tomorrow!" . . .



—direct from the owner of the busiest repair shop in one of our largest cities comes that statement . . .

"Fully 50% of our time is spent in grinding valves and cleaning out carbon", says another service station manager . . .

In those two significant remarks, from experience-headquarters, you have the answer to the expensive and annoying cost-of-upkeep problem that perpetually perplexes so many car owners. And, in the same breath, you have the reason for the universal satisfaction of Willys-Knight owners, today in their hundreds of thousands! . . .

"An Engine You'll Never Wear Out"

the patented Knight sleeve-valve engine . . . in this lies the secret of Willys-Knight emancipation from engine-repairs, its freedom from the need for constant adjustment. This unique engine-principle means uninterrupted service, year in, year out. It means longer life for your car—immeasurably, infinitely longer. It means a sweeter, quieter, more efficient motor-mechanism up to and beyond 100,000 miles than you enjoyed on the day you bought it! . . .

No Carbon Troubles No Valves to Grind

. . . your Willys-Knight is absolutely immune from engine-complications and engine-disorders caused by carbon accumulation. "It's all the better for a bit of carbon"—any expert mechanic will tell you that. Carbon cannot harm your Willys-Knight, or cause knocks or noise, or put your car out of commission for hours and days. It is an engineering fact that carbon serves actually to facilitate this engine's functioning!

No valves to grind—no tappets, no springs, no rocker arm bushings to get out of order or replace. The Knight sleeve-valve idea gets rid of all of them. No eternal pounding of metal upon metal—all parts of this sleeve-valve engine slide and rotate—hence no chattering of parts, no wear and tear . . .

. . . where all other engines lose in power, lose in endurance, and cost more to run as their mileage grows—the engine of your Willys-Knight actually improves with use. It develops more horsepower, becomes sweeter and quieter, and costs less to run the more mileage you pile up on it!

A Car of Rare Beauty—Rare Distinction

And your Willys-Knight is as beautiful an autmobile as you have ever cast your eyes upon. "In line and form the most graceful I have ever seen," a famous artist says. Its appointments as rich, its equipment as complete as you will find in any car, regardless of its price . . . See the smart Coupe-Sedan here shown. A car you will delight to drive. A car in which you will take vast pride in owning. Come, see this superb automobile. Familiarize yourself with the facts about its magnificent performance record. Consider the substantially reduced prices. Deferred payments. A small amount down. Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

It is gratifying to note the splendid use our readers are making of the free Information Bureau conducted by the Review & Tribune from Washington. Individuals, business firms, organizations, teachers, students, are all sending in their queries. Men and women interested in the fine points of history, politics, literature, invention, science, art, and a hundred other subjects are writing to the Bureau. Women are asking for authoritative information from government experts on household problems and the care of children. Ambitious young men are getting the information they need to help them in training themselves and choosing their careers. What problem have you that must be solved or settled? Write Frederic J. Q. How many planets smaller than the eight major planets are there rin the solar system? P. C.

A. There are over 800 small planets or planetoids circulating about the sun.

Q. How much larger than Africa is Asia? F. P. McK.

A. It is almost 50 per cent larger. Africa contains 11,605,000 square miles and Asia 17,652,000 square miles.

Q. Where are the Dalngren Proving Grounds? G. T. C.

A. They are situated just above Colonial Beach, Virginia.

Q. When was admission first charged for a baseball game? H. T. B.

A. The first time admission was ever charged to see a baseball game was on July 20, 1859. The game was played between teams from Brooklyn and New York, taking place on the Fashion Race Course, Long Island. Over 1,500 people paid 50 cents to watch the contest.

Q. How many stalks of corn can be produced from one kernal of corn? T. G. N.

A. The Bureau of Plant Industry says that one single kernal of corn produces as many as four or five stalks. Each stalk is attached to a separate root system.

Q. Who was the first person to be electrocuted instead of hanged in New York? J. H. B.

A. The first man to suffer the death penalty by electrocution in New York was William Kemmler, who was executed in New York on August 6, 1890.

Q. Do scientists attribute the present drought to charges in ocean currents, and may we expect a permanent change in our climate? T. W. B.

A. The Weather Bureau says that they have no proof whatever that the drought to which you refer was caused by changes in ocean currents. Neither have they any reason to believe that a permanent change in our climate has begun.

Q. What is the origin of the word funeral? G. K. N.

A. A funeral is so termed from the fact that in ancient times the Romans were buried by torch light, twisted ropes (funalia) smeared with pitch being carried by the mourners for the purpose.

Q. How old is the obelisk in Central park supposed to be? C. S.

A. The obelisk in Central park, New York, is thirty-five centuries old. As the Standard Guide to New York City remarks: "It was old when Moses read its inscription in honor of the Egyptian and sun god." It stood before the Temple of the Sun at Heliopolis near Cairo where it was erected in the 16th Century B. C., by Thothme III. In 12 B. C. Augustus Caesar carried the obelisk to Alexandria. Here it and two others were erected before the Temple of the Caesars. In 1877 it was presented by the Khedive of Egypt to the United States, and brought to America by Lt. Cmdr. Gorringe, U. S. N. It was erected in Central park in 1881. William H. Vanderbilt bore the expense of removal which was $102,576. The obelisk is a monolith of syenite from the granite quarries of Syene, Egypt. The shaft is 69½ feet high, 7 feet 9 inches by 7 feet 8½ inches at the base and weighs 448,000 pounds.

English Rum Drinking Drops as Export Trade Shows Heavy Increase

LONDON.—England is drinking less whiskey. Statistics show that the consumption of whiskey in the United Kingdom has decreased by one third during the past twenty-one years, and that only eleven million proof gallons are now bei... annually consummed.

It must not be thought that the British whisky distillers are on the way to the poorhouse, however, for American prohibition has resulted in a heavily increased export trade. For instance, the exportation of whisky to Canada, for long known to be the half way liquor house to America, increased by nearly seventy thousand proof gallons during one month. The decrease in the English consumption is said to be due to the inferior whisky which is now being turned out, and the high price that is being demanded for it.

RESULT MAY PAVE WAY TO TITLE FOR VICTOR

State Attack Will be Led by Scintillating Halfback, Elmer Marek, and Fellow Iowan, Nick Kutsch, Will be Big Punch for Invaders; Open Field Playing and Aerial Performances are Expected by Fans.

BY JACK CE JNAR

COLUMBUS, Oct. 24.—Two of the football titans of the big ten conference—Ohio State and Iowa—will collide with the momentum of last week's striking victories behind them, when their 1925 title trails cross at the stadium this afternoon.

The spirit of fight prevaded both camps.

The Buckeyes, conquerors by a 9 to 0 scors of Columbia, were grimly determined to outdo themselves in today's crucial tilt that many fans believe will pave the way to championship honors for the victor.

The Hawkeyes, who triumphed over "Red" Grange and his Illinois team mates, 12 to 10, were resolved to say it with touchdowns.

Rain or shine it will be an epic struggle that will unfold before some 45,000 spectators. Both sides will be led by laurel crowned supermen of the gridiron, who by a strange coincidence both sprang from Iowa soil.

Elmer Marek, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the scintillating Ohio States half back, and incidentally one of the five Cedar Rapids boys who will figure in the contest, and his brilliant running mates Karow, Grim, and Clark and perhaps Boyer, will lead the Buckeye attack. The Hawkeye offense will be headed by Nick Kutsch of Sioux City, Iowa, leading scorer of the conference and his efficient cohorts, Fry, Schirmer and Graham.

With the lines presenting almost equal bulwarks, followers of the pigskin sport expected spectacular open field playing and aerial performances by the fast backfields was dry.

"Can Ohio State stop Kutsch?", "can Marek circle Iowa ends?", "Can he outboot and outpass Kutsch?", "Will Ohio check Kutsch?"

Thousands of football mad rooters asked these questions today.

As is fitting in the best football circles, both coaches were as usual loaded with gloom.

"Look what Iowa did to Illinois" said Dr. John W. Wilce. "The visitors have a powerful team. We are handicapped by injuries to Bill Jenkins, Keith Devoe and Bill Hunt."

"We have a slim chance," quoth Bert Ingwersen. "Didn't Ohio State beat Columbia? Doesn't Ohio State claim to have the best team in years? Don't they outweigh us?"

News of a more pleasing nature drifted in, however, from the final practice yesterday afternoon. It was rumored that Harold Wendler, Fremont, Ohio, star quarterback, out of two games with injuries, might be able also to get into action before the final whistle.

Today was "Dad's Day" in campus and university authorities set aside a bench on the sidelines, right back of the 'Varsity squad, for the fathers of as many Ohio girdders as could attend the game.

The probable lineup this afternoon will be:

Ohio		Iowa
Cunningham (C)	L.E.	Rice
Nichols	L.T.	Hines
Meyers	L.G.	Krasuski
Hess	R.G.	Riodawig
Uridil	R.T.	Nelson
Rowan	R.E.	Romey
Grim	Q.B.	Schirmer
Clark	L.H.	Kutsch
Marek	R.H.	Graham
Karow	F.B.	Fry

Time of quarters—15 minutes.

Starting time—2:30, Eastern Standard time.

Northwestern Loses Its Star

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 24.—The injury to Ralph Baker, "the Red Grange of Northwestern," on the eve of the intersectional game with Tulane, formidable team of the south, was a sad blow to Northwestern football adherents. And the later news that Baker's services might be lost to the team the rest of the season was a sadder blow.

RALPH BAKER

For Northwestern, up to now, has held high hopes for the 1925 campaign. Didn't the Purple team give the great Notre Dame team of 1924 one of its hard battles? Any team that held the Four Horsemen to two touchdowns might well crow. Rockne's men emerged victors in the 1924 contest by the close score of 13 to 6.

And when the early results of this season indicated that the South Bend team was sadly lacking in material of the kind that wore its uniforms last year Northwestern's hopes rose high.

Led by Baker, Northwestern licked South Dakota, always a formidable foe, 14 to 7.

They battled the Big Ten championship team from Chicago U. every inch of the field and held that team to a 6 to 0 score.

The Tulane game then loomed—as the word that Baker was injured, spread about.

The game with Notre Dame is to be staged at South Bend Nov. 21. There is a chance, of course, that Baker will be back in the game by that time, unless he goes in before, only to fall a victim again of the fate that seems to pursue outstanding stars.

In the meantime Northwestern is praying, and depending on Tim Lowery and its other stars to carry the burden.

Wooster Will Oppose Mount's Title March

WOOSTER, Oct. 24.—Wooster college football squad faces a hard task today, that of stopping Mount Union's march to football championship. Mount has not lost a battle this year, and is coming to Wooster with a team determined to even up past defeats.

Wooster came through the 7 to 6 victory over Reserve with few injuries. Bluogh, drop kicker and flashy halfback, injured his knee again and may not be able to play this week.

Wooster's line showed improvement Saturday, but is still far from being in the form it should.

Sangor-Stoy Battle In Youngstown Ring

Local fight fans who expect to take in the Rosey Stoy-Joey Sangor battle at Rayen Wood auditorium, Youngstown, next Wednesday night, are anticipating something of a scrap.

This pair met at Idora park this summer. The bout ended in the ninth round when Sangor hurt his leg when he stepped on a bad board in the ring. Up until then it was a slam bang affair.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 24.—Athletic Director C. V. Elder of Bethany college, has arranged to have all of the bleachers on the Wellsburg high school field tested today by the building inspector of Wellsburg in order to guard against any accident during the Bethany-Geneva game such as occurred at the W. & J. field last Saturday.

MICHIGAN SET FOR "ICE MAN"

Face Grange in Tilt With Illini at Urbana.

BY GEORGE A. STRICKLER

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 24.—Flushed with victories over two conference contenders and confident in the pdowess of Friedman, fleet Wolverine pilot, Michigan faces Illinois in the memorial stadium here today in what pretends to be the headline entry on the west's grid program.

Illinois looks to Grange, the fiery topped ice-man from Wheaton for anteams are in perfect playing health, other victory over Michigan. Both barring the inability of Daugherty of Illinois, and Edwards, giant Wolverine tackle, who carried much of the maize hopes of stopping Grange.

While Illinois and Michigan tre debating before some 75,000 cash customers, Iowa and Ohio State will be entertaining almost as many fans at Columbus. This game also attracts interest from the individual standpoint, it being first of all a meeting between Kutsch, the Iowa Cowboy, and Marek, Ohio ace, two boys who Summer in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Kutsch has already hammered his way into the hall of fame with his single handed victory over Illinois last week, and Marek is an athlete of much ability, who carried a leading role in Ohio's three point deadlock with Chicago.

Chicago, another conference pace setter, gathers its following for the afternoon jointly with Pennsylvania at Philadelphia in the first game the two teams in a quarter of a century.

Wisconsin meets Purdue in a conference game at Madison, but the other members of the Western circuit will be hosts to outsiders, at Minneapolis, Minnesota tackles Notre Dame.

Canton Bulldogs to Play in Cleveland

CANTON, Oct. 24.—The Canton Bulldogs take on a hated rival Sunday when they meet the Cleveland Collegians, at Cleveland. Ever since pro football was organized in Cleveland, the clubs from Canton and the Fifth City have met annually on the gridiron, and Sunday's game is the first of a home and home series.

Adding to the feeling of rivalry is the fact that Cleveland held the franchise of the Bulldogs last season and won the national title with a number of the local players.

On comparative scores, the Clevelanders appear to have the advantage. Akron beat the Collegians, 7-0, and registered a 20 to 3 victory over the Cantonians.

Beichley Returns to Wittenberg Lineup

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 24.—Wittenberg will clash with Heidelberg this afternoon in the Lutherans' third home game of the season. The Wittenbergers emerged from the St. Xavier contest last week in good shape. Captain Beichley returned to his post at quarter following a week's rest with an injured ankle.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Oct. 24. — Anthony "Shorty" Kostos, brilliant tackle and captain of the Bucknell team, is the second of the Kostos clan to captain an Orange and Blue eleven. His brother, Joe Kostos, was one of the nightiest backfield men ever turned out by the Lewisburg, Pa., institution of learning.

CAPT. KOSTOS—BUCKNELL

It is the only time in the history of football at Bucknell University that two brothers have had the proud distinction of captaining the college eleven.

Anthony, like his brother Joe, was graduated by Mount Carmel high school, where he gained undying fame as a grid performer.

When "Shorty" went to Bucknell he was a backfield man, but the Bison coaching staff converted him into the great lineman that he is today.

As a leader, his sterling generalship was uncovered in the Rutgers-Bucknell game of 1924, when the Bisons upset the football world by licking Rutgers, 10 to 0.

Anthony is also a star on the baseball field, on the track and on the basketball floor.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 24. — Smack Thompson, captain and end of the football eleven of the University of Georgia, is all smiles over prospects for a successful Dixie gridiron conference season this fall.

SMACK THOMPSON

Georgia proved a real surprise in defeating Mercer University 33-0 in the opening game of the season at Macon, Ga., after Mercer had been doped to win. The team's failure to halt Yale has not checked Georgia's hopes in the southern games. Thompson is one of the gamest gridiron warriors in southern football. He is a sure tackler.

TRYON-SLAGLE POINT BATTLE

"Triple Threaters" Feature Tiger-Colgate Game.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24.—It will be Jakie Slagle, the Prince of Orange, against Eddie Tryon, Marquis of the Maroon, in the final analysis of the Princeton-Colgate game in Palmer stadium this afternoon. Both are tripple threat men. Both can step. The field is dry. The footing fast. It should be quite a battle.

Slagle is the tow-headed speedster that the Canny Mr. Roper uncorked against Harvard last fall. He does everything there is to do with a football.

Tryon, the Colgate Cannon-ball, makes it a point to be the leading scorer in the East each fall, and is well on the way to that distinction again this year.

60,000 WILL SEE PENN BATTLE STAGG'S ELEVEN

By Davis J. Walsh.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Geographic rivals were to meet this afternoon for the fifth time in gridiron history and the football fans of two sections sat palpitant. Twenty-five years ago almost to the day, Alonzo Stagg, then a man in the full flush of youth, sent Chicago against Pennsylvania for the last time and the result was a 5 to 5 tie.

Since then, amicable but not literal relations prevails and though the teams have stood as the football leaders of two great sections they never again met. As the issue stood before the game, Pennsylvania had the impressive record of never finishing second to Chicago, the series showing three local victories and the lone tie game.

Of all the games played between the pair, this one carried the biggest edge in national interest and a goodly crowd of not much less than 60,000 was to be there. Pennsylvania was fresh from a great victory over Yale last Saturday. Chicago came on as the co-leader with Michigan of the Western conference field. If the two teams were hand picked for the game, a greater natural rivalry could not have prevailed.

"We have a fighting chance,' said Stagg this morning and if he sat up all night to think that one over, he couldn't have expressed the situation more aptly. The Chicago team never existed that didn't have a fighting chance.

That's the kind of teams they turn out at Chicago. As a rule, they are fighting teams with a fool proof defense and a running attack that grinds rivals into the dust. Stagg never had a team that wasn't defensively perfect and this year's outfit is no exception. The team has a line averaging nearly 200 pounds to the individual hoof, a great plunger in McCarty and a certain scorer from the field in Bob Curley, light in weight but very heavy in ability.

Once inside in the 50-yard line, Curley misses about as often as the sun rises in the West.

The betting, if any, slightly favored Pennsylvania because if its reputed ability to step out with a lot of early speed. It was expected to get the jump on Chicago and then dire home on its defense, which was supposed to be a thing of beauty and joy forever. At that, Yale scored 13 points in the final half last Saturday but today's game was supposed to uncover sounder and more orthodox football.

The probable line-up:

Chicago—		—Penna
Lampe	L E	Singer
Henderson	L T	Wilson
Hibben	L G	Pike
Baker	C	Robinson
Pokrass	R G	Snyder
Hobscheid	R T	Sieracki
Yersley	R E	Thayer
Curley	Q B	Leith
Kerwein	L H B	Rogers
Marks	R H B	Fields
McCarty	F B	Kreuz

Beaver Falls Outfit Holds Edge on Bethany Rivals.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 24.—This afternoon the Bethany college football team wil stage the tenth gridiron battle of their athletic history with Geneva college. The record of the contests during the past 16 years of athletic relations gives the Beaver Falls college somewhat of an edge on the Bisons. The Geneva college eleven will meet an entirely different team this year than the one they battled last year and they will find that Coach Nuss turns out fighting teams, for such is the Bison eleven this year.

In 1923 the Bisons handed out their last defeat to the Covenanters. Carl Hamill, who was playing his first season of football for Bethany that year, was instrumental in scoring the lone touchdown of that game and it is this one man that will cause the Geneva gridders no little worry in their contest tomorrow. He has thrice crossed the goal line for the Green and White this season.

Dale Fiers, the husky Bison end who hails from West Palm Beach, Florida, will be at his regular position on the left end. Fiers has emerged from every game without a scratch. Just who will be at the other terminal is a question as Rhine, who has been at that position for the last three games, has been bothered for some time with a "charleyhorse" It may be that either Kuhn or Hamilton will repace Rhine.

Rice, however, has a very bad wrist, but in case he is not able to play, Brandon, a good sized New Cumberland, W. Va., lad, will take his place at the right position. Griffith and Serafini will probably be at the guard positions with either Scott or Price at center.

The fullback position will be filled by either Hamill or Dimick with Carey at quarter and Stobbs and Captain Loppacker at the halves.

Goose Goslin Has Better Luck With Auto Than With His Goat

"Goose" Goslin, heavy slugger of the Washington ball club, apparently had better luck with his automobile than his goat. When his car was stolen from in front of his fair one's home he recovered it in three or four hours.

In the late lamented (for Washington) world's series, Earl Smith, Pirate catcher, stole Goslin's nanny and the Washington slugger never has recovered it.

Which may be either a sad commentary on the ability of ball park police or a tribute to Smith's genius in devising and carrying out a "perfect crime."

One feature of play of Chicago's football teams has come to be an integral part of Coach Stagg's system—a sort of traditional form.

This is the "Chicago" shift. In this shift the tackles are drawn back and there are three possible shifts by the backfield men, ranging from a one-step to a three-step shift. The varied number of plays which are started from this shift formation makes it a confusing one for the opposition. The defensive team cannot foretell whether the play is to be a kicking, passing or running one.

Navy football officials would feel much easier about the annual game with Princeton were the rules changed so that substitutes were eliminated.

For the last two years now a Princeton substitute has spilled tomato soup all over the bright colored vests of the Navy football diners. Last year one, Sam Ewing, sitting idly by during most of the game, stepped in at the psychological moment and kicked a field goal that placed the Annapolis team on the little end of the horn.

This year one, Dan Caulkins, sat unobtrusively on the second string bench until called upon to do his stuff. When called upon to do it he bidded his chance until he found a forward pass rolling loose about the gridiron. Recalling instructions of various coaches regarding just such an emergency he picked it up and lit out for home. Somebody tripped him as he neared the goal line, but he had lugged the ball from the shadow of the Princeton posts to within a few yards of the Navy line. Bridges carried the ball over for a touchdown a few moments later.

Years ago the early defeats sustained by the Harvard elevens meant little in the year's run. They were but practice events anyhow, leading up to the games with Yale and Princeton. Then came gloomy days when the season ended in a licking at the hands of one or both of the brother members of the Big Three. Got so, too, that earnest efforts to prevent the early season defeats met with little success.

Consequently, the recent beating handed Harvard by Holy Cross leaves a long face on John Harvard. Victories are needed to give Harvard confidence in its big games. Defeats are the galling habit now, not the fruit cocktail.

BOWLERS OPEN CARD MONDAY

Forbes "Scotty" Alcock's City Industrial bowlers will untangle the mashes Monday night at the Liberty alleys in the first series of games of the 1925 26 season.

The circuit takes in eight teams from district manufacturing plants. They are: Laughlin 1, 4, 5 and 6, Taylor, Smith & Taylor, Trotters, Edwin M. Knowles and Hall China, the rosters including city, East End, Newell and Chester performers.

The league will bowl four nights a week—Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The schedule calls for two split seasons, of 14 weeks each, with a final series for the championship between the first and the second half winners.

Here's next week's schedule:

Tuesday—T. S. T. vs. Laughlin 1.

Wednesday—Trotters vs. E. M. Knowles.

Friday—Hall China vs. Laughlin 4.

Ohio U. Sics Jinx On Wesleyan Outfit

ATHENS, Oct. 24.—The Ohio University jinx, which has trailed Ohio Wesleyan like a shadow for the last two years, was trimmed, combed and generally sleeked up today in preparation for its formal presentation to the Methodists here on Saturday. Settlement of the Ohio Conference championship appears to rest with the performance of the jinx when let loose for the first time this year against a team from the Delaware school.

The jinx, in the form of a squad of eager football men, was put through light practice this afternoon. The period was chiefly a warming up affair, with some attention being given to minute points in the execution of certain plays. The squad is living as one large family at a fraternity house, and no player will have any free moments until game time.

Bike Champion Races In Chicago Tonight

CHICAGO, Oct. 24—Freddie Spencer, Plainfield, N. J., bicycle champion of America, will make his initial debue before Chicago bike fans tonight, when he races Willie Spencer of Newark, N. The Life Blood of Your Motor

Your motor has "veins". They are the channels through which your oil flows.

Upon this oil depends the life of your motor. If rich in certain properties, the oil you use keeps your motor young and full of vitality. If weak and lacking in these properties, your motor shows it.

That is why motors lubricated with FREEDOM Perfect show little change with the passing of thousands of miles. Made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude, FREEDOM Perfect comes from the finest of raw material. Refined by specialists with 46 years experience, it reaches you full of live lubricating properties.

On page 5 of OIL FACTS, begins an interesting discussion of where oil circulates. Ask your dealer or write Freedom.

ROAD BUILDING BEING SPEEDED

Work Progressing on Road in Yellow Creek Township.

Less than three-quarters of a mile of concrete remains to be poured on the last section of the Wellsville-Salineville road in Yellow Creek township, it was announced today by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. Pouring at the rate of 396 feet per day, this concrete job should be completed within 10 working days, it has been pointed out.

More or less delay has been encountered on this contract on account of non-delivery of materials at the Salineville railroad yards. If it is possible to pour all of the remaining section of this road by Nov. 7, the last section will have to remain closed for three weeks to allow the concrete to set before the highway will be allowed to be opened for traffic by the State Highway Department. Should this schedule be adhered to, the road may be opened on or about Nov. 28th.

During the week of Nov. 2nd the county commissioners will send trucks to Salineville to ash that section of this road within the corporate limits, and which section is to be surfaced next year. At all events, the road between East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville will be opened to through traffic over the Chattle Lake route before Dec. 1st according to Surveyor Kirk.

Passage of the proposed $950,000 bond issue will insure the construction of the Salineville-Lisbon road through Wayne township within a short time, it was disclosed at the office of the county commissioners Saturday morning. This four-mile strip will give the south-central part of the county a direct road north and south and also openinfg the Salem territory to Salineville by an improved highway.

This road is improved in Centre township, and south to the Centre-Wayne township line, but in Wayne township there is no improved highway, the township at this time being behind Franklin township in this respect.

During the week the county commissioners have been informed that considerable interest is being shown in the plan to build an improved highway between Homeworth in Knox township northeast through Butler township to Salem. It is known that the commissioners are anxious to build this road, and connect up with an improved link in the North Georgetown territory, so that trade from the western part of the county which now flits into Alliance can be diverted into the Salem district.

This road will also give Salem a new outlet to Valley, and connecting at Valley with an improved road from that place north to Damascus.

A meeting of residents of the Highlandtown section in Washington township will be held there next Monday night at which time the proposed bond issue will be discussed.

Tuesday evening a similar meeting will be held at Salineville, and Thursday night a like gathering will be held at Summitville where Franklin township is anxious to have Salineville hooked up through Summitville with the Lincoln Highway at Kensington.

The last road meeting before election day will be held Friday night of next week at Willow Grove Grange hall.

PREDICT CLOSE ELECTION FIGHT

The election in Franklin township November 3rd gives early indication of being an interesting one. In the field for trustee there are four candidates. F. H. Johnson of the Summitville Brick compan, and J. A. Williard are candidates for re-election, while S. M. Brown and J. S. Thompson are seeking a first term.

In the contest for clerk there will be two candidates. Jackson Peebles and Edwin King. For member of the township board of education the names of three candidates will appear on the ballot, Elvy Thompson, Alansan Finnicum and James Kelley. The petition of Fred Nisson for this office was not properly signed and was rejected by the county board of elections. Mr. Nisson has been an active member of the board of education for the last four years, and although his name will not appear on the ballot, it is said in Franklin township that his name will be written in on the ballot.

HUNTERS SLOW IN SEEKING PERMITS

The demand for hunters licenses this year is declared to be "dull," and the number issued by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to date indicates that not much interest is being shown in the sport. However, all township clerks have been provided with such licenses, and applicants are being supplied from that source as well as at the office of the clerk of courts.

Township clerks look for a rush for these licenses about November 1, which will be in line with the heaviest demand in previous years. There has been no change made by the legislature in the fee charged for these license tags.

Granted Divorce.

In the divorce case of Hazel Patterson against her husband William Patterson, the court has granted the plaintiff a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty, and has also awarded the custody of a minor child to Mrs. Patterson.

DOG LICENSES STILL IN DEMAND

A total of 5,152 dog licenses have been issued so far this year by Deputy Tax Collector Randall Hamilton, there being an increased demand for the license tags noted since so many have had to pay fines and penalties for failure to take out licenses as required by law.

"We're ahead of last year, but a number of dog owners are still delinquent, according to the tax returns the dog owners have filed,' Mr. Hamilton declared. "We're checking up on all of these records, and sooner or later we'll have had all the dog owners of the county in."

The money collected from this source goes to the dog and kennel fund and also to the county board of education.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment for $750 and interest from Nov. 5, 1924, amounting to $39.36 has been rendered in common pleas court by default in the case of Thomas Richardson against J. R. Call, formerly of East Palestine. The action was based upon a note given by the defendant to the plaintiff.

Action Dismissed.

At the costs of the plaintiff and on her own motion, the action filed in common pleas court Dec. 21, 1923, by Elizabeth C. Runyon against Charles Boyd as administrator has been dismissed from the record.

Pastor Returns Home.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry M. Peebles of Millport, have concluded a two weeks' visit vacation spent with relatives in Licking county and at Coshocton. As a result of the return to Millport of the minister, the usual services will be held in Bethesda church Sunday morning.

Woman Given Divorce.

On the grounds of extreme cruelty a decree of divorce has been granted by Judge James G. Moore in common pleas court No. 1 to Dollie Sunderman against her husband, Raymond Sunderman. After the court awarded the custody of a minor child to the plaintiff, the defendant was ordered by the court to pay to Mrs. Sunderman alimony for the support of his child, as agreed upon.

Divorce Action Dismissed.

For failure to prosecute the case, the divorce action filed in common pleas court April 8, last, by Maude Randolph against her husband, Charles Randolph, has been dismissed from the record at the costs of the plaintiff.

Leetonia

Midway grange will hold its annual fair on Saturday evening. From 5 to 8 supper will be served and from 9 to 12 there will be dancing. An apron sale will also be one of the features. A number of cash premiums will be given for farm products, including corn, wheat, oats, potatoes, apples, pears, quinces, canned goods, fancywork, and the juveniles will be awarded prizes for baked articles and fancywork.

Leetonia lodge No. 401, F. & A. M., will hold special communications on Monday evening, October 26, and on Friday evening, October 30. On Friday evening a lunch will be one of the features. The meetings will be held in the lodge rooms, Main street.

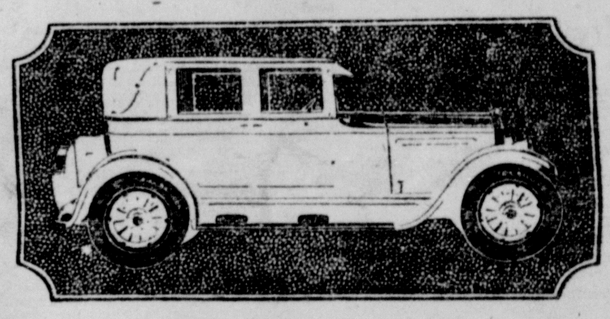
"everlastingly fine performance"!

"If other cars required as little attention, as few adjustments, as the Willys-Knight—the repair shops of this country would have to close their doors tomorrow!" . . .



—direct from the owner of the busiest repair shop in one of our largest cities comes that statement . . .

"Fully 50% of our time is spent in grinding valves and cleaning out carbon", says another service station manager . . .

In those two significant remarks, from experience-headquarters, you have the answer to the expensive and annoying cost-of-upkeep problem that perpetually perplexes so many car owners. And, in the same breath, you have the reason for the universal satisfaction of Willys-Knight owners, today in their hundreds of thousands! . . .

"An Engine You'll Never Wear Out"

the patented Knight sleeve-valve engine . . . in this lies the secret of Willys-Knight emancipation from engine-repairs, its freedom from the need for constant adjustment. This unique engine-principle means uninterrupted service, year in, year out. It means longer life for your car—immeasurably, infinitely longer. It means a sweeter, quieter, more efficient motor-mechanism up to and beyond 100,000 miles than you enjoyed on the day you bought it! . . .

No Carbon Troubles No Valves to Grind

. . . your Willys-Knight is absolutely immune from engine-complications and engine-disorders caused by carbon accumulation. "It's all the better for a bit of carbon"—any expert mechanic will tell you that. Carbon cannot harm your Willys-Knight, or cause knocks or noise, or put your car out of commission for hours and days. It is an engineering fact that carbon serves actually to facilitate this engine's functioning!

No valves to grind—no tappets, no springs, no rocker arm bushings to get out of order or replace. The Knight sleeve-valve idea gets rid of all of them. No eternal pounding of metal upon metal—all parts of this sleeve-valve engine slide and rotate—hence no chattering of parts, no wear and tear . . .

. . . where all other engines lose in power, lose in endurance, and cost more to run as their mileage grows—the engine of your Willys-Knight actually improves with use. It develops more horsepower, becomes sweeter and quieter, and costs less to run the more mileage you pile up on it!

A Car of Rare Beauty—Rare Distinction

And your Willys-Knight is as beautiful an autmobile as you have ever cast your eyes upon. "In line and form the most graceful I have ever seen," a famous artist says. Its appointments as rich, its equipment as complete as you will find in any car, regardless of its price . . . See the smart Coupe-Sedan here shown. A car you will delight to drive. A car in which you will take vast pride in owning. Come, see this superb automobile. Familiarize yourself with the facts about its magnificent performance record. Consider the substantially reduced prices. Deferred payments. A small amount down. Your own convenience—52 weeks or more for balance. Your present car to apply as part payment.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO

ARTICLE VIII, SECTION 13

PROPOSING TO AMEND ARTICLE VIII OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO BY THE ADDITION OF A NEW SECTION, TO BE DESIGNATED AS ARTICLE VIII, SECTION 13, RELATIVE TO THE INCURRING OF INDEBTEDNESS BY POLITICAL SUBDIVISIONS.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, in the manner provided by law on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to add a new section to the constitution to be known as article VIII, section 13, to read as follows:

ARTICLE VIII.

Sec. 13. No bonds, notes, certificates of indebtedness or other evidence of indebtedness shall be issued by any county, school district, township, municipal corporation or other political subdivision or taxing district for current operating expense, or for the acquisition or construction of any property or improvement having an estimated usefulness of less than five years; but laws may be passed authorizing borrowing for a period not exceeding six months in anticipation of the collection of revenue in and for the current fiscal year in which such indebtedness is incurred, or authorizing indebtedness in anticipation of the levy or collection of special assessments or for defraying the expenses of an extraordinary epidemic of disease or emergency expenses made necessary by sudden casualty which could not reasonably have been foreseen, or to provide for the payment of final judgments for personal injuries or other non-contractual obligations. No bonds or notes issued for the acquisition or construction of property or improvements shall run for longer than the probable period of usefulness of such property or improvements, to be estimated as determined as provided by laws fixing maximum maturities hereto authorized. Laws shall be passed to fix the fiscal years of political subdivisions and taxing districts and to designate the boards or officers by whom and the manner in which the estimates as to the period of usefulness of property or improvements shall be made and certified. Within the limitations of this section laws may be passed fixing the maximum maturity of bonds or notes issued for any purpose or class of purposes.

Be it further resolved That at such election, above referred to, this proposal shall be placed on the official ballot, in the manner provided by law in such form as the secretary of state may designate. If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, this amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1926.

Adopted March 27, 1925.

PROPOSING TO AMEND ARTICLE XII, SECTION 2 OF THE CONSTITUTION SO AS TO PROVIDE FOR TAXATION BY UNIFORM RULE OF ALL REAL ESTATE AND TANGIBLE PROPERTY EXCEPT MOTOR VEHICLES, AND TO PROVIDE FOR THE TAXATION OF INTANGIBLE PROPERTY.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to amend article XII, section 2 of the constitution of the state of Ohio, to read as follows:

ARTICLE XII.

Sec. 2. Laws shall be passed, taxing by a uniform rule all real estate and improvements thereon and all tangible personal property, according to their true value in money excepting motor vehicles which shall be taxed as may be provided by law. All moneys, credits, bonds, stocks and all other intangible property shall be taxed as may be provided by law.

But all bonds outstanding on the first day of January 1915 of the state of Ohio or of any city, village, hamlet, county or township in this state or which have been issued in behalf of the public schools in Ohio and the means of instruction in connection there with, and all bonds issued under article VIII section 2a of this constitution for the world war compensation fund, shall be exempt from taxation, and burying grounds public school houses, houses used exclusively for public worship, institutions used exclusively for charitable purposes public property used exclusively for any public purpose, and tangible personal property to an amount not exceeding in value five hundred dollars for any individual, may by general laws, be exempted from taxation; and laws may be passed to provide against the double taxation that results from the taxation of both the real estate and the mortgage or the debt secured thereby, or other lien upon it, but all such laws shall be subject to alteration or repeal; and the value of all property, so exempted, shall, from time to time, be ascertained and published as may be directed by law.

Be it further resolved, That at such election, above referred to, this amendment shall be placed on the official ballot, in the manner provided by law, in such form as the secretary of state may designate.

If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, this amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1926, and original section 2 of article XII of the constitution shall be repealed and annulled.

Adopted March 26, 1925.

ARTICLE III, SECTION 2; ARTICLE X, SECTION 2

PROPOSING TO AMEND SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE III, SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE X AND TO REPEAL SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE XVII AND SECTION 3 OF ARTICLE X OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, TO PROVIDE FOR TERMS OF OFFICE OF NOT LESS THAN FOUR YEARS.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to amend section 2 of article III and section 2 of article X, and to repeal section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio to read as follows:

ARTICLE III.

Sec. 2. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor and attorney general shall hold their offices for four years. Their terms of office shall commence on the first Monday of January next after their election, and continue until their successors are elected and qualified.

ARTICLE X

Sec. 2. All elective county officers shall be elected on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, by the electors of each county for a period of four years.

Be it further resolved, That at the election, above referred to, such proposal shall be placed on the official ballot, in such manner as the secretary of state may designate.

If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, the amendment shall go into effect January 1, 1926, and original section 2 of article III, and section 2 of article X, and section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio, to provide for terms of office of not less than four years.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 1st day of September, A. D. 1925.

RESULT MAY PAVE WAY TO TITLE FOR VICTOR

State Attack Will be Led by Scintillating Halfback, Elmer Marek, and Fellow Iowan, Nick Kutsch, Will be Big Punch for Invaders; Open Field Playing and Aerial Performances are Expected by Fans.

BY JACK CE JNAR

COLUMBUS, Oct. 24.—Two of the football titans of the big ten conference—Ohio State and Iowa—will collide with the momentum of last week's striking victories behind them, when their 1925 title trails cross at the stadium this afternoon.

The spirit of fight prevaded both camps.

The Buckeyes, conquerors by a 9 to 0 scors of Columbia, were grimly determined to outdo themselves in today's crucial tilt that many fans believe will pave the way to championship honors for the victor.

The Hawkeyes, who triumphed over "Red" Grange and his Illinois team mates, 12 to 10, were resolved to say it with touchdowns.

Rain or shine it will be an epic struggle that will unfold before some 45,000 spectators. Both sides will be led by laurel crowned supermen of the gridiron, who by a strange coincidence both sprang from Iowa soil.

Elmer Marek, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the scintillating Ohio States half back, and incidentally one of the five Cedar Rapids boys who will figure in the contest, and his brilliant running mates, Karow, Grim, and Clark and perhaps Boyer, will lead the Buckeye attack. The Hawkeye offense will be headed by Nick Kutsch of Sioux City, Iowa, leading scorer of the conference and his efficient cohorts, Fry, Schirmer and Graham.

With the lines presenting almost equal bulwarks, followers of the pigskin sport expected spectacular open field playing and aerial performances by the fast backfields was dry.

"Can Ohio State stop Kutsch?", "can Marek circle Iowa ends?", "Can he outboot and outpass Kutsch?", "Will Ohio check Kutsch?"

Thousands of football mad rooters asked these questions today.

As is fitting in the best football circles, both coaches were as usual loaded with gloom.

"Look what Iowa did to Illinois" said Dr. John W. Wilce. "The visitors have a powerful team. We are handicapped by injuries to Bill Jenkins, Keith Devoe and Bill Hunt."

"We have a slim chance," quoth Bert Ingwersen. "Didn't Ohio State beat Columbia? Doesn't Ohio State claim to have the best team in years? Don't they outweigh us?"

News of a more pleasing nature drifted in, however, from the final practice yesterday afternoon. It was rumored that Harold Wendler, Fremont, Ohio, star quarterback, out of two games with injuries, might be able also to get into action before the final whistle.

Today was "Dad's Day" in campus and university authorities set aside a bench on the sidelines, right back of the 'Varsity squad, for the fathers of as many Ohio girdders as could attend the game.

The probable lineup this afternoon will be:

Probable lineup:

Ohio		Iowa
Cunningham (C)	L.E.	Rice
Nichols	L.T.	Hines
Meyers	L.G.	Krasuski
Hess	R.G.	Riodawig
Uridil	R.T.	Nelson
Rowan	R.E.	Romey
Grim	Q.B.	Schirmer
Clark	L.H.	Kutsch
Marek	R.H.	Graham
Karow	F.B.	Fry

Time of quarters—15 minutes.

Starting time—1:30, Eastern Standard time.

Officials—Maskey, referee, Northwestern; Young, umpire, Illinois; Knight, headlinesman, Michigan; Morton, field judge, Michigan.

Northwestern Loses Its Star

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 24.—The injury to Ralph Baker, "the Red Grange of Northwestern," on the eve of the intersectional game with Tulane, formidable team of the south, was a sad blow to Northwestern football adherents. And the later news that Baker's services might be lost to the team the rest of the season was a sadder blow.

RALPH BAKER

For Northwestern, up to now, has held high hopes for the 1925 campaign. Didn't the Purple team give the great Notre Dame team of 1924 one of its hard battles? Any team that held the Four Horsemen to two touchdowns might well crow. Rockne's men emerged victors in the 1924 contest by the close score of 13 to 6.

And when the early results of this season indicated that the South Bend team was sadly lacking in material of the kind that wore its uniforms last year Northwestern's hopes rose high.

Led by Baker, Northwestern licked South Dakota, always a formidable foe, 14 to 7.

They battled the Big Ten championship team from Chicago U. every inch of the field and held that team to a 6 to 0 score.

The Tulane game then loomed—as the word that Baker was injured, spread about.

The game with Notre Dame is to be staged at South Bend Nov. 21. There is a chance, of course, that Baker will be back in the game by that time, unless he goes in before, only to fall a victim again of the fate that seems to pursue outstanding stars.

In the meantime Northwestern is praying, and depending on Tim Lowery and its other stars to carry the burden.

Wooster Will Oppose Mount's Title March

WOOSTER, Oct. 24.—Wooster college football squad faces a hard task today, that of stopping Mount Union's march to football championship. Mount has not lost a battle this year, and is coming to Wooster with a team determined to even up past defeats.

Wooster came through the 7 to 6 victory over Reserve with few injuries. Bluogh, drop kicker and flashy halfback, injured his knee again and may not be able to play this week.

Wooster's line showed improvement Saturday, but is still far from being in the form it should.

Sangor-Stoy Battle In Youngstown Ring

Local fight fans who expect to take in the Rosey Stoy-Joey Sangor battle at Rayen Wood auditorium, Youngstown, next Wednesday night, are anticipating something of a scrap.

This pair met at Idora park this summer. The bout ended in the ninth round when Sangor hurt his leg when he stepped on a bad board in the ring. Up until then it was a slam bang affair.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 24.—Athletic Director C. V. Elder of Bethany college, has arranged to have all of the bleachers on the Wellsburg high school field tested today by the building inspector of Wellsburg in order to guard against any accident during the Bethany-Geneva game such as occurred at the W. & J. field last Saturday.

MICHIGAN SET FOR "ICE MAN"

Face Grange in Tilt With Illini at Urbana.

BY GEORGE A. STRICKLER

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 24.—Flushed with victories over two conference contenders and confident in the pdowess of Friedman, fleet Wolverine pilot, Michigan faces Illinois in the memorial stadium here today in what pretends to be the headline entry on the west's grid program.

Illinois looks to Grange, the fiery topped ice-man from Wheaton for anteams are in perfect playing health, other victory over Michigan. Both barring the inability of Daugherty of Illinois, and Edwards, giant Wolverine tackle, who carried much of the maize hopes of stopping Grange.

While Illinois and Michigan tre debating before some 75,000 cash customers, Iowa and Ohio State will be entertaining almost as many fans at Columbus. This game also attracts interest from the individual standpoint, it being first of all a meeting between Kutsch, the Iowa Cowboy, and Marek, Ohio ace, two boys who Summer in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Kutsch has already hammered his way into the hall of fame with his single handed victory over Illinois last week, and Marek is an athlete of much ability, who carried a leading role in Ohio's three point deadlock with Chicago.

Chicago, another conference pace setter, gathers its following for the afternoon jointly with Pennsylvania at Philadelphia in the first game the two teams in a quarter of a century.

Wisconsin meets Purdue in a conference game at Madison, but the other members of the Western circuit will be hosts to outsiders, at Minneapolis, Minnesota tackles Notre Dame.

Canton Bulldogs to Play in Cleveland

CANTON, Oct. 24.—The Canton Bulldogs take on a hated rival Sunday when they meet the Cleveland Collegians, at Cleveland. Ever since pro football was organized in Cleveland, the clubs from Canton and the Fifth City have met annually on the gridiron, and Sunday's game is the first of a home and home series.

Adding to the feeling of rivalry is the fact that Cleveland held the franchise of the Bulldogs last season and won the national title with a number of the local players.

On comparative scores, the Clevelanders appear to have the advantage. Akron beat the Collegians, 7-0, and registered a 20 to 3 victory over the Cantonians.

Beichley Returns to Wittenberg Lineup

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 24.—Wittenberg will clash with Heidelberg this afternoon in the Lutherans' third home game of the season. The Wittenbergers emerged from the St. Xavier contest last week in good shape. Captain Beichley returned to his post at quarter following a week's rest with an injured ankle.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Oct. 24. — Anthony "Shorty" Kostos, brilliant tackle and captain of the Bucknell team, is the second of the Kostos clan to captain an Orange and Blue eleven. His brother, Joe Kostos, was one of the nightiest backfield men ever turned out by the Lewisburg, Pa., institution of learning.

CAPT. KOSTOS-BUCKNELL

It is the only time in the history of football at Bucknell University that two brothers have had the proud distinction of captaining the college eleven.

Anthony, like his brother Joe, was graduated by Mount Carmel high school, where he gained undying fame as a grid performer.

When "Shorty" went to Bucknell he was a backfield man, but the Bison coaching staff converted him into the great lineman that he is today.

As a leader, his sterling generalship was uncovered in the Rutgers-Bucknell game of 1924, when the Bisons upset the football world by licking Rutgers, 10 to 0.

Anthony is also a star on the baseball field, on the track and on the basketball floor.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 24. — Smack Thompson, captain and end of the football eleven of the University of Georgia, is all smiles over prospects for a successful Dixie gridiron conference season this fall.

SMACK THOMPSON

Georgia proved a real surprise in defeating Mercer University 33-0 in the opening game of the season at Macon, Ga., after Mercer had been doped to win. The team's failure to halt Yale has not checked Georgia's hopes in the southern games. Thompson is one of the gamest gridiron warriors in southern football. He is a sure tackler.

TRYON-SLAGLE POINT BATTLE

"Triple Threaters" Feature Tiger-Colgate Game.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24.—It will be Jakie Slagle, the Prince of Orange, against Eddie Tryon, Marquis of the Maroon, in the final analysis of the Princeton-Colgate game in Palmer stadium this afternoon. Both are tripple threat men. Both can step. The field is dry. The footing fast. It should be quite a battle.

Slagle is the tow-headed speedster that the Canny Mr. Roper uncorked against Harvard last fall. He does everything there is to do with a football.

Tryon, the Colgate Cannon-ball, makes it a point to be the leading scorer in the East each fall, and is well on the way to that distinction again this year.

60,000 WILL SEE PENN BATTLE STAGG'S ELEVEN

By Davis J. Walsh.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Geographic rivals were to meet this afternoon for the fifth time in gridiron history and the football fans of two sections sat palpitant. Twenty-five years ago almost to the day, Alonzo Stagg, then a man in the full flush of youth, sent Chicago against Pennsylvania for the last time and the result was a 5 to 5 tie.

Since then, amicable but not liberal relations prevails and though the teams have stood as the football leaders of two great sections they never again met. As the issue stood before the game, Pennsylvania had the impressive record of never finishing second to Chicago, the series showing three local victories and the lone tie game.

Of all the games played between the pair, this one carried the biggest edge in national interest and a goodly crowd of not much less than 60,000 was to be there. Pennsylvania was fresh from a great victory over Yale last Saturday. Chicago came on as the co-leader with Michigan of the Western conference field. If the two teams were hand picked for the game, a greater natural rivalry could not have prevailed.

"We have a fighting chance,' said Stagg this morning and if he sat up all night to think that one over, he couldn't have expressed the situation more aptly. The Chicago team never existed that didn't have a fighting chance.

That's the kind of teams they turn out at Chicago. As a rule, they are fighting teams with a fool proof defense and a running attack that grinds rivals into the dust. Stagg never had a team that wasn't defensively perfect and this year's outfit is no exception. The team has a line averaging nearly 200 pounds to the individual hoof, a great plunger in McCarty and a certain scorer from the field in Bob Curley, light in weight but very heavy in ability.

Once inside in the 50-yard line, Curley misses about as often as the sun rises in the West.

The betting, if any, slightly favored Pennsylvania because if its reputed ability to step out with a lot of early speed. It was expected to get the jump on Chicago and then dire home on its defense, which was supposed to be a thing of beauty and joy forever. At that, Yale scored 13 points in the final half last Saturday but today's game was supposed to uncover sounder and more orthodox football.

The probable line-up:

BISONS-GENEVA IN 10TH CLASH

Beaver Falls Outfit Holds Edge on Bethany Rivals.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 24.—This afternoon the Bethany college football team wil stage the tenth gridiron battle of their athletic history with Geneva college. The record of the contests during the past 16 years of athletic relations gives the Beaver Falls college somewhat of an edge on the Bisons. The Geneva college eleven will meet an entirely different team this year than the one they battled last year and they will find that Coach Nuss turns out fighting teams, for such is the Bison eleven this year.

In 1923 the Bisons handed out their last defeat to the Covenanters. Carl Hamill, who was playing his first season of football for Bethany that year, was instrumental in scoring the lone touchdown of that game and it is this one man that will cause the Geneva gridders no little worry in their contest tomorrow. He has thrice crossed the goal line for the Green and White this season.

Dale Fiers, the husky Bison end who hails from West Palm Beach, Florida, will be at his regular position on the left end. Fiers has emerged from every game without a scratch. Just who will be at the other terminal is a question as Rhine, who has been at that position for the last three games, has been bothered for some time with a "charleyhorse." It may be that either Kuhn or Hamilton will repace Rhine.

Rice, however, has a very bad wrist, but in case he is not able to play, Brandon, a good sized New Cumberland, W. Va., lad, will take his place at the right position. Griffith and Serafini will probably be at the guard positions with either Scott or Price at center.

The fullback position will be filled by either Hamill or Dimick with Carey at quarter and Stobbs and Captain Loppacker at the halves.

Goose Goslin Has Better Luck With Auto Than With His Goat

"Goose" Goslin, heavy slugger of the Washington ball club, apparently had better luck with his automobile than his goat. When his car was stolen from in front of his fair one's home he recovered it in three or four hours.

In the late lamented (for Washlington) world's series, Earl Smith, Pirate catcher, stole Goslin's nanny and the Washington slugger never has recovered it.

Which may be either a sad commentary on the ability of ball park police or a tribute to Smith's genius in devising and carrying out a "perfect crime."

One feature of play of Chicago's football teams has come to be an integral part of Coach Stagg's system—a sort of traditional form.

This is the "Chicago" shift. In this shift the tackles are drawn back and there are three possible shifts by the backfield men, ranging from a one-step to a three-step shift. The varied number of plays which are started from this shift formation makes it a confusing one for the opposition. The defensive team cannot foretell whether the play is to be a kicking, passing or running one.

Navy football officials would feel much easier about the annual game with Princeton were the rules changed so that substitutes were eliminated.

For the last two years now a Princeton substitute has spilled tomato soup all over the bright colored vests of the Navy football diners. Last year one, Sam Ewing, sitting idly by during most of the game, stepped in at the psychological moment and kicked a field goal that placed the Annapolis team on the little end of the horn.

This year one, Dan Caulkins, sat unobtrusively on the second string bench until called upon to do his stuff. When called upon to do it he bidded his chance until he found a forward pass rolling loose about the gridiron. Recalling instructions of various coaches regarding just such an emergency he picked it up and lit out for home. Somebody tripped him as he neared the goal line, but he had lugged the ball from the shadow of the Princeton posts to within a few yards of the Navy line. Bridges carried the ball over for a touchdown a few moments later.

Years ago the early defeats sustained by the Harvard elevens meant little in the year's run. They were but practice events anyhow, leading up to the games with Yale and Princeton. Then came gloomy days when the season ended in a licking at the hands of one or both of the brother members of the Big Three. Got so, too, that earnest efforts to prevent the early season defeats met with little success.

Consequently, the recent beating handed Harvard by Holy Cross leaves a long face on John Harvard. Victories are needed to give Harvard confidence in its big games. Defeats are the galling habit now, not the fruit cocktail.

BOWLERS OPEN CARD MONDAY

Forbes "Scotty" Alcock's City Industrial bowlers will untangle the mades Monday night at the Liberty alleys in the first series of games of the 1925 26 season.

The circuit takes in eight teams from district manufacturing plants. They are: Laughlin 1, 4, 5 and 6, Taylor, Smith & Taylor, Trotters, Edwin M. Knowles and Hall China, the rosters including city, East End, Newell and Chester performers.

The league will bowl four nights a week—Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The schedule calls for two split seasons, of 14 weeks each, with a final series for the championship between the first and the second half winners.

Here's next week's schedule:

Tuesday—T. S. T. vs. Laughlin 1.

Wednesday—Trotters vs. E. M. Knowles.

Friday—Hall China vs. Laughlin 4.

Ohio U. Sics Jinx On Wesleyan Outfit

ATHENS, Oct. 24.—The Ohio University jinx, which has trailed Ohio Wesleyan like a shadow for the last two years, was trimmed, combed and generally sleeked up today in preparation for its formal presentation to the Methodists here on Saturday. Settlement of the Ohio Conference championship appears to rest with the performance of the jinx when let loose for the first time this year against a team from the Delaware school.

The jinx, in the form of a squad of eager football men, was put through light practice this afternoon. The period was chiefly a warming up affair, with some attention being given to minute points in the execution of certain plays. The squad is living as one large family at a fraternity house, and no player will have any free moments until game time.

Bike Champion Races In Chicago Tonight

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Freddie Spencer, Plainfield, N. J., bicycle champion of America, will make his initial debue before Chicago bike fans tonight, when he races Willie Spencer of Newark, N. J., and Reggie McNamara, also of Newark, in a three cornered preliminary to the international six-day race scheduled to star tomorrow. The race will be held in the Coliseum.

The international six-day race opening tomorrow will find 30 entries representing six nations on the tape ready for the starting gun.

Theodore Roosevelt's Birthday Will be Fittingly Observed

LANSING — Theodore Roosevelt's birthday, October 27, is to be marked throughout Michigan by special observance of the day in all schools. A letter sent out by T. E. Johnson, superintendent of public instructions, to all school heads, stated:

"I am suggesting that the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt be made the occasion of some special attention in the schools of Michigan. Mr. Roosevelt's life and work should be an inspiration to every child who finds himself handicapped early in life by a lack of physicial energy and ability. Certainly no person in history has made a greater place despite a serious handicap than Roosevelt."

The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

By Edgar Franklin Norris

CHAPTER 77.

Amoura set out early in the morning for Stone street, and its equally squalid neighbor, Green street, dressed simply and looking like the toiler in Bloom's candy factory, concerned only with wrapping endless chocolates and amassing enough precious coins to pay the rent, meet the weekly installment on the fur coat bought a year ago—when fur coats and silk stockings became the national peasant costume—and have enough left to see Ramon Navarro in his latest photoplay.

The evening before she had conceived a widely varying assortment of plans for teaching the poor of Westland to help themselves. She would, she decided, work independently of the local charities organization, and open a model house, organize classes in cookery, dressmaking, marketing, household management. Eventually there must be a community center, with a woman whose duty it would be to bring lonely young men and women together; swimming pools, billiard parlors, dances, programs of the better movies, play classes for children.

In her mind she could see the splendid building; she would make her father, as an anonymous donor, provide the necessary funds. As for the money for her initial efforts, she would extract that from the Ainsley principal, too.

She went on foot, enjoying the invigorating early morning air, and resolving to adhere to the "early to bed, early to rise" maxim. By the time she reached the foot of Indian Hill and traversed Main street six blocks, Stone street was, with Green street, pouring workers into the factories. Crowded streets became in a short time, almost deserted. Here and there dirty children played. Some wives haggled with hucksters. On a corner was a loafer or two.

Amoura was the subject of the curiosity of all who saw her in Stone street. She paused at Tillie's house and thought of going in, but went on, feeling uncomfortable. The ugliness of it! Would she be able to stand it down here, while she was endeavoring to help these people? Her determination met the challenge and flamed higher.

Near where Green street crosses, or collides with, for there are only a few shacks beyond, the railroad tracks, she saw a house that she thought would be excellent for her "homemakers' institute." A once grand residence, now like a discarded Rolls-Royce in a junkyard. Inhabited, it seemed, by swarms of swarthy children. She took the number with the idea of having the family lawyer find out how it could be purchased.

Down here, a half mile below Indian Hill geographically, but miles below Indian Hill in the scale of human existence, was, she felt in her youthful enthusiasm, a great field for useful work. She felt the call to service. Almost fondly she looked again at the squalid district as she reclimbed the winding streets that led to her home.

There, pencil and paper in hand, she made new plans and calculations. Luncheon was an interlude. In the afternoon she drew up a chart of courses she thought the institute ought to have, and decided how many co-workers she would need. How to go about getting them? Girls like Lucia Berryman? No. Here was a problem. She was still occupied with it when, at 4 o'clock, Tommy Loughley telephoned.

"I just got into town," he announced. "I'm so glad you're able to stop here, Tommy. We expect you to dinner tonight."

"Really—."

"No excuses, Tommy. You're to be the only guest. At 7, please."

Amoura chose to wear the red crepe gown, and it made her a lovely picture.

"Ah ha," said her father, insinuatingly, when he got a glimpse of her passing through the upper hall from her own suite to her mother's. "Almost as beautiful as your mother was when she was your age."

"What's that, Reginald?" Mrs. Ainsley called out.

Her husband, as if he was embarrassed by her hearing the compliment, went on downstairs, saying, "Nothing, my dear, nothing."

Mrs. Ainsley laughed when Amoura repeated his words. "Reginald has never forgotten to be gallant."

"No, he hasn't," Amoura admitted, recalling her father's "lonely" evening in Chicago, and his explanation.

Tommy was resplendent in his evening clothes, and was at his best in them. He never was impressive in a "business suit" or sport clothes, but put him in a carefully tailored dress coat and he was the personification of manliness.

Amoura presented him to her parents in the library. J. Reginald beamed beneficently; Mrs. Ainsley smiled politely. Tommy, uncomfortable in their presence, perhaps, was reticent, advancing only conventional inquiries. At the dinner table he was brighter, however. It was easy to see he was relieved when dinner was over, and, having smoked a cigar and had liquors with his host, he was alone in the library with Amoura.

"I simply had to see you," he said.

Johnson's very words, she thought. Do all men say the same things?

"I wanted to tell you—."

She knew very well what he was going to say, and wondered, as he hesitated, what reply she would make.

DR. LANDRITH TO SPEAK HERE

County C. E. Union Engages Famed Lecturer.

One of the outstanding events of the early winter in East Liverpool is the coming of Dr. Ira Landrith of Chicago, nationally famed lecturer and reform leader. He is scheduled to speak at the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday evening, Nov. 15.

Dr. Landrith's engagement has been made by the Columbiana County Christian Endeavor Union, and his meeting is open to the public without charge. He is giving practically all of his time at present in the interest of the youth of America, actively functioning in connection with the United Society of Christian Endeavor.

Dr. Landrith has spent the months of September and October in Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma and other southwestern states, and is engaged in Ohio the first 15 days of November, going directly thence to New York state for three weeks immediately following. The citizens of East Liverpool are fortunate in being able to hear this man who has been foremost in great inter-church causes, prohibition and peace movements for more than 25 years.

$20,000,000 In Gems Sacrificed Yearly in Burial With The Dead

CHICAGO.—People of the United States sacrifice twenty million dollars annually that is buried with the dead. This amount in jewelry alone is buried to preserve in the minds of the living a certain sentiment and regard for the deceased.

"Two billion dollars in gold and jewels lie under 6 feet of ground in this country," said Federick W. Patterson of Atlanta, Ga., president of the National Selected Morticians. This amount has accumulated since the birth of America.

The custom of burying jewels with the dead originated in early Egypt, where it was believed that the deceased carried valuables to a new world. In recent years, however, the custom is maintained merely as an expression of regard for the dead. The jewels buried are usually articles that were cherished in life by the deceased.

IF AUTOMOBILES BURNED COAL AND CARRIED AN ASH PAN—

Suppose an automobile burned coal. It would be necessary to have an ash pan into which the cinders and clinkers could drop.

The crankcase of a gasoline-burning automobile is its "ash pan." All the unburned portions of its fuel will pass the piston rings and enter the lubricating oil, thinning it and causing cylinder wear and bearing trouble.

The remedy of course, is to keep the motor in good mechanical condition, to use only MARATHON GASOLINE—and finally, and most important, to employ

MARATHON MOTOR OIL

ARTICLE VIII, SECTION 13

PROPOSING TO AMEND ARTICLE VIII OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO BY THE ADDITION OF A NEW SECTION, TO BE DESIGNATED AS ARTICLE VIII, SECTION 13, RELATIVE TO THE INCURRING OF INDEBTEDNESS BY POLITICAL SUBDIVISIONS.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, in the manner provided by law on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to add a new section to the constitution to be known as article VIII, section 13, to read as follows:

ARTICLE VIII.

Sec. 13. No bonds, notes, certificates of indebtedness or other evidence of indebtedness shall be issued by any county, school district, township, municipal corporation or other political subdivision or taxing district for current operating expense, or for the acquisition or construction of any property or improvement having an estimated usefulness of less than five years; but laws may be passed authorizing borrowing for a period not exceeding six months in anticipation of the collection of revenue in and for the current fiscal year in which such indebtedness is incurred, or authorizing indebtedness in anticipation of the levy or collection of special assessments or for defraying the expenses of an extraordinary epidemic of disease or emergency expenses made necessary by sudden casualty which could not reasonably have been foreseen, or to provide for the payment of final judgments for personal injuries or other non-contractual obligations. No bonds or notes issued for the acquisition or construction of property or improvements shall run for longer than the probable period of usefulness of such property or improvements, to be estimated as determined as provided by laws fixing maximum maturities herein authorized. Laws shall be passed to fix the fiscal year of political subdivisions and taxing districts and to designate the boards or officers by whom and the manner in which the estimates as to the period of usefulness of property or improvements shall be made and certified. Within the limitations of this section laws may be passed fixing the maximum maturity of bonds or notes issued for any purpose or class of purposes.

Be it further resolved That at such election, above referred to, this proposal shall be placed on the official ballot, in the manner provided by law in such form as the secretary of state may designate. If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, this amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1926.

Adopted March 27, 1925.

PROPOSING TO AMEND ARTICLE XII, SECTION 2 OF THE CONSTITUTION SO AS TO PROVIDE FOR TAXATION BY UNIFORM RULE OF ALL REAL ESTATE AND TANGIBLE PROPERTY EXCEPT MOTOR VEHICLES, AND TO PROVIDE FOR THE TAXATION OF INTANGIBLE PROPERTY.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to amend article XII, section 2 of the constitution of the state of Ohio, to read as follows:

ARTICLE XII.

Sec. 2. Laws shall be passed, taxing by a uniform rule all real estate and improvements thereon and all tangible personal property, according to their true value in money, excepting motor vehicles which shall be taxed as may be provided by law. All moneys, credits, bonds, stocks and all other intangible property shall be taxed as may be provided by law.

But all bonds outstanding on the first day of January 1913 of the state of Ohio or of any city, village, hamlet, county or township in this state or which have been issued in behalf of the public schools in Ohio and the means of instruction in connection therewith, and all bonds issued under article VIII, section 2a of this constitution for the world war compensation fund, shall be exempt from taxation, and burying grounds, public school houses, houses used exclusively for public worship, institutions used exclusively for charitable purposes, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, and tangible personal property, to an amount not exceeding in value five hundred dollars for any individual, may by general laws, be exempted from taxation; and laws may be passed to provide against the double taxation that results from the taxation of both the real estate and the mortgage or the debt secured thereby, or other lien upon it, but all such laws shall be subject to alteration or repeal; and the value of all property, so exempted, shall, from time to time, be ascertained and published as may be directed by law.

Be it further resolved, That at such election, above referred to, this amendment shall be placed on the official ballot, in the manner provided by law, in such form as the secretary of state may designate.

If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, this amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1926, and original section 2 of article XII of the constitution shall be repealed and annulled.

Adopted March 25, 1925.

ARTICLE III, SECTION 2; ARTICLE X, SECTION 2

PROPOSING TO AMEND SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE III, SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE X AND TO REPEAL SECTION 2 OF ARTICLE XVII AND SECTION 3 OF ARTICLE X OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, TO PROVIDE FOR TERMS OF OFFICE OF NOT LESS THAN FOUR YEARS.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1925, a proposal to amend section 2 of article III and section 2 of article X, and to repeal section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio to read as follows:

ARTICLE III.

Sec. 2. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor and attorney general shall hold their offices for four years. Their terms of office shall commence on the first Monday of January next after their election, and continue until their successors are elected and qualified.

ARTICLE X

Sec. 2. All elective county officers shall be elected on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, by the electors of each county for a period of four years.

Be it further resolved, That at the election, above referred to, such proposal shall be placed on the official ballot, in such manner as the secretary of state may designate.

If the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, the amendment shall go into effect January 1, 1926, and original section 2 of article III, and section 2 of article X, and section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio shall be repealed and annulled. The General Assembly shall have power to so adjust or extend existing terms of office as to effect the purpose of the foregoing amendment.

Adopted April 17, 1925.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
STATE OF OHIO.
Office of the Secretary of State.

I, THAD H. BROWN, Secretary of State, of the State of Ohio, do hereby certify that the foregoing are exemplified copies, carefully compared by me with the originals now on file in my office and in my official custody as Secretary of State and found to be true and correct, of a Joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on March 27, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, on April 4, 1925, proposing to amend article VIII of the constitution of the state of Ohio by the addition of a new section, to be designated as article VIII, section 13, relative to the incurring of indebtedness by political subdivisions, and of a joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on March 26, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, on April 4, 1925, proposing to amend article XII, section 2 of the Constitution so as to provide for taxation by uniform rule of all real estate and tangible property except motor vehicles, and to provide for the taxation of intangible property, and of a Joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on April 17, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, April 21, 1925, proposing to amend section 2 of article III, section 2 of article X and to repeal section 2 of article XVII and section 3 of article X of the constitution of the state of Ohio, to provide for terms of office of not less than four years.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 1st day of September, A. D. 1925.

[Seal] Secretary of State.

Theodore Roosevelt's Birthday Will be Fittingly Observed

LANSING — Theodore Roosevelt's birthday, October 27, is to be marked throughout Michigan by special observance of the day in all schools. A letter sent out by T. E. Johnson, superintendent of public instructions, to all school heads, stated:

"I am suggesting that the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt be made the occasion of some special attention in the schools of Michigan. Mr. Roosevelt's life and work should be an inspiration to every child who finds himself handicapped early in life by a lack of physicial energy and ability. Certainly no person in history has made a greater place despite a serious handicap than Roosevelt."

The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

By Edgar Doe Norris

CHAPTER 77.

Amoura set out early in the morning for Stone street, and its equally squalid neighbor, Green street, dressed simply and looking like the toiler in Bloom's candy factory, concerned only with wrapping endless chocolates and amassing enough precious coins to pay the rent, meet the weekly installment on the fur coat bought a year ago—when fur coats and silk stockings became the national peasant costume—and have enough left to see Ramon Navarro in his latest photoplay.

The evening before she had conceived a widely varying assortment of plans for teaching the poor of Westland to help themselves. She would, she decided, work independently of the local charities organization, and open a model house, organize classes in cookery, dressmaking, marketing, household management. Eventually there must be a community center, with a woman whose duty it would be to bring lonely young men and women together; swimming pools, billiard parlors, dances, programs of the better movies, play classes for children.

In her mind she could see the splendid building; she would make her father, as an anonymous donor, provide the necessary funds. As for the money for her initial efforts, she would extract that from the Ainsley principal, too.

She went on foot, enjoying the invigorating early morning air, and resolving to adhere to the "early to bed, early to rise" maxim. By the time she reached the foot of Indian Hill and traversed Main street six blocks, Stone street was, with Green street, pouring workers into the factories. Crowded streets became in a short time, almost deserted. Here and there dirty children played. Some wives haggled with hucksters. On a corner was a loafer or two.

Amoura was the subject of the curiosity of all who saw her in Stone street. She paused at Tillie's house and thought of going in, but went on, feeling uncomfortable. The ugliness of it! Would she be able to stand it down here, while she was endeavoring to help these people? Her determination met the challenge and flamed higher.

Near where Green street crosses, or collides with, for there are only a few shacks beyond, the railroad tracks, she saw a house that she thought would be excellent for her "homemakers' institute." A once grand residence, now like a discarded Rolls-Royce in a junkyard. Inhabited, it seemed, by swarms of swarthy children. She took the number with the idea of having the family lawyer find out how it could be purchased.

Down here, a half mile below Indian Hill geographically, but miles below Indian Hill in the scale of human existence, was, she felt in her youthful enthusiasm, a great field for useful work. She felt the call to service. Almost fondly she looked again at the squalid district as she reclimbed the winding streets that led to her home.

There, pencil and paper in hand, she made new plans and calculations. Luncheon was an interlude. In the afternoon she drew up a chart of courses she thought the institute ought to have, and decided how many co-workers she would need. How to go about getting them? Girls like Lucia Berryman? No. Here was a problem. She was still occupied with it when, at 4 o'clock, Tommy Loughley telephoned.

"I just got into town," he announced.

"I'm so glad you're able to stop here, Tommy. We expect you to dinner tonight."

"Really—."

"No excuses, Tommy. You're to be the only guest. At 7, please."

Amoura chose to wear the red crepe gown, and it made her a lovely picture.

"Ah ha," said her father, insinuatingly, when he got a glimpse of her passing through the upper hall from her own suite to her mother's. "Almost as beautiful as your mother was when she was your age."

"What's that, Reginald?" Mrs. Ainsley called out.

Her husband, as if he was embarrassed by her hearing the compliment, went on downstairs, saying, "Nothing, my dear, nothing."

Mrs. Ainsley laughed when Amoura repeated his words. "Reginald has never forgotten to be gallant."

"No, he hasn't," Amoura admitted, recalling her father's "lonely" evening in Chicago, and his explanation.

Tommy was resplendent in his evening clothes, and was at his best in them. He never was impressive in a "business suit" or sport clothes, but put him in a carefully tailored dress coat and he was the personification of manliness.

Amoura presented him to her parents in the library. J. Reginald beamed beneficently; Mrs. Ainsley smiled politely. Tommy, uncomfortable in their presence, perhaps, was reticent, advancing only conventional inquiries. At the dinner table he was brighter, however. It was easy to see he was relieved when dinner was over, and, having smoked a cigar and had liquors with his host, he was alone in the library with Amoura.

"I simply had to see you," he said.

Johnson's very words, she thought. Do all men say the same things?

"I wanted to tell you—."

She knew very well what he was going to say, and wondered, as he hesitated, what reply she would make.

DR. LANDRITH TO SPEAK HERE

County C. E. Union Engages Famed Lecturer.

One of the outstanding events of the early winter in East Liverpool is the coming of Dr. Ira Landrith of Chicago, nationally famed lecturer and reform leader. He is scheduled to speak at the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday evening, Nov. 15.

Dr. Landrith's engagement has been made by the Columbiana County Christian Endeavor Union, and his meeting is open to the public without charge. He is giving practically all of his time at present in the interest of the youth of America, actively functioning in connection with the United Society of Christian Endeavor.

Dr. Landrith has spent the months of September and October in Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma and other southwestern states, and is engaged in Ohio the first 15 days of November, going directly thence to New York state for three weeks immediately following. The citizens of East Liverpool are fortunate in being able to hear this man who has been foremost in great inter-church causes, prohibition and peace movements for more than 25 years.

$20,000,000 In Gems Sacrificed Yearly in Burial With The Dead

CHICAGO.—People of the United States sacrifice twenty million dollars annually that is buried with the dead. This amount in jewelry alone is buried to preserve in the minds of the living a certain sentiment and regard for the deceased.

"Two billion dollars in gold and jewels lie under 6 feet of ground in this country," said Federick W. Patterson of Atlanta, Ga., president of the National Selected Morticians. This amount has accumulated since the birth of America.

The custom of burying jewels with the dead originated in early Egypt, where it was believed that the deceased carried valuables to a new world. In recent years, however, the custom is maintained merely as an expression of regard for the dead. The jewels buried are usually articles that were cherished in life by the deceased.

IF AUTOMOBILES BURNED COAL AND CARRIED AN ASH PAN—
Suppose an automobile burned coal. It would be necessary to have an ash pan into which the cinders and clinkers could drop.
The crankcase of a gasoline-burning automobile is its "ash pan." All the unburned portions of its fuel will pass the piston rings and enter the lubricating oil, thinning it and causing cylinder wear and bearing trouble.
The remedy of course, is to keep the motor in good mechanical condition, to use only MARATHON GASOLINE—and finally, and most important, to employ
MARATHON MOTOR OIL
